General Comment

Anything this current government thinks it can or will do to benefit the people in the United States is a lie. The only thing this government has proven time and time again is that the government only looks out for it's self. Special interest groups with their money can get anything in todays USA. The goverment is so out of control you think you are small Gods and do no wrong.

I can come nothing and had nothing but I worked two full time jobs for over four years to make sure my family didn't go without as I had to when I grew up. People in this country today think they should have everything they want right now and to hell with paying for it now or later. The United States Goverment today thinks the same way, just spend,spend and spend some more to hell with having to pay for anything now or later.

And just so you know, it's a bunch of crap that someone else did it for me. Blood sweat and tears got what I have today and I say leave my retirement alone. Any thing you say would just be another lie so save your breath and save the lies for someone else.

Regards,
