General Comment

My 24 year old son was covered by his dad's medical insurance until he graduated from college and married 2 weeks ago. We were very pleased when we thought he could stay on the insurance until he turned 26 while attending medical school. Now his dad's insurance says , "no, they don't follow those rules, because they are "privitized". I thought all insurance was private, unless you had Medicare, Medicaid, or VA coverage. Is this true?
