General Comment

In reviewing the template for summary of coverage I have a concern about the box for "what is the premium". Most employers have multiple plans that have different premiums depending on whether the person enrolls only themselves, themselves and a spouse, themselves and children, etc. If we need a separate 6-8 page summary for each premium level we would inundate employees with a lot of paper. It would make more sense to do one summary for a plan and list the premiums for each tier on one summary.
