General Comment

Since birth control drugs and abortion inducing drugs are commercially available, women that wish to use these drugs can easily obtain them. No one is trying to make them illegal even if they are harmful both to the women taking them and the baby. However, forcing employers to pay for these drugs is unfair and violates their religious and conscientious rights by these new guidelines and its narrow religious exemptions. I urge HCC to withdraw the Interim Final Rule that created these illegal narrow religious exemption. Please replace it with an exemptin that will allow ALL employers to follw their conscience as it relates to providing birth control or abortion inducing drugs. thank you.
