Federal Registrar John smith,

When I was with the federal government, there was no option for investing our savings in government funds that avoided nuclear power, fossil fuels, and companies that exploited their workers. That always felt wrong to me. It's because is WAS wrong.

Then the Trump administration made it worse.

It must be made possible for workers' and retirees' savings to be invested in safe and sustainable ways that promote healthy returns, a healthy economy, and a healthy society and planet.

That means ensuring that the updated rules fully reverse the Trump-era rules by eliminating all prohibitions and burdens that discourage retirement plans from considering workplace safety, climate impact, racial equity, and other conditions that affect the long-term sustainability of the business.

Please nix these baneful Trump-era rules. It'll actually be better financially for retirees, and better socially for us all.
