General Comment

So long as the FCC is going to block Net Neutrality, it's ridiculous to assume that every American is going to have equal access to online resources. Keeping paper notifications the norm that people must opt-out of is the only way to be certain that individuals will be able to get the information that they need.

To pretend otherwise is to make it even more clear that you are no longer the Department of Labor, but rather the Department of Industry and one more chain on the working classes.
