I want to voice my deep concern about the health care mandate that I just read about. To make private health insurance cover contraceptives and sterilization procedures against strongly held religious belief is intolerable. If you do not decide to change the rule altogether, I ask that you provide a wider definition for those who could object and opt out, either individually or corporately, with a moral or religious objection, to providing these options of murdering a young life.

I do not advocate the US government forcing free insurance coverage on Americans that include elements held to be odious to one's belief of the sanctity of life and when that life begins.

Sincerely,
