General Comment

My husband and I worked hard throughout our life. My husband was one of twelve children. We were married and he went to college. We had two children during his college years. I went to college after he graduated with a BS in ED. I had another child while I was in college. I earned a BS in ED. We both worked, raised our children, and saved for our retirement. We are now 79 and 80 years old and you want to take our retirement that we worked for and saved. I dont here the current administration talk about investigating waste and fraud that is throughout the government. All I hear is spend and tax.
