Good afternoon,

After reading the below DISTURBING article I felt compelled to respond - being that I am a participant in my employers 401k plan. I thought this country was based on freedom of speech and the right to choose what suits our lifestyle and our plans for the future. I thought that this country was a democracy, but it appears that we are being robbed of our right to choose what is best for ourselves and our family. It started with the health care system and now filtering over into our retirement plan. When does it stop? When will the government start focusing on what really matters, like figuring out how to monitor the spending of government agencies, which has put this country in the hole that we are in today. As a result of the deficit we may not even have social security benefits available to us after all of the money we have paid into it over the years. Now that is something that the government should be sitting down to discuss - how to figure out ways to provide benefits to those who have been paying into the system for years.

I truly hope that the below article does not come to fruition and that the powers that be step in and stop this madness from occurring.

Regards,

Carmen Vogl
