I would like to support eeg biofeedback (also called neurofeedback) being supported in the upcoming regulations. This is a very helpful way to help patients with a variety of brain based problems (e.g. ADHD, Mood or Anxiety Disorders, Seizure Disorders, etc.) It is a clinically effective, and cost effective option for patients that is rarely reimbursed by insurance companies, thus it ends up being an option for only a smaller percentage of patients who could benefit from this.

Respectfully,
