Conditions of Eligibility

Coverage for Death Benefit

A death benefit is payable under the Longshore Act, or related law, if a covered employee dies as a result of work-related injury or occupational disease.

Who is eligible for a Death Benefit?

1. The deceased worker's widow or widower living with or dependent for support at the time of death; or widow or widower living apart for good cause or because of desertion by worker.

2. Unmarried child(ren) under age 18, or if over 18: (a) was (were) wholly dependent on deceased worker and unable to support self(ves) because of mental or physical disability, or (b) student(s) up to age 23 (must meet certain requirements). Includes a posthumous child, legally adopted child, child to whom deceased acted as parent for one year before injury, stepchild, or acknowledged illegitimate child.

3. If the combined amount due a surviving widow or widower and child or children is not greater than two-thirds (66 and 2/3 percent) of the worker's average weekly wages subject to a maximum benefit of 200 percent of the national average weekly wage, a benefit is payable for any one of the following: Grandchildren, brothers or sisters (if dependent at time of injury), parents, grandparents, or others satisfying legal requirements of dependency. (Consult the Office of Workers' Compensation Programs for more information.)

What terminates widow's or widower's benefits?

1. Death

2. Remarriage, in which case the widow or widower receives a lump sum payment of two year's compensation.

What evidence is needed to support a claim?

1. Widow or widower. Proof of marriage to deceased worker. If either party was married before, proof that earlier marriage was legally ended. A certified copy of the final divorce decree, or proof of death of a previous marriage partner may be required before benefits are paid. Certified copy of the death certificate of the deceased worker.

2. Children - Certified copy of birth certificate or Order of Adoption. If a legal guardian has been appointed, a certified copy of the Letters of Guardianship.

Time requirement of filing claim

Within one year of employee's death. The time may not begin to run, however, until the person claiming the benefit would reasonably have related the employee's death to his or her employment. In case of death due to an occupational disease, a claim may be filed within two years after the claimant becomes aware, or in the exercise of reasonable diligence or by reason of medical advice should have been aware, of the relationship between the employment, the disease and the death.

Privacy Act Notice

In accordance with the Privacy Act of 1974, as amended (5 U.S.C. 552a) you are hereby notified that (1) the Longshore and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, as amended and extended (33 U.S.C. 901 et seq.) (LHWCA) is administered by the Office of Workers' Compensation Programs of the U.S. Department of Labor, which receives and maintains personal information on claimants and their immediate families. (2) Information which the Office has will be used to determine eligibility for and the amount of benefits payable under the LHWCA. (3) Information may be given to the employer which employed the claimant at the time of injury, or to the insurance carrier or other entity which secured the employer's compensation liability. (4) Information may be given to physicians and other medical service providers for use in providing treatment or medical/vocational rehabilitation, making evaluations and for other purposes relating to the medical management of the claim. (5) Information may be given to the Department of Labor's Office of Administrative Law Judges (OALJ), or other person, board or organization, which is authorized or required to render decisions with respect to the claim or other matter arising in connection with the claim. (6) Information may be given to Federal, state and local agencies for law enforcement purposes, to obtain information relevant to a decision under the LHWCA, to determine whether benefits are being or have been paid properly, and, where appropriate, to persue salary/administrative offset and debt collection actions required or permitted by law. Disclosure of the claimant's Social Security Number (SSN) or tax identifying number (TIN) on this form is mandatory. The SSN and/or TIN and other information maintained by the Office may be used for identification, and for other purposes authorized by law. (8) Failure to disclose all requested information may delay the processing of the claim, the payment of benefits, or may result in an unfavorable decision or reduced level of benefits.

Note: The notice applies to all forms requesting information that you might receive from the Office in connection with the processing and/or adjudication of the claim you filed under the LHWCA and related statutes.
