It is beyond belief that in a country founded on fairness and equality, financial advisers have to be legally required to act in the best interests of their customers. Next, we will have to have a law requiring doctors to give their patients the correct treatment for their disease!

I am unprotected, because the State of TX stole 75% of my 30 years paying into the social security system, since I receive a meager teacher's pension. I paid into both systems most of my life, yet thanks to GWB/Tom Delay, and other GOP/Tea Party corrupt politicians, I am constantly facing homelessness. There must be a lock-box on Social Security, and strict regulations as to securing retirement security.

My wife invested into a retirement account and told them that she wanted a safe investment. After investing over $3600 over 3 years her account was worth about $600. The person from Smith Barney said keep sending $100 a month and it should get better, I told her to get out because the account was losing about $130 a month. these loses are not taxes deductible.

This sounds great, but doubt it can be enforced. (I had supposedly great "brokers" handling my IRA when I got too busy with work to handle my own investing, but somehow it never grew above what I had input myself - then for years I got class action lawsuits that might pay me back $5 of $5,000 or so that I had lost.)

Most of us already assumed that our financial advisors were operating with our best interest in mind. It's disconcerting to realize that under current law, they do not have that legal responsibility. I support President Obama's and Senator Warren's call for making it a legal responsibility of financial advisors and institutions to act according to the best interests of their clients.

YES YES YES. In our pension plan, one of the most prestigious of teacher pension plans, we were SHOCKED to say the least when one of the professors came in and told us she had just checked her portfolio, since she had added her inheritance estate to her pension plan folder.....and she had been bleeding out $35,000 a DAY due to ENRON, WorldCom and that scandal. Most of us had nowhere near that amount, but I was told by an outside advisor that due to the losses in my portfolio, I would have to pay several THOUSAND dollars a month until I reach 70 to be able to scrape along when I retire. NOT great news. I NEVER told them to invest in any of those companies. BUT, most of us had signed into a three tiered program and trusted them. HOW wrong.....they had NO financial obligation to us.

This should have been law all along and it's inconceivable that financial advisors don't have to have investors' best interests at heart when investing OUR money. In addition to this law, all fees should have to be disclosed in an annual statement to investors.

It is vital to protect American's retirement security. It is far from easy to understand Wall St. and most financial dealings these days. there are a few average retirees who really study and understand the marketplace. I am not one of them. I not ignorant and have tried to understand the workings but I need courses to even understand the jargon. I don't really know if my investor is working in my best interest or not. I like to think he does but I just really don't know. Retirement money needs to be relatively secure and you need to be able to trust that your financial planner is working in your best interest rather than theirs.

This is a no-brainer, and yet it's going to take a huge push-back against monied interests in order for this to happen. My family votes and will be watching how our Senators and Congresspeople vote on this issue. Thank you.

I support new rules that would require financial advisers to act in the interest of their customers rather than for their own financial gain. Their job should be to take care of their customers. It's just the right thing to do! Just as doctors should put the need of their patients first it should be true for the financial advisers! Thank you.

One company where i worked offered employees an investment program. We were shocked to find that the boss's wife, who was offering to administer the program, chose our potential plan based solely on how much of a commission SHE would receive. It would have severely eaten into our investments, so we refused her self-serving offer. Such rapacity should be illegal.

They have worked for decades and contributed to retirement. It is earned and deserved. Congress, do the right thing and give all workers their retirement!!!! Congress, you can give up your retirement! We never hear that option being offered! Congress, get a real job where real work is required.

This would help to level the playing field assuming it penalizes financial advisors for creating or saving money for their wealthiest clients at the expense of their other clients (e.g., "making a market" in shares at risk of decline to facilitate large shareholders in selling before "bad news" is more widely known).

I find it appalling that this is even an issue and that our own Congress would vote in favor of protecting financial advisors over the interest of their customers. Could Congress just for once do what is morally right instead of what gets them reelected. You guys should be ashamed of yourselves.

Fiduciary responsibility should be required. This is an important rule that would help American citizens build solid retirement accounts. Our financial institutions that manage these accounts are charging us fees so they should have to act in our interest. Of course, Wall Street will be wailing and gnashing their teeth over this - please stand firm against their crocodile tears.

This is vitally important because people wouldn't be getting financial advice if they knew how to go about it. If financial advisors are supposed to be helping people, then they won't object to these rules. If they are fleecing their clients, then that's another story. Clearly, we need this legislation now, since financial institutions don't seem to care about anything but their own gain.

We need to stop this unethical process that has continuously been happening for awhile now. Every American citizen should be treated fairly, equally, and respectfully, especially when it comes to their hard earned income even for many who struggle to find a job or career. I thought that's what financial advisers do but they only care about their own interests or helping their position in their jobs, or whatever financial firm, or business they're affiliated with. Retirees should be able to walk out of their appointments with full confidence, and trust that their advisors have done the job right and fairly.

The SCOTUS and POTUS know what to do to be respecters of citizens and our Constitution -- but they don't do it. I am tired of begging them to do the right thing, when they only trade it for BUCK$$$$. Hold your nose for 99% of these sub-humans.

It is disturbing that we have to have rules to protect people from Wall Street advisors. It is implied that if a citizen hires someone to perform any service, the providers will act in the interest of the customer. To do otherwise is a breach of a contract and should have legal remedies,

This is step in the right direction. This comment box is not the place to begin ranting about the changes I hope our country makes in the next decade, but at least I can begin to express my sentiments. This is a critical step forward in the manner in which the Department of Labor interacts and assists American citizens. Please honor their wishes and enact these new rules to help protect the retirement security of future generations.

It is important that investors be protected from churning, inappropriate investments, and other dangers that they may not have the financial sophistication to evaluate. This is doubly important because anyone can call themselves a financial advisor, and there is no certifying agency or body to attest that the potential advisor has any knowledge of markets, legal frameworks, etc.

Long overdue. I had an unscrupulous adviser and parent company that changed names whenever the lawsuits grew too many. The result was I lost most of my investments because of greed and lack of conscience. I was 59 1/2 at the time and in a position to have accrued a comfortable 750-1 million when the bottom fell out. The good news is I salvaged what was left and placed it in a product that will pay out for my lifetime. Granted, it isn't a large sum, but it's keeping me from being homeless. Another result of cause and effect is the adviser died at a young age from a second bout with leukemia. It doesn't pay to trick karma. He's gone and I'm still here.

Corruption as you know is at an all time high, and needs to be stopped dead in it's tracks. Ethics need to be returned to our Governmental Process if we are to remain a democracy. Thank you !

In my heart there is deep gratitude to Franklin Delano Roosevelt for having designed a single payer system for those of us who have nothing but our jobs to get us through until tomorrow. What would a person such as myself, who is single, with no significant bank account do, when they are too old to work any longer due to health problems, without the Social Security System? I never want to be forced to take the insignificant earnings, I make each year and invest them in anything that is not an insured thing. One thing is crystal clear that slowly, and surely the rich are fleecing the poor for whatever money they can get out of them, and their efforts are self-centered and merciless. That is why I support Elizabeth Warren, and President Obama in their joined efforts to STOP the greedy from destroying those who work for a living. Many of whom are not truly making a living. Where will it end?

Americans deserve assurances that financial investments they make are honestly represented, managed competently and for their benefit, and protected to the fullest extent possible to achieve the ultimate objective. These investments should not be an open trough for Wall Street players to play with to their benefit.

As a member of a faith-based financial services organization, Thrivent, I hold my financial advisor to an especially high standard. This should be a no-brainer, but professional certification is not new and would protect those who are victimized by unscrupulous advisors.

Unfortunately, I can attest to the need for these new rules. I was victimized by a private, for profit financial consulting firm who was operating under the guised of a, not-for-profit, credit union. This gave me the impression that under the management oversight of the credit union, they had my best interests in mind. They offered an incentive bonus of 5% per $100k of investment money for a guaranteed minimum return of 2%. At the end of the year they declared I had earned 6% on my $100k investment, but the problem was, as it turned out, they were including the, so called, 5% bonus incentive money they suckered me with to get my money. Originally it was a bonus incentive and suddenly at the end of the year that same money has morphed into interest. I'm pretty sure there is a name for this and it's called 'fraud'.

Wall Street almost sunk our family in 2008 and no one would listen or do anything. Investors should be held to the same bar of quality that lawyers and judges are held to. A potential of losing the right to trade for life is reasonable if they break there represented investors trust.

Protect Americans' retirement security and supporting the new rules that would require financial advisers to act in the interest of their customers rather than for your own financial gain. BE FOR THE PEOPLE and join the president's call to the Department of Labor to issue these rules, and don't let congressional action undermine this COMMONSENSE EFFORT.

The need to get a signed, formal "fiduciary responsibility" statement from a financial advisor -- for obvious reasons, they don't like to provide them, fearing future liabilities, even with the best of intentions -- will be circumvented by this law, with the same benefit to the consumer/client and NO detriment to the advisor, if he is already working in the best interests of the client, as they always claim to be doing, based on personal choices and professed professional ethics.

Savings and loan scandal of the 80's...increased FICA payments and the Social Security Trust Fund...Wall Street bailout...pension and retirement fund irregularities...financial advisors to the working class....all point to the those who work, plan, sacrifice and save only to be victimized at the end by the unscrupulous. The worst part of it all is they are aided and abetted by a government supposedly designed in part for "the public good". Thank you, Mr President and Senator Warren, for moving to plug one hole in the sieve that represents the dome of protection for America's middle and working class.

I think this is an essential rule - that would require financial advisors to act in the interest of their customers rather than acting to enhance their own financial gain. Most Americans, myself included (and I am a lawyer) are not knowledgeable about investments. And I switched to a fee only financial advisor only after I had retired when I finally realized that other advisors were making money from their advice. Please support the Department of Labor in issuing these rules and vote against any action Congress may attempt to take to undermine such rules. Thank you in advance for your support of this effort.

When I was a mortgage banker I sure was required to work for my customer's best financial interest. It's head-slappingly obvious that all professionals working in banking, investments, and related fields should feel honor bound to do the same; if the law even needs to explicitly state this, then it is a sad state of affairs.

Please protect the Retirees, they worked hard for their Retirement Funds. I had a sweet auntie who lost of several thousand dollars in original ATT Stock and San Diego Gas & Electric Stock because of the Floating fund her Stockbroker put her in...She trusted him because he was young and would flirt with her. She was 70 yrs old and a widow at that time. What he did to her was unconscienable. She died in 2011 and she never recovered her losses. Isabella Virgilio, San Diego, CA

Do Republicans in rural areas know that MoveOn is doing this? Can we extend our campaign to deal with the unbalanced Terms of Service agreements for software we all sign - without reading? Can we start building a coalition of grassroots organizers that shows up at each others issue-specific events in a particular geographic area - in preparation for 2016?

This country belongs to the People-ALL of us. Wall Street had better not forget that. We don't have the money the fewest rich do- but we have NUMBERS. And when you mess with the hard-earned cash of a lot of people, it's like messing with a hornet's nest. Bad enough there's been so much hurt dumped on the poor of this country, who have few voices to advocate for them.

These Rules are important. As a recent retiree I was contacted by an advisor/broker who tried to convince me to move my 401K from my old employer's Plan to new Funds that the advisor/broker would "help" manage. Thankfully I've learned enough over the years to ask about fees and expense ratios; there were new fees and higher expenses associated with his recommendations. Understanding that no one can guarantee investment returns I asked what possible incentive he could offer to induce me to transfer my investments to his care. After an uncomfortable silence, for him, the call ended with a promise to check back with me in the future. No calls in 16 months. I relate this exchange because I understand John Bogle supports the President's initiative on new Rules for advisors/brokers and the call I received was from a Vanguard advisor/broker where I have an account. Obviously no corporate culture, even one of such high standards as those at Vanguard, or any Rules can eliminate unscrupulous actors from taking advantage of common folks but the Rules proposed by the President will address a problem that will only grow as defined benefit pensions disappear and defined contribution plans increase.

Fiduciary responsibility use to be common sense in America. Our Regulatory agencies have abused their authority and their mission has been altered to extort financial wealth from the America people, while our Dysfunctional Congress can't provide oversight and re-evaluation of projects utilizing tax payers funds. Our Bureaucracies need more accountability and over sight, because they are unelected and can serve their entire life's, and therefore become vary cozy with Big Money interest, like a member of an elected office does. The Highway 20 expansion Project in Western Iowa is a perfect example of failed over sight and accountability of financial mishandling and lying to the public to cover-up the real reason I-20 is stalled. Misappropriation of federal funds by State officials lack of fiduciary accountability.

Pick pocket economic legislation like this is often back by democratic elect who are just as much corporatist as the republicans. Have to have an economic opposition that is party-wide which places large corporations as elements and mechanisms in the economy working directly for a high standard of living, high per-capita disposable income economy from employment in corporations as social contract for their privileges and for their slavish dependency on government as evidenced by their 24/7 lobbying for special favors to uphold their unnatural existence. We have had our own very negative experience with these financial behemoths. So many of the biggest operate solely in their own personal interest no matter if they bring down the economy of this nation and the world! We were nearly ruined by their actions in the recent economic downturn. If we had not been eligible for Social Security we would have lost everything we had worked for all our lives. I realize this refers more to financial advisers, but I am referring more to banks here, which do offer some financial advise as well. We especially HATE Bank of America, Citibank, Chase and Wells Fargo. You might as well be doing business with the Mob!

Not only should advisers be held to this standard, but all past cases of "we were only pretending to give you good advice" should be subject to a massive class-action lawsuit, by the government, against all of these companies, on behalf of the people. The action? Outright lying. False and misleading advertising. Deliberate false representation while pretending to be providing useful information. The injury? Typically half of a retirement fund was lost. The remedy sought? 80% of all stock ownership in the harming companies -- the many various financial companies behind this all -- goes to the individuals who were misled and lost money as a result. AND: Those people have the ability (as new share holders) to elect a new board, without penalty --  Meaning, that all "Golden parachute" or "Suicide" clauses that would take effect on change of board members are voided.  AND: The new board has the authority to sue the members of the past board for theft of company funds, targetting all the "bonuses" paid to old board members that were nothing more than robbery from those injured in the first place. Note the key point: Do not try to get money from the corporations. Instead, get stock ownership of the corporations, and then go after those people who were paid bonuses out of the corporation.

One would think Republicans would be more interested in helping set things right in the investment community -- but maybe they care more about big banking and investment interests than their own constituents? After all, a citizen only has one vote. But a deep-pocketed vested interest can keep on giving and giving...

My mother became victim to a financial advisor who told her she'd be better off getting rid of some very productive annuities. It turned out he just wanted to make the fees involved in the transfer of funds. It's important to protect people who don't know better from unscrupulous financial advisors.

This is an important protection for citizens. As a math professor who specialized in teaching college students with high math anxiety and limited math skills, I know how difficult it is for many to apply the critical skills needed for financial decisions. This should help. Sincerely, Professor Jolene US Erikson, PhD.

Retirement security in America is greatly threatened by the audacity of financial advisers to only really act in their own interests and financial gain. This is such a disgrace . . . this needs to end now! What a joke 401K's, 457's, etc. are - and the joke is being played out each day on the American public.

I had an experience where the Financial Institution had a negative impact on my tax obligations because they reported the gross amount of a stock sale rather than the actual amount which was my proceeds after their fees were taken out. Then, a representative of the company told me the IRS wasn't interested in the money they received when I complained. Average people just can't win. I was forced into retirement after 35 years of service. E

I have worked consistent, hard, long hours for almost 28 years now and look forward to retiring with the decent support of income that I have invested in and saved for since the day I started work in 1987. After retirement, I look forward to continuing to work hard to contribute to society doing work that I love, with the support of the retirement paycheck that I have worked hard for. I am one among many with this hope. Please help protect the future of honest, grounded investments vs. unethical investments for financial gain - in any scenario.

Please try to help insure that integrity and fair treatment, which used to be so high on everyone's list, continue to be part of America's standards. Help protect retirement security by requiring that financials will be held accountable for giving the best, most honest advice they can -- not advice to pad their own pockets.

So sad and sorta silly we have to restate the fact that financial advisors are supposed to have a fiduciary responsibility for their clients/customers. When did they start thinking differently? What is it about the simple words "trusted advisor" they do not understand? It's time our congressional representative started behaving like adults instead of a bunch of out of control Jr. High juveniles. We elected you to WORK. Get to it!

Even "popular" television advertising features the "secrecy" of the charges made by financial advisers to their clients. This has led to some very questionable practices. I have had serious discussions with my financial adviser regarding investment choices and their charges. He has chosen to be clear about these choices and their charges, and I fully appreciate him and his services for this. I believe every other person deserves the same good service. By the way, because of the "good advice" I have followed, I have gone into a comfortable retirement, though my late wife and I worked for relatively moderate salaries: she as a teacher; I working in psychiatric rehabilitation; neither a well-paid field.

I have no faith that the members of congress will act in the interests of the people. Those who control both chambers have already demonstrated their willingness to ignore what's best for this country in order to make gains for their party. However, in the off-chance that some of you might do what's right instead of rubber-stamp what your party leadership wants, I ask that you take these steps to help ensure the prosperity of all. Thank you.

My elderly mother would have benefited from the proposed changes requiring financial advisors to act in customers' interest. After I learned she'd signed an ill-advised contract, I filed a formal complaint with FINRA which went nowhere because of the current lack of regulation. It was very frustrating, especially because her financial advisor got her signature when she was in an assisted living facility, was nearly blind, close to deaf, and had dementia so would not have been able to read or hear his explanation of why she should follow his advice. My husband and I fully support the Administration's proposal and urge Congress to protect the investor rather than the profits of the financial industry. This will be a wonderful thing if they can get it done! My father is 98 years old and is entitled to VA Aid and Attendance benefit. I was given the names of two different organizations that supposedly would help veterans file for and receive these benefits. The service was supposed to be free, but when you meet with them they tell you that you must pay $750 to $800 to send to some firm in Utah or Indiana and they are financial advisors and want to to move your loved ones assets into products that they sell, and undoubtedly receive commissions. They put out brochures in assisted living and nursing homes and put on seminars in various institutions to get business for themselves. It is a scandal!

It should be a crime punishable with loss of licensure when financial advisors are found to act in their own best interests for financial gain rather than the interests of their clients. When fraud is involved the consequence should be that the advisor has to pay heavy fines or face prison time.

I lost all my retirement saving, 3 times, over the last 15 years due to liars and thieves in Wall Street, banking and Financial Planning. I thought I was smart enough to weed out the 'bad guys'. I wasn't. They are now living large on my money, and I am 62 with no means to support and care for myself in my elder years. There is no way to recoup the losses they inflicted, and I do mean inflicted, on me. They did it with knowledge, collusion and premeditation. If we want our citizens to thrive, insure all citizens can, not just the liars and cheats in the "investment business".

Wall street puppeteers will be pulling lots of strings to prevent this and (mostly) the GOP puppets will do as told! Still, one can hope and pray that RIGHT will prevail and that some will actually exercise integrity and a Christian ethic of "what's good for one is good for all" or as close as they can possibly come to the way they KNOW it should be!

Perhaps I am cynical, but I know my financial adviser is working his/her own agenda and does NOT have my interests in the forefront. I had a "financial adviser" that I trusted because I was embroiled in a divorce and did not have the time nor the energy to manage my own retirement savings. This "adviser" leveraged my account into small tech companies, and as a result in a matter of a very few weeks my account went from $300,000 to about $12,000 before I pulled the plug and fired him. I trusted my adviser to manage my best interests and he managed his own. I did NOT need a $288,000 "lesson" in who comes first, and I was lucky, in that I still had some earning years ahead where I could hope to regain a small portion of what I had lost. Far too many people, especially elderly and less sophisticated investors trust a financial adviser to manage their assets in line with the investors' goals. Sadly, most "advisers" are working their own goals, so this legislation is critically important to protect the investments and savings of retirees.

I'm rather shocked. I assumed financial advisors would act in the interest of their customers, but it is often difficult for individuals to follow all that goes on the investing side, that they likely don't know if this is true or not.

Every financial firm/adviser should have a fiduciary responsibility to their investors, big or small! Financial institutions have repeatedly taken unethical risks on behalf of their clients, negating any fiduciary duty, this action on their behalf is unacceptable and reaffirms that they can't be trusted on their own and need more stringent regulation to protect investors. Any investor should have protections so no investment firm/adviser puts their interest above that of the investor, ever! Congress, standing in the way of a government agency set to issue rules in this area creates an environment where fiduciary duty is gladly over-looked by those that are implicitly trusted by the investor. Greedy people cannot be changed, they will always be greedy and it is far easier to have regulations in place that are legally binding for the protection of investors. The Great Depression and Great Recession both happened when there was little to no regulation of the financial industry, history will repeat itself if allowed.

Help protect Americans' retirement security by supporting new rules that would require financial advisers to act in the interest of their customers rather than for their own financial gain. Join the president's call to the Department of Labor to issue these rules, and don't let congressional action undermine this commonsense effort. There are currently 47,847 signatures. NEW goal - We need 50,000 signatures!

I hope this law contains the ability to pursue criminal charges. Thus far, Wall Street, the Banks and their affiliates have committed financial crimes against humanity and gotten away with paying laughable fines with the money they stole along with a slap on the hand. That Big Banks can game the Libor Rate and not be prosecuted under the RICO Act makes me feel like crime is a label only used for the middle class and poor. Justice can be purchased in the United States, my home, job, and assets were stolen with the help of Congress and can be stolen again. What is the incentive to invest in the United States when the game is rigged against you? We need to fight fire with fire. What if the middle class began off-shoring their paychecks, how long would these financial institutions survive? We have a long road ahead of us to undue all of the damage done since Reagan fronted the Bush Cartel and ALEC was unleashed against We the People.

Your notions about who is looking after who's interests, especially in retirement programs, is spot on. Most employees are totally unaware about their retirement funds. Frequently they are put into programs with high expenses and possibly not in the employees' best interest, as you say. The employee is an easy target for upper management who can cut deals with financial advisors, so called, with no one ever being the wiser. Why would anyone ever deal with anyone other than Vanguard or Fidelity? low fees, people on your side. What is not to like. Thanks for taking my call.

Sometimes there is legislation which invokes debate and disagreement and can have reasoned opposition; this is not one of those times. Ensuring financial advisors do their job and don't use people's savings as a personal pot for personal gain is a straightforward proposal with good intentions. Any congressman voting against this legislation would be proving that their interests are with big business and wallstreet, not middle class Americans.

It amazes me how screwed up this country is. Can we really call it America anymore. It doesn't feel like America. Of course financial advisors should be looking out for their customers!!?! Why does the financial industry think it has the right to make money at our expense. They need to be happy we are asking them for help and take the small pittance we decide to give them. Just because they work in an industry that deals only in money doesn't mean that it becomes their money. It's one of the few industries that can do a horrible job for millions of people and they still make more money than they deserve. GET THIS FIXED!! Banks need to make it worth our while again for us to put our money in their hands.

I strongly support new rules that would require financial advisors to act in the best interest of their customers. They must not be allowed to shift investments that will benefit the advisors more than the funds they advise or manage or be allowed to churn accounts to increase brokers fees. A corollary to this is SOCIAL SECURITY MUST NOT BE ALLOWED TO BE PRIVATIZED. The sums in Social Security are an invitation to abuse by funds, fund managers, and brokers.

Claims that these new regs will limit access to certain investment options begs a simple question: what kinds of investment options would be excluded simply because they're not designed to benefit the individual investor? And if not the individual investor, then who do these instruments benefit?

We need to put in place rules that dictate the level of honesty and disclosure in dealing with all customers who seek information and help in getting loans to planning their retirement. Too often financial institutions have omitted crucial information or who have misled customers into the signing agreements that place their property and security in jeopardy. This endangers our entire society when these institutions behave in predatory behavior.

Full disclosure and transparency are needed when fiduciary responsibilities are involved. Whether it is Wall Street broker or advisor or government officials, one cannot give advice while hiding conflict of interest behind a veil of secrecy. Tighten down on financial advisers and Wall Street. Kudos for Senator Warren for championing this important issue on behalf of hard-working Americans.

So that we can afford idiotic religious wars in faraway lands that ruin our Treasury and kills our children, The Republicans want to keep on slashing all protections for AMERICAN PEOPLE. Do they love America? I think not: You cannot love a country without loving its citizens.

This is the just kind of regulation that government can & should implement that would be beneficial, monetarily & philosophically, for the broad mass Americans. There is really no excuse not to implement it unless vested financial interests interfere for greedy or selfish reasons.

Naive folks assume that their financial advisor already has this obligation morally. When they learn that this is not true, it is usually too late for them to avoid financial loss. Making this a legal obligation, to act in the interest of the client, will help prevent this misunderstanding and give recourse to any clients who have been harmed by advisors who survive by using money that isn't theirs.

I'm an early retiree. Why? The State of Texas denied my application for disability; so as age 62, I made the decision to take early retirement. I was to receive $1,367 and was afforded $822. Greed does catch up to you, Wall Street ... make me your charitable contribution.

The need for such a requirement should not exist. Clients are paying, sometimes a lot of money, to advisers; thus, in order to perform according to the rules of that contract, the latter group's focus must be entirely on the well-being of the former. The fact that this is routinely not the case is a disgrace. The free-market defense is nothing more than a pathetic excuse for the predatory status quo. The financial industry constantly informs us how complex these matters are, and thus, we require them to guide us across this dangerous minefield. If so, how are we supposed to be able, prior to stepping on one of those mines, be able to know our counselors are not acting in our interest? Though not surprising, it is still a disgrace that the Labor Dept. must issue these instructions.

How much more proof is required to demonstrate just what unholy scum the Weasels of Wall Street really are? And they have the unspeakable gall to claim that they should have the right to rob people if they want to?!?!? Are you kidding me? Well, if they have the right to lie, cheat and steal, then their victims should have the right to exact retribution from these evil bags of pig excrement, in whatever manner they deem appropriate. Get ready for some epic payback, Wall Street!

Here's how it works now: It's the small investor - hard working middle class Americans - who put up the capital, i.e. they are the ones who take all the capital risk - but it's the so-called financial advisors/managers that stand first and foremost to benefit (in the form of management fees, transaction fees, legalized kick-backs from mutual funds they promote to their clients, and so on. The most egregious example of why this is a problem? That 1 - 2% in management fees, for example gets taken off the top whether or not the investor's portfolio increases or decreases in value. No accountability, no liability, no risk for the manager. No guarantees for the investor except the guarantee that over time that 1-2% management fee plus transaction fees, etc. coming out of the investor's top line will add up to considerable losses *for *the *investor. All the while the men in suits drive off in their Beemers and Mercedes' with the investor's money. A good deal for whom, exactly? Especially with no accountability and little if any legally mandated fiduciary responsibility for the manager or broker (none for the broker), it's a good deal only for the financial advisor. Unacceptable. This must change. What a deal - *you , the investor, take all the risk

Congress destroyed responsible, balanced, guaranteed retirement when they opened up 401Ks and ended pension systems. We, as a nation, are already disgusted with the level of incompetence in congress, please don't add to it by destroying social security. Instead, reenforce it by making EVERYONE pay into it at the same rate. MAKE the rich PAY for the tired, broken backs on top of which they have for so long profited. We want a FAIR government for ALL citizens!

As a victim of a few "Financial Advisors" I wholeheartedly support these rules. It has taken many years to make up a fraction of what I had lost in my IRAs. And I have no idea of what hidden fees were stripped from my assets. I saw the declining dollar totals in every month's statement. Wished I could have added contribution to my Social Security account instead.

Our multiple financial advisors actually COST us when they advised us. We escaped that costly relationship by learning how to manage our own investments. Not everyone can do that. And everyone should be protected from the way financial advisors often skim the clients accounts by selling them products that profit only the advisor. PLease put a stop to that practice.

It would seem that financial advisors have a moral AND legal obligation to act in their client's best interest! If this obligations goes, officially unrecognized, it MUST be formally recognized / required under threat of legal and civil action!

To threaten American's retirement security is a sure sign who it is that do not care about constituents who will suffer from their votes, but who vote to favor special interests. I trust that the members of Congress from Texas will stand with the good of their people, their constituents and not with powerful special interests. Please do not disappoint us.

STOP THE FISCAL EXPLOITATION AND ABUSE OF OLDER EMPLOYEES' RESOURCES, THE ELDERLY AND THE DISABLED FROM THESE UNETHICAL FINANCE PROFESSIONALS. I TOO HAD TO BATTLE WELLS FARGO'S UNETHICAL LOS ANGELES BRANCH EMPLOYEES, WHO ASKED ME MY ETHNICITY AND IF I HAD RELATIVES IN MEXICO, AND LISTED ME AS "A LABOROR" EVEN THOUGH I TOLD THEM I AM DISABLED AND RETIRED!!! THEN THEY TRIED TO FISCALLY ABUSE ME AFTER I CLOSED MY ACCOUNT, CLAIMING I OWED THEM MONEY!!! THIEVES!!!!!!

This is America where according to Republicans we don't need government regulations, Americans look out for Americans. Once again we've found that to not be the case. When someone can profit they will, regardless of the suffering they cause others. Will the wealthy ever care about anything other than themselves? Again they've proven they won't, so this legislation is critical. Please help look out for us, we don't have the money to line your coffers the way the Koch's can but we care about each other more than they'll ever understand.

This is the LEAST the financial industry can do, in light of their central role in the Great Recession. There are millions of us--many millions--who continue to suffer from that crisis. I know they fund most of your campaigns, and I'm plenty angry about that, but I'm asking you to simply not get in the way of Senator Warren's reasonable attempt to mitigate a small amount of that suffering. Please, this time, support something that will actually help a significant number of us out here. Thank you.

Don't let the big banks use their muscle to derail this common sense solution. Many people now rely on 401Ks instead of pensions for their retirement funds. This makes it all the more essential that advisors act in the consumer's best interest so they don't have to rely on the government when they are elderly.

Since 1999 I have been in the financial services industry and have worked for four of the largest banks in our country. I was always very good at selling banking products, investments, mortgages, etc. I was never able to tell customers what I thought was best for them or what I would do if I was them unless they asked. Otherwise, I would get fired. The truth is, it would be so easy for our banks to do the right thing, and everyone would be happier. By signing this petition, we honor our national banking system.

I hope the American people can see how this president has always worked for the people from the beginning of presidency and continues to do so. Contrary to what Romney declares, businesses are NOT people. Unfortunately, our Supreme Court seems to think so. What happened to a government OF the people and FOR the people? There's no other government in this world that is as fair to its people as this one. But there are those who are picking at the very fabric and threads of this strength that holds this country together. We have to open our eyes and make sure that our rights don't become a thing of the past.

Regardless of party, ekderly constituents of yours are ending up in the poor house every day becoming totally dependent on tax funded government relief because they cannot understand the complexities of today's investment options. This is a reasonable step that will save so many good, hard working Americans from that terrible fate.

This is a very important issue to every segment of our country. Good people are trying their best to save for retirement and whether they are family members or the neighbor across the street, it's a huge benefit to all segments of society to support this legislative effort to remove conflicts of interest from financial advisors.

I know too many unsophisticated as well as sophisticated people who shell out thousands to financial advisors who are "churning" the investments. They trust their advice and think they are doing things for them that they could not do for themselves in a mutual fund.

Time to honor your elders and protect their finances so they can worry less and concentrate on continuing their passionate proactive work to make their local place and their country a better, healthier place. it's time to stop mining old folks and making them destitute when they can be productive and safe. Think of what you would like to do when you age. And when your next generations age. Elders have enough on their minds and hearts staying well to worry how their money is being swept away by unscrupulous practices of Wall Street. Thank you . Please Reply.

Many who utilize the services of financial advisors make the false assumption that these standards are already in place. It's unfortunate that such ethical behavior needs reinforcement by govt. rules, but this is what is needed.

I had money I had saved over a 10 year period in a money market fund that my adviser had told me to invest in. I LOST money over the next decade and had LESS than what I started with. I called my adviser recently and told him I wanted to use that money to buy stocks in a VERY successful and long established high-tech firm. He tried to TALK ME OUT OF IT!! I didn't listen, and since then, I my account has grown to about the amount it should have been a few years ago!! There's your PROOF that these advisers are only OUT FOR THEMSELVES!!!! by the way, I am a conservative investor and have other accounts, so I knew I wasn't taking a huge risk.

The 'professional rule' is perfectly applied here regarding the customers' interests over the professionals. Liability comes from bad practice, bad standards, and bad advice. The financial adviser cannot shirk their responsibility to their client and not entail 'malpractice.' Somehow, Wall Street has maintained the fiction that they are exempt from the consequences of bad advice. They must be held responsible.

The most important fact we all must remember is that the brokerage houses push the most profitable investment programs that they want their brokers to put their clients and most fee financial planners who manage their clients money may be tempted to put their clients into programs where they will make the most fees. There are also commission financial planners that put clients into Fixed Indexed Annuities that are wrong their client and I think we need to weed those kind of representatives out of the business. It gives those of us who put our clients needs first, of having explain to our clients about the representatives who put themselves first and not the needs of their clients. I have been in business for 46 years and I always thought and feel my client's needs and financial goals and objectives came first. If you take care of your clients and put them in the right programs you will always get referrals and repeat business from them. Marvin L Shelton, Jr Marvin L. This is necessary and long overdue. Without retirement savings, those who can no longer work will spend their retirement years impoverished. Social Security alone is insufficient for retirement, especially for women and minorities whose labor is egregiously under compensated.

Seriously, people depend on this money for their retirement years. With the Republicans perpetually trying to privatize Social Security the protection becomes even more important. The idea that the professionals we I trust our hard earned investment money would not be acting in our best interest seems hard to comprehend.

“If you go out into the real world, you cannot miss seeing that the poor are poor not because they are untrained or illiterate but because they cannot retain the returns of their labor. They have no control over capital, and it is the ability to control capital that gives people the power to rise out of poverty.” Muhammad Yunus "If the American people ever allow private banks to control the issue of their currency, first by inflation, then by deflation, the banks and corporations that will grow up around them will deprive the people of all property until their children wake up homeless on the continent their Fathers conquered." - Thomas Jefferson "All men would then be necessarily equal, if they were without needs. It is the poverty connected with our species which subordinates one man to another. It is not inequality which is the real misfortune, it is dependence." - Voltaire "Where justice is denied, where poverty is enforced, where ignorance prevails, and where any one class is made to feel that society is an organized conspiracy to oppress, rob and degrade them, neither persons nor property will be safe." - Frederick Douglass “The test of our progress is not whether we add more to the abundance of those who have much; it is whether we provide enough for those who have too little.” Franklin D. Roosevelt "If we condone political theft, our civilization itself cannot endure." - Theodore Roosevelt "All that is valuable in human society depends upon the opportunity for development accorded the individual." "We shall require a substantially new manner of thinking if mankind is to survive." - Albert Einstein "Not to know what has been transacted in former times is to be always a child. If no use is made of the labors of past ages, the world must remain always in the infancy of knowledge." - Cicero "The world is very different now. For man holds in his mortal hands the power to abolish all forms of human poverty, and all forms of human life." - John F. Kennedy In a country well governed, poverty is something to be ashamed of. In a country badly governed, wealth is something to be ashamed of. Confucius “Every life deserves a certain amount of dignity, no matter how poor or damaged the shell that carries it.” Rick Bragg “It is too difficult to think nobly when one thinks only of earning a living.” Jean-Jacques Rousseau “Of all the preposterous assumptions of humanity over humanity, nothing exceeds most of the criticisms made on the habits of the poor by the well-housed, well-warmed, and well-fed.” Herman Melville “Once poverty is gone, we'll need to build museums to display its horrors to future generations. They'll wonder why poverty continued so long in human society - how a few people could live in luxury while billions dwelt in misery, deprivation and despair.” Muhammad Yunus

They are a bunch of crooks and con men who operate under false pretense and misleading advertising that implies and assures financial security and a level of care and responsibility that they have no incentive to provide. The system is rigged to favor the investment "banks" at the expense of the little guy or "whale". Only new rules along these lines might help shape and change the "system" and "culture", perhaps restoring some level of confidence in to our financial system.

Finally, a step in the right direction. You know, Germany didn't get slammed like the rest of the world. Shouldn't everyone ask "Why?" To all "elected" officials, remember you are not royalty, and you are not above me, my wife, the guy down the street. We are all equal. The CEOs and Banks who want to gamble, need to go to Vegas - not Wall St.

As a retired CPA, I have seen the abuse by some "financial advisors," especially those who have pushed "financial managers" who have engaged in high volume trading in retirement accounts for people who should not have been exposed to that risk or those costs and who did not understand the implications of their choice. Fiduciary duty should be the required standard.

As a retired American, I believe it is time for Congress to step up to the plate and do the right thing for this country. Restore credibility to the political process by representing middle class Americans who have no safety net when it comes to Wall Street predators. I urge you to act on behalf of the working class who built this country and continue to harness the burden of keeping this country stable and secure. Thank you.

It's about time. I got really screwed by a "friendly" advisor who made recommendations that served only his interest because he had different information from what he shared with his clients. Ended up in court, but guess who's living the life of leisure in the Carib.?

I am one of those investors whose financial advisor was committing fraud -- picking stocks that were shaky in order to buck up her other portfolios. Lost a lot of money but of course USB Paine Webber claimed it was not fraud. Please help the individual investor!

If every member of Congress would understand that retirees monthly checks not only helps them have a better sense of security and comfort, but those retirees dollars are circulation dailey keeping our economy staying stronger. If 10,000 retirees receive $2M dollars in monthly checks, they will spend a majority of that money on living expenses, food, gas, and other monthly neccesities which will help keep growing jobs in their communities. Where as if one person on Wall Street or CEO makes that $2M dollars a month in wages or as a bonus, that one person will spend some of that money, but more then likely most of it will be filtered through tax loopholes or maybe sent to some off shore account where it will sit not helping our economy or nations well being as much as if those funds were staying with the retirees who rely on them. The rules and regulations, or lack of rules and regulations, controling those overseeing or running Wall Street has hurt every American family and community because of the shameless rampant greed that is so prevelent in every transaction on Wall Street. Those actions helped stage the various meltdowns and skimming of billions of dollars through these flagrant actions that made the select few billions of dollars, but cost millions of small investors and retirees the financial security we all thrive for every day of our working life. It is a shame a select few can ruin so many dreams of so many people!!

We the working middle-class are in much more dire straights than statistics show...and I fear the economic future for our children. Truly fear, grieve and experience anxiety over the state of our union. Please help our voice to be heard. Even an ivory tower will crumble and fall without its foundation.

Many financial advisors are out of control and act solely for their own benefit and that of their companies' shareholders so that investors are left holding the bag and sometimes losing their life savings. This has to change.

I always thought that bankers and investment brokers/agents had a fiduciary duty to their clients. This last recession has proved that wrong time and time again. It's time we got back to a point in history where there is fairness and professionalism on Wall Street. Republicans believe there is too much regulation; but they fail to see that their (fiduciary) duty is to protect the public from unscrupulous vultures who would take away hard-earned retirement pensions and investments. We need to go back to the kind of regulations we had back in the '70's that protected and informed consumers; rather than the deregulation of the Bush (GW) era that allowed thieves to rob honest Americans of their jobs and meager wealth.

In five years I will have 30 years at the same job. It was stated to me at 30 years I can retire. Our retirement is in jeopardy and already they've made changes. I cannot retire in 5 years, I must wait until I'm 60. I am sick and tired of advisers making changes to retirement systems for their own financial gain.

This directly effects every person relying on 401 K and similar plans for their security. These "advisors" must work in the best interest of those clients, who include plenty of senior citizens. As a side issue, how does this abrogation of responsibilities play for those pushing for dumping Social Security of individual investment?

It is unfortunate that life in the U.S. Has come to this point wherein we cannot trust financial advisors, whom we are paying for this service, need to be ordered by the government to act in ir interest. I don't know if congress can be brave enough to do so. I hope they will think of their own parents, children and friends and support this.

This is long overdue. The selfish and irresponsible acts have undermined the very foundation of our country. The lives of millions of Americans, including myself, are STILL feeling the affects of Wall Streets reckless behavior. Countless lives have ruined by the greed of these unscrupulous companies. This government must starting putting regulations in place, as time and again, big banks and financial advisors have been proven untrustworthy!

Pretty hard to see the downside of regulating the financial industry. Voters have not forgotten about the crash, the great recession, sub prime loans, and the small industry based on reckless financial instruments. I'm fine with bankers having one less way to get massive bonuses. Impose regulations--they won't regulate themselves.

Basic legal, as well as financial, ethics should apply to financial advisors, who have access to confidential information and often some aspects of the power of attorney, should always represent the client's best interest. If not, then my supermarket cashier might as well provide financial advice and act upon their own interest in my name legally. No--this is as bad as any Ponzi scheme!

If people cannot trust their financial advisors to do what is best for those for whom they are working, then they do not deserve to be in the business of such advising. People must have the rules and regulations in place that protect them so that they are enabled to use their financial resources for them, their families, and anyone else they seek to help through their financial resources. This is the ethical, moral, and right thing to do.

We are happy that we have an honest financial advisor who looks out for our best interests and security. Having regulations in place that require other financial advisors who may not be so protective of their clients is a good thing. We should all be able to trust the professionals whom we allow to take care of our hard earned savings and investments.

This value and professional ethic should not have to be legislated, however, evidence seems to show that it must be legislated - and these rules need to have an avenue or avenues of enforcement and appropriate consequences if they are violated.

While many financial professionals act responsibly, advising clients when they will receive a commission or otherwise financially benefit from a recommendation that they make, there are others who take advantage of clients and should be held to account. A good law in this area would not prohibit them from profiting, but would intelligently regulate what "acting in the best interest of the client" is. <iframe src="http://petitions.moveon.org/embed/widget.html?v=3&name=congress-protect-americas" class="moveon-petition" id="petition-embed" width="300px" height="500px"></iframe>

Yes, now we're facing the crux of a major issue world wide..It is a classic "Us vs. Them" scenario. The bankers / Federal Reserve system has the Proletariat at a huge disadvantage. It is Congress task to remedy that unfair advantage and restore their own integrity.

I agree with this statement, and yes, if president obama met with sen. Warren i would like more information concerning this matter. As of now, workers have to trust the provider their employer chose, is that in the best interest of the employee?...depends on the integrity of the company, n the intergrity of the investment firm thry chose?...is this a diservice to the employee...with no other info, than a quarterly statement?...

Having searched for a financial advisor recently, I can attest to how difficult it is to find a person in whom you can have some trust that they are acting in your best interest. Fee-based advisors are great for people who can afford their fees, but they often only wish to work with high-net worth clients. (I don't fall into that category.)

How corrupt is the thinking of of these characters in which "laws" have to be passed in order for them to do for their clients what their clients pay them to do. Before the 2007-08 crash, I almost signed into a annuity With a major company that charged a few .1% of fee here and a few there. If it was not for my bullheadedness with the financial adviser and finally taking the fine print home, I would have lost almost half of our retirement savings and still paid them fees. Restrictions are a very good idea.

Consumers need more protections, not fewer. Every advisor I have worked with have pushed "their picks" over many other investment alternatives. Most folks do not understand that this advise is not necessarily in their own best interest. Support New Rules!!!!

Professional accountability is very much needed in the Financial Planning profession. They are not policing their own at this time, and too often recommendations are made based on advisor's commission potential, not client's best interest!

Stop Wall Street Fat Cats from raping hard-working Americans!! They sit in their offices maybe 5 hours per days and make ungodly fees for nothing by transferring our savings into investments they do not have a clue about. I personally know one of them and he makes a minimum of $10M per year for doing nothing. I worked hard for my measly $50k - allow me, who really needs the money, to have these fees cut so that I can have money for my retirement. These guys buy apartments and cars that cost more than my home. It is highway robbery and these loopholes have to be stopped. Please help out is working class folks who are trying to do the right thing and save money so we do not become older American statistics who are solely dependent on the govt for living expenses when we retire. I'm sick of my Thrift Savings Plan being charged extraordinary fees (and it is a UK based company) and my 401 k hit withs same same extreme fees.

It's long overdue for financial advisors to have to put the interests of their clients ahead of their own interests.
This conflict of interest and unethical behavior has been condoned by our elected officials for too long.
Another example of corporate dog wagging its government tail.

Are we tired of letting corporate types off the hook for their selfish and irresponsible actions? "Promote the general welfare" is right up there in The Constitution with "provide for the Common Defense." We will have to force limitations on the greed of the corporatocracy. Americans have experienced what happens when financial institutions were allowed to act in their own best interest & it wasn't good. Greed seldom is. Financial advisors should be held to the same higher standards of doctors, pharmacists, lawyers, engineers, and other professionals who are trusted to earn money for their services.

I support new rules that would require financial advisers to act in the interest of their customers rather than for their own financial gain.

Feb 26, 2015

This should have been law in 1776-more than overdue. Call for a national overhaul/audit of all financial organizations and their employees to locate, correct and compensate investors, and their heirs, where this has not been done. Prosecute infractions/violations to the fullest extent of the law. Encourage investors to demand proof from their financial advisers that their funds have been, are, and will be being managed for the investors gain. Financial advisers and institutions should only be paid in proportion to how well their client's funds are doing; not padded pay cheques and bonuses while clients struggle to make ends meet for basic daily survival needs. End greed, corruption and gray areas. Full transparency/disclosure to clients, and governmental regulatory agencies of all practices.

It is imperative that we issue rules to protect the working men and women in this country. There have been too many games, some of which are truly illegal with financial institutions across this country and the general population has become so skeptical because of the underhandedness and greed of these financial advisers and institutions. Please do the right thing and protect the retirees in our country. It is common sense to do this and it will be for the common good.

Move On Folks, PLEASE remove this note about my credit card change from every email you send me. I believe in the work you do but I will stop my support if you don't look out for me and any financial info I have shared with you. I also have concerns about your joining with the Conservatives. Yes, I believe we need to engage in conversation and forward mutual interest, so much of the divide is divisive. But I do not want to sign on 100% side by side with their ideologies, I say it's time for further negotiations, they always want it their way. If they have invited Move On to further better communication for the country, then the first step is being able to say NO to a blanket rule they set up. Again, I will discontinue my support of Move On if that is what you sign the group to do. Thank you for all your hard work, as always things are not just black or white

Absolutely Right On... Worked CSR In The Insurance Industry For 21 Years And Can Attest That This Vigilance Is Necessary. Had Many Seniors Call To Lament How Their Broker Talked Them Into Converting The Cash Value In Their Whole Life Policy Into Incentive Life, With "Front End" Loads For Their Commissions Taken Right Off The Top, The Rest Invested In Aggressive, Volatile Funds, With Little Or No Hope Of Recovering Their Losses While In Their Golden Years... My Dad's 70 Something Year old Retired Battery Salesman Lost $10,000 To ENRON! My Young Neighbor Claims To Have Sold Insurance For A While. When I Lamented Such Predation, He Responded, "They Should He Responded With, "They Should Have Read The Fine Print. Trust Vulture Capitalists With My Social Security? H E To The Double L, NO! Thanks Prez Obama And Senator Warren! About Time, Such Fraudsters Were Called To Account, Exclamation, Exclamation, Explanation And Standing Ovation. Root, Root, Root. :)

I am SICK of the greed that is running this country. And why is it that banks get to charge outrageous interest rates when we borrow from them, but when they are using OUR money, they pay us a pittance in interest?????? My bank blames it on the government setting the rates that they can pay us. .0001 interest. REALLY?????? Yet they can charge US up to 25% and up?????? No wonder the rich get richer and the rest of us are not.

People work for years and deserve the retirement they worked for. They are trying to take some of that away so wealthy companies can get wealthier and increase their profit margin. It is not right. We also need to protect government and military pensions for new retirees I am a military retiree and am very thankful for what I get for my years of service and understand what the younger ones working toward that are dealing with now. They want to give lump sums... Nonsense. Americas retirees private and government need a decent retirement that must not be stripped for more profits at their expense. We must also protect social security in the legacy and spirit of Franklin Delano Roosevelt. Do the right thing by Americans.

Stop letting the banks steal our money. We the taxpayers the people who try to save for retirement only to have their future wiped out by risky trades and investments that are border line illegal. Pensions greatly reduced because Congress and the Government repeatedly given themselves permission to steal mine and others money, with no consequences. We lose and they win. Every banker. every trader every investment or should have been investigated and sent to prison. This had occurred because the White House, Congress and every government agency is in bed with the criminals that go free when Main Street is struggling under regulation that we the people are being destroyed by the rich, a corrupt Congress and Government and special interest pork pigs. This is all of you and shame on you for feeding at an illegal trough denying the American people to DO YOUR JOB!! It's forgotten we pay your paychecks and over the top benefits. You should not be paid if you produce nothing as the Republicans have now done for six years. Why was this allowed? What happened to our once glorious country? It's been taken over by immoral, corrupt people and organizations. GREED. These are not Americans true Americans. Not many have served in our Armed Forces most of them have betrayed their country and their commitment to OUR ideals. Our government is now run by an extremely dangerous tea party and their political stooges want to destroy every thing we, our grandparents our ancestors worked so hard to make a proud America. That's not viable by anyone who does not contribute to society but takes away. That's our America not the commitment to 'WE THE PEOPLE' but those who told us what they would do and they didn't. No one kept their word. So now we have become an embarrassment and laughing stock of the world..And you let that happen. Since the Republican's always sneak another one if the dumb additions to a bill that is meant to reward their donors and screw the American people I would like to add one. Get rid of all Republicans and Tea Party Corps and billionaires are now cut off from any donations or their salary will be $25000 per year no medical no pension. Since no one of them do anything they should all be impeached.

My mom has had a financial advisor who so poorly advised her that her savings she worked so hard to save as a secretary earning 30k/year went down so low he obviously neglected her account. She has alzheimers and can't afford a nursing home now. Thanks to that financial planner she now has to live with us. These planners need more stringent restrictions so this doesn't happen to someone else!

With the push to require us to save for our own retirements, the moves to privatize everything, it is paramount to protect savings and investments of We The People (this excludes corporations who are NOT people but use We The People for profit). I have experienced a financial advisor who encouraged me to invest in companies that whose practices I oppose because "that's where the money is". To me, this is unethical and not in my best interests. The proposed requirement is a step in the right direction to act in our best interests .

People work for years and deserve the retirement they worked for. They are trying to take some of that away so wealthy companies can get wealthier and increase their profit margin. It is not right. We also need to protect government and military pensions for new retirees I am a military retiree and am very thankful for what I get for my years of service and understand what the younger ones working toward that are dealing with now. They want to give lump sums... Nonsense. Americas retirees private and government need a decent retirement that must not be stripped for more profits at their expense. We must also protect social security in the legacy and spirit of Franklin Delano Roosevelt. Do the right thing by Americans.

What century are we in? How far out of balance are we? Another class warfare weapon, one that hopefully has seen better days, addressed. Hard to believe Presidential order required to exort & cajole people to merely adhere to basic principles of their occupation!!(& a semblance of a moral compass)

It is crazy to allow the financial 'services' sector to profit at the expense of their clients rather than to work for their gain. This is just one indicator of how far off center our society has come, that we treat such unethical behavior as acceptable. We need to hold one another to a standard of mutual benefit. This is a reasonable standard, which only sounds unreasonable because we have accepted absurdity. Please join me in signing this petition.

Too often financial planners and advisers has been sweetening their own pot to our disadvantage. I applaud this effort to protect the people and not award those who seek to take the most from those who have the least.

Any rules to protect vulnerable older adults' retirement funds should be instituted. The younger folks need such protection, too, but it always seems to be the older who fall prey to the unscrupulous. And, then, they are done- before their children or relatives know what has been happening. Issue these new rules as soon as possible.

Some agency needs to arrest these American hating politician thieves & imprison them for treason, sedition, discrimination, making false statements to federal agencies, lying to all of America; or just line them up like they do in the Hague & hang them or have a firing squad! Government is the Parent of misbehaving adult humans, many of whom appear determined to never "grow up," i.e., self-regulating. A human who adheres to the physical truths of non-harming, not stealing, not lying needs no government. Cause = effect. All benefit.

These are extremely important and necessary rules. I have had the experience of an advisor giving me suggestions that benefited her through hidden costs. Greed is an ugly thing and the more that can be done to curtail it, the better.

I have been working hard since age 15, more than 40 years, have invested my money in several financial institutions; I deserve to know that they are acting in my best interest for retirement. Good stewardship is a no brainer, that someone would not act accordingly, is unethical, and poor management for the financial future of our nation!!

I worked for major financial firm, and I saw the squeeze on the advisors to generate points (fees charged) and products coming recommended according to how much income these financial products generate in fees for the firm. Who are they representing first? I also saw how fees kept 529 at same amount 10 years later due to fees... We don't need to make Wall street any richer, there should be a balance.

I found it very hard to find an advisor who wasn't on commission and paid from mutual fund fees. I just didn't invest until I learned about index funds which cut out the advisor and almost all of the fees. Advisors should work for clients not banks.

I support all efforts directed at the development of rules structured to strongly direct Wall Street's financial activities. Such rules must also be backed by the passage of laws that govern those rules and the these laws must be supported by the work of an even stronger Consumer Protection Agency with power to enforce both these stronger laws and rules. Financial white collar crimes deserve punishment worthy of criminal imprisonment sentence.

It is the theatre of the absurd that such a requirement needs to be spelled out. By its very name, a financial adviser should act in the interest of the customer. To require this rule signifies the immorality of such a profession.

As a nurse, I can assure you there are times when my own interest appears to conflict with my client's! Ask financial advisors, if they don't want to care about their clients' best interest, to come to where I work, and let me know I can save them for last and then go home early!

More employers are abandoning pensions and pushing most Americans into investment programs which don't guarantee a livable retirement income. I put the maximum into my 401k and IRA in my 30s through 50s and should be able to retire comfortably by now 64. Because of trusting advisers and the stock market while I paid attention to working hard for my company I actually lost nearly back to my own investment amount. I trusted that my company had honest advisers handling my account while I made money for our highly paid upper management. Now I don't see ever being able to retire. We need to have rules in place that hold financial businesses accountable to act responsibly in the interest of their customers.

Duh! Do the right thing. Why is Wall Street always exempt? When money is both the means and the end, the system is dysfunctional. Marx was right: commodity fetishism alienates the society that the economy is supposed to benefit. And we don't ask much when compared to the billions batted about daily on the Street. Thanks Elizabeth. We love you.

The entire financial community (including Ins co's, banks, brokerages, investment co's, and others) needs to start being held accountable for their greed. Especially noteworthy are Goldman Sachs, Citibank, and JP Morgan Chase, but there are hundreds, if not thousands of financial companies with corrupt corporate culture and bad ethics.

The financial system and investing is so complex that regular people can't do it without investment assistance. When it's my money, I want to know that the person I'm paying is looking out for my interest. Why should anyone save for retirement when it's so volatile & risky. Help protect the little we can save, please!

My elderly parents were convinced by their financial adviser to convert investment earnings to an annuity which resulted in significant tax liability for them and which annuity, when my father reached age 90, had to be redeemed at further tax charge to him. None of these considerations was revealed by their adviser, who clearly touted this move for his own advantage and to their detriment.

They are "financial advisers". Doctors, lawyers and other professionals are expected to act in the interest of their consumers -- why aren't financial advisors? Every single year, an estimated $17 billion dollars is transferred from Main Street retirement accounts into Wall Street's coffers—because brokers and financial advisers are allowed to steer investors into unethical investments that aren't in their own best interests.

If you criminalized the gambling, there would be no other need for reform on Wall St. People could invest directly w/o a need for advisors knowing that their money wouldn't go on a yo-yo ride.

I shouldn't need to sign a petition asking Congress to help protect the common man - you should feel morally obligated to protect all Americans - not the just the rich and greedy. Please, do all you can to help everyone, especially the Middle Class - whom you've been ignoring for decades.

This is why I'm signing the petition: "Every single year, an estimated $17 BILLION dollars is transferred from Main Street retirement accounts into Wall Street's coffers—because brokers and financial advisers are allowed to steer investors into unethical investments that aren't in their own best interests. the people are suffering even though many have full time employment. The average workers most likely does not think about retirement as many are living day to day trying to survive. Too many people suffering from homelessness, and hunger. Corporate greed must be controlled. protect Retirees pensions and social Security.

This is desperately needed. I was misled by representatives at AG EDWARDS, EDWARD JONES, ALLMERICA and METLIFE. BY THE TIME I FIGURED OUT WHAT YOU ARE SAYING, I HAD LOST TENS OF THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS IN AN INHERITED RETIREMENT ACCOUNT. FOR EVERY DIME I TOOK, THEY TOOK 2. If it lost money, they profitted. If it gained money, they profitted. They have million dollar homes and BMW's and I had debt and a broken down car with over 100,000 miles on it. THANKYOU for addressing this!

Financial Advisors, by their very title, are here for all of us to make the most of our hard-earned money and reap the benefits of our labor. The money they handle is our precious future. It is not and should not be used to line advisors' pockets. It is stealing. It amazes me that there has to be a LAW against it.

Pension laws helped protect workers when people still had pensions to count on for retirement. Now that politicians and business leaders destroyed that idea, it's time to step up and protect Americans from the greed and self-interest of the existing financial system.

As a appointed ADA Liaison, I've found it astounding there remains in this day and age, there remains a bias and misinformed perception, "that People with Disabilities " Would ever need the protection & guidance Of an 'honest' financial advisor or have the intellect to secure a retirement securities. Hence I gladly sighn this petition. Respectfully, Pam Dorwarth, ADA liaison

Finally, the true concept of fiduciary duty is being brought to the forefront of the debate. Not only investing, but Social Security as well involve fiduciary duties. The right has been attacking the true meaning of fiduciary for over 5 decades. Thanks deregulation! The major reason this country has such a disproportionate wealth distribution is the "trickle dowb" myth Reagan spread.

It is time when many American Families struggle to make ends meet in retirement. The pensions they were promised have long dried up in the Great Recession - so it is only fitting that the Government step in to form a web of assistive services to help these citizens achieve what they long desire, financial security with well planned nest eggs for retirement.

What is Congress' purpose if not to protect the people, in this instance the retirees. Congress needs to start acting in the manner of, for, and by the people instead of being the handmaiden of corporate interests.

As I enter the second half of life,I not only see the over-emphasis on acquisition so apparent in the 1980s, but also a complete lack of regard for others. Somehow the generation after me didn't learn that integrity is the true goal. The appearance of success has become a craving and "branding" ones self should be driven by good intention, vice the belief that one can get around to being a better person once they have enough. This unquenchable need drives people to use and disrespect others. This includes theft of property, reputation and sense of safety. Therefore, safety and the basics of integrity must be learned on the job. A firm outline for behavior and good financial boundaries will make for longer term and healthier relationships for all parties. I heartily agree that limits must be placed on those who might become predators as well as those who simply need training in this area.

It seems to me that this is how it should be, and how people view professionals. Why would we pay for help if we thought or knew it was not going to be for our benefit? It is concerning that we have to have a petition for something that should be implicit and expected.... not to mention ethical.

That's the problem in this country. Our representatives are for sell to the highest bidder. "We the people" who can't compete with corporations and special interest groups who give millions to candidates. Lobbyist give the money to buy the representatives vote. We the people get screwed and continue to pay ,pay,pay.

Investing in Wall Street makes about as much sense as investing in the lottery. To call our 401K funds "investing" is an immense lie. Why should we be risking retirement funds in the stock market when the whole thing is a scam, rigged to enrich the already wealth? The whole system is a corrupt mess and needs to be torn down.

This country belongs to the American people who are the one's that created and maintained a healthy and productive work force that brought the American dream to every citizen. The far Right is in the process of dismantling every workable solution that the American people used to get their piece of the American dream. This is a great start to upending what the GOP crowd is so bent on taking our rights as workers away so that they and their corporate owners can rake in more money. Time to put a stop to the rights anti-American agenda and send them packing with their followers to another country where they can do as they please but it's time to rid this nation of those who want to bring this country down in no uncertain terms!

This is critically important. Right now it is very difficult to find a financial advisor or broker who serves the client's interest first. And it makes a big difference to individual investors, to working people who are doing their best to save, create future security, educate their children, start businesses. You could make a very positive impact on this country by putting in place - and strongly enforcing- a law requiring the financial advisors and brokers to act first for the benefit of the client.

The United States House of Representatives And The United States Senate Good day , Dear Representatives of the State House and the State Senate I come to you to ask you to support of new rules that would require financial advisers to act in the interest of their customers, rather than for their own financial gain. I am glad that President Barack Obama and Senator Elizabeth Warren take a stand for much need action. It is best to assure that the customer receive what is right .Thank you for your time and consideration, this is sure for the sake and order of the service given to the workers of America. Thank you. Without proper financial advice, Americans are at the whims of the brokerages who only serve to confuse and manipulate citizens into improper investments for their needs. We don't need another mortgage crisis peddling credit default swaps and other financial boondoggles. Be sensible and protect the people of America unethical advising.

The republican (small "r"-they don't deserve better) party has shown time and time again that it is totally morally bankrupt , gutless, and paid for by the extreme right wing Billionaires and multinational corporations. How will this Bill ever even come up for a vote ? Byron Marsh / But thank you BOTH for trying to help us out here - The young generation needs the ACA and the free community college. Thank you Mr. President and thank you Senator Warren. Dear Elizabeth -(was my Mothers name too) - when you run for President I will work on your campaign! Byron Marsh

It is outrageous and immoral for any kind of service provider to put their own interest and gain above the individuals (clients) who engaged them, and who in good faith, believe that professionals will truly and meaningfully help them in their goal achievement That financial advisers can knowingly, purposely and, most egregiously, legally act for their own financial gain at the expense of their customers and their hard earned life savings must stop. The current practice makes a mockery of the supposed axiom, "the customer is always right."

While our government turned a blind eye, Corporate America has robbed workers of their defined pensions and replaced them with 401K plans. This was the biggest rip off ever and now we have financial advisors who are looking out for themselves. This system was designed as a gift to Wall Street. Enough already, quit ripping us off. First, the middle class pays more than their fair share in taxes and now Wall Street wants to rip us off in our retirement years. Disgusting!!!

After a 37 year carrier and putting 8% of my pay in my 401 k I ended up with 18,000$. The year before I had 80,000. Since congress made it ok for employers to force Wall Street investment instead if a guaranteed pension congress owes it to America to make sure investments are in the peoples best interest. Not everyone in the country knows or even wants to spend the time to become a savy investor. If they are even able to. I'm a very good RN but I admit I don't know much about investing. My carrier kept me busy saving lives. The money brokers need to make sure no one else ends up with only 6 monts worth of salary from investments they sacrificed to make. It's inexcusable

We need your support to help us have money left to retire instead of financial advisors robbing our retirement funds. BUT TRUTHFULLY I EXPECT NOTHING FROM YOU AS YOU HAVE SHOWN ME NO LEADERSHIP AND FOR YOU REPUBS. WHY WE WILL NEVER VOTE YOU IN W.H. AND GET YOU OUT OF POWER AS SOON AS WE CAN COMING FROM ONE WHO ONCE VOTED FOR YOU. I CAN ONLY THINK OF ONE WORD TO DESCRIBE YOU , "IDIOTS" AND THIS INCLUDES DEMS WHO I VOTED FOR LAST TWO ELECTIONS, BUT KEEPING TRACK OF HOW YOU VOTE. BETTER START ACTING LIKE DEMS AND VOTE OUR PARTY OR YOU CAN BE. REPLACED TOO, TOO MANY VOTING WITH PUBS SERIOUS THINGS, "STOP" ESP THE UNINVITED LEGALLY OF ISRAELI PRES. I WILL WALK OUT OF THIS PARTY, HEAR ME NANCY PELOSI FOR YOU HAVE THE POWER TO KEEP DEMS OUT. INDEPS LOOK BETTER TO US THEN

As I read John Bogle's "Enough," I can see that we cannot rely on the industry to regain the trust they earned with people like Bogle in the lead. This rule making would ensure that proper principles are reinstilled in the industry that we rely on for our retirements and for strength in our economy.

Sounds like an ethical practice that should have already be enforced. Every other business practices this. They're in business to provide the best customer service to their clients , they should be serving the interests of their paying clients who are expecting these individuals to represent their best financial investment interest not that of company's. The client should expect that what they're paying for is investments that are for their retirement financial gain. Not financing a company to profit from the financial gains they obtain from their customers retirement accounts by mismanaging these accounts to profit themselves. These companys are being paid to represent their clients best interests and if not, then they're committing fraud. Plain and simple!

No more spending retirees hard errand money. The government never was suppose to borrow the money anyway, but the people voted on that one. The government was to pay it back. I am not sure that happened. Little slips of paper don't count. We would have accrued interest on that money, also. We lent it in good faith. Now you are trying to get over on us. Where is our true representation. Who will look out for us, "We The People"?? Give us the respect and the representation we deserve. Please protect our money which is rightfully the people, which I am one.

With the issues with Goldman Sachs it is important to have some protection to individual investors. Individual advisers are only part of the problem big investment firms able to create transactions in a milisecond as created unfair trading advantage not given to the individual trader, making newspaper and even online stock prices and direction irrelevant due to the speed of these programs that allow manipulation in the market.

Greed is ultimately going to be the undoing of Capitalism as we know it. To endlessly prioritize the self over the interests of the people you are entrusted to protect, harms everyone not the least of which yourself. People need honesty and protection in their investment lives.
