

Dear The United States House of Representatives and The United States Senate,

We are pleased to present you with this petition affirming this statement:

"Help protect Americans' retirement security by supporting new rules that would require financial advisers to act in the interest of their customers rather than for their own financial gain.

Join the president's call to the Department of Labor to issue these rules, and don't let congressional action undermine this commonsense effort."

Attached is a list of individuals who have added their names to this petition, as well as additional comments written by the petition signers themselves.

Sincerely,
Ilya Sheyman

What happened to acting in the best interests of the "Financial Advisor"? He might have an overdue megabill for his vacation to pay.

The SEC should extend the fiduciary duty to include brokers, rather than only advisors regulated by the 1940 Act. The higher standard of fiduciary duty, vs the lower standard of suitability, is the right thing to do. Dodd-Frank authorized the SEC to take this fair and important step.

That we would even need a law or reg for this is appalling evidence of how low some segments of "American" society have sunk. Let's take the next step and make sure we all know the names of the people who do this sort of thing and the people who are fighting efforts to correct it. They each and everyone deserve every bit of the opprobrium that can be heaped upon them.

What could make more sense than requiring a fiduciary responsibility of a financial advisor toward their client? Even Real Estate sales agents are sworn to protect the interests of their clients ahead of their own. I would have thought that ANYONE dealing in the financial market on behalf of someone else would already have a fiduciary responsibility toward their client. What took so long?!!!

There is an order to everything. After giving and working 25 to 50 years of your life you would think that you have earned the right to enjoy the fruits of your labor. Retirement , a right of passage? Give the next generation their right to become the future they have been groomed for. Allow the retirees the rest and compensation they have earned. We all benefit when we do the right thing. Lets do the right thing.

I think we need to tell Congress & the Labor Department that we really need help with our retirees & support these new rules so that we held those financial advisers to a high standard to the interest of customers, not big banks. I know Wall Street Republicans & blue dog Democrats may not like the idea, but I think it's possible that we keep fighting for these regulations so that they don't end up in Wall Street's hands.

This should be law. All financial advisors should act as fiduciaries - get this in writing on your own if the government won't act and then you can sue. The system is rigged and needs many reforms - bring back Glass-Steagall, toughen Dodd-Frank. Break up any bank "too big to fail". Stop gambling with our money to enrich yourselves - you get the profits and pass the risks to the 99%. Prosecute criminals like Jamie Dimon and other "banksters".

Help protect Americans' retirement security by supporting new rules that would require financial advisers to act in the interest of their customers rather than for their own financial gain. Join the president's call to the Department of Labor to issue these rules, and don't let congressional action undermine this commonsense effort.

Universal Movement of Consciousness by Edson Udson (all rights reserved) A great movement for peace, love and freedom around of the world, but to obtain results and do solve problems as poverty, abuses and violence is necessary "union" and "good will" translated in a simple word..."love". Respecting and preserving the nature or combating differences as racism, sexuality or culture and accepting any kind of love, no discriminating anyone in anywhere for anything. I believe it be possible...because love, respect and freedom are all of good. for worldwide children

The elderly have worked their whole life for the Golden Years when they can sit back and enjoy the nest egg they worked so hard for. Don't let greedy politicians who wish to use retirees' social security to invest in wall street, where their money will be lost in the gambling that it truly is. Social Security is perfectly fine if left alone. Don't touch Social Security, because if it isn't broke, then don't fix it!!!!

My 86 year old mother invested at UBS half her liquid assets in Puerto Rico bond funds. They knew this was a risky, unsuitable investment for her, yet they pushed their only products as if they were US Savings Bonds, safe but with much higher yields... Three months later, she lost about 30% of the principal, and today her losses are at about 70%... She now lives with me and our hopes are that she will recover some of that through arbitration. This should never have happened., and i am glad something good can come out of the terrible losses so many have had to suffer. Please, do the right thing!

Sadly, many lobby groups for less progressive broker-dealers and insurance cos --and some from the companies themselves-- say they won't serve retirement savers if required to put investor's interests before their own. But this wouldn't be necessary if they were already doing that. At least now investors start to see the contempt some firms have toward them. It's eye-opening!

I am for these new rules. Advisers could be paid a flat fee per dollar amount of the investment instead of a percentage that varies by incentives held out to the advisor by the investment company when they are pushing one instrument over another. The client is never told that the advisor gets a bonus for selling a certain investment over another. High time investors get all the facts and can make a decision intelligently in their own interest.

I believe the preamble to the Constitution serves as a perfect mission statement for the American people in their conduct towards one another. If we all considered the "general Welfare" of others when choosing our actions we would have a smaller government. That said, Wall Street's actions by its own account demonstrates that the general welfare of others isn't any consideration. I, therefore, support any efforts towards making investment managers accountable for their actions by holding them to fiduciary standards in their relationships with their customers.

Please make it mandatory for these professionals to act in the best interest of their clients...that is what they are getting paid for like so many other professionals. Its only fair and right to have our rights protected. Thank you for protecting investors money.

It is time to let retirement accounts, like the State Teachers Retirement System, to vote their corporate share as shareholders. Then the huge corporate paychecks could be reduced to something rational and the millions distributed to share holders for legitimate taxation and income. We cannot let the cheats keep the money.

Wall Street doesn't need to steal their customer's retirement security!!! If it weren't for the customers, there would be NO MONEY in the banks anyways! Stop being selfish, and think of the people(for a change) that help keep the banks open in the first place!!!!!! How would you all feel if the customers took every bit of their money out of the banks?Who would suffer then? Banks would go crazy trying to get their previous customers back, so your bank would be tops!

Republicans do not care about the welfare of most of the citizens of this country. They care only about the welfare of the rich and they care about lining their own pockets. They would deny health care to those who need it but can't afford it. They protect the rich but do not care if others are scammed and put in financial ruin. They then have the absolute nerve to call themselves Christian. It seems to me that Christ drove the moneychangers out of the temples!

I have worked for over 37-years for the State of KS. And now my retirement. And Gov Brownback is trying to take my hard earned money out of my hand. I have had to returned back to the workforce. I support whatever, Sen Warren and my President. I don't support the Republican party cause they have had to work hard. They all inherit their wealth. So how would they know how hard everyday Americans lived. Thank you for all that you do. I lived in a small rural community Parsons, Ks. KEEP FIGHTING for us.

Guys please sign this! This program is super helpful and important to the development of young children and babies in kansas and helps give first time parents the tools to help their babies be on track with necessary development and learning; if not ahead of other children when they enter kindergarten. My mom has been working with this program for 8 years now and we have seen first hand how much of a difference it makes. The program workers also act as social workers and can provide parents with important information to help with any issue and do free ASQs at least once a year with free hearing and vision screenings. This program makes a HUGE impact in the latino community in the City of Olathe, KS Government and in the Olathe District Schools.

That the risk levels in the system have exceeded where we were in 2008 means that reforms weren't strong enough. If we at least get this level of protection in place, maybe the average person will not have to absorb the consequences by being lied to about what really constitutes their best interest.

All citizens of our country must be held accountable. Individual citizens are often pursued due to tax issues then so must our financial systems on all levels be responsible to those whom they represent as well as to our country for the ramifications for any wrongdoing in which they take part.

Sure does not feel like the health care of my grandparent's era. Now, I appreciate, more than ever, how much our parents took care of our health and general welfare (not necessarily a bad word,by the way) ! We reaped more than we deserved. I feel that I can never repay them for their lifelong tireless and unselfish hard work and sacrifices so that we could enjoy a prosperous childhood . They secured our chances for a practical education and bright future, never blackmailing us into following in their footsteps. It seems we are now presented with car salesmen like fast talkers who seem to be more concerned with closing the deal than providing affordable programs. Reams of redundant paperwork,unreasonable deadlines,threats, both implied and real, More than enough to overwhelm even a seasoned Rhodes scholar! Life may have seemed simpler back then but we may have frittered away our freedoms,our physical and financial security,our culture, proud heritage and history,too busy trying to be all things to all people.

I support Senator Elizabeth Warren, and President Barack Obama in any action they will take to protect, and support seniors, and other vulnerable American citizens, in any way. Our citizens must always come first, and not corporations, or other business entities, ever, at all. All elected representatives take a solemn pledge to serve the people, and this Congress should do so, as it is their legal and moral duty to do so.

I welcome protection by financial advisors to act in the best interest of their clients. However, the companies they work for don't allow them to do that -- as far as I know. So, let's change that and let advisors help their clients like they should.

My wife's financial advisor, who serves starving artists, moved to a firm that earns its money by commission on sales of financial products, rather than a flat fee. That raises conflict-of-interest questions, which I hope Department of Labor rules will prevent. Thanks and have a nice day.

there is no comment that can be made to either a republican congress (of , for that matter, to almost any republican), or to wall street that would make sense to people who are so consumed with greed and that that have ceased being human. Who knows what they understand, it certainly isn't any human language.

I used to be an successful investor back before the Glass-Seigel Law prevented brokerage houses to become banks so the Fed lowered interest rates to have chumps buy homes and stocks, collapsing the the economy so taxpayers could bail out big banks who became bigger banks after they bought out other less successful little ones that survive today and make most of their money speculating on derivatives thanks the the brainy sell-out computer nerds or quants that designed soft-ware to the make split second decisions that no individual investor could possibly match, cept Buffet and maybe me (if i had money left) as a world expert on precognitive gambling and investment.

Congress should be ashamed. The tax payers are paying for you to live a life of luxury while they suffer. You pretentious people say you are for the people. YOU ARE NOT. You are for how much you can get out of us. Why can't you take a pay cut? Why can't you pay your own insurance? Why can't you be half fair? We the people want justice and freedom.

The banking/investment community has demonstrated too well over the past decade that they cannot be trusted to protect consumers' interests. We need a strong set of regulations in place (with a strong enforcement agency overseeing them) to protect the rights and resources of vulnerable segments of our citizenry.

This appeal lacks sufficient specificity to really inspire me. It's like your asking financial advisers to voluntarily do what they are supposed to do. Obviously, many or most of them act only in their own/their business' interests. I'll sign it, but I'm skeptical that you'll have any impact on the Department of Labor without holding their hands to the fire.

This rule change is imperative; but don't lose sight of the fact that if workers' wages weren't stagnant over the last 30 years, we just might have some money saved for retirement. Most workers don't earn enough to live, let alone save for retirement. Again, the wage earners get squeezed.

Too many elected leaders have bought into the idea that unregulated businesses operate in the best interest of their customers. Time and time again this is proven false. Businesses operate in their own best interest, primarily their financial interest, often through fraud and deceit, but always to get the most profit for the lowest outlay. It should be government's responsibility to command and control the excesses of capitalism.

Corporate decisions regarding pensions and conservative attacks on Social Security require us to put money in the stock market, but most of us don't have the training to handle investment decisions, putting us at the mercy of financial advisers, with no protection or assurance that they are actually helping us instead of helping themselves to our hard-earned money. It's time to require fiduciary responsibility from people who handle other people's money.

To our representatives: I attended The Home Birth of a Dear friend and will always remember how special it was for her and their family as well as me. My friend was also at my Home Birth and we have the sacred bond of her being the one to "catch" my 9 pound baby boy! Our families feel so fortunate to have had Superb Quality care before, during ,and after, our Birthing experiences! As our Pediatrician was always supportive and involved in our families well being and came for a "Home Visit" after each birth! Certain to ensure the health of each was PERFECT! Also, in the year of 1991-1992 My third son and I were interviewed and featured in the Health section of the "Baltimore Sun Paper" for Our Home Birth experience. Truly, Our Home Births were so beautiful! We were very well educated by our midwives for each of the births, and we had the people with us that made our births most beautiful! I feel so fortunate to have had my Mother beside me during those times, especially now as she has passed away suddenly, 4 years ago, age 74. Also Breastfeeding came so easily at home (as with the opposite, per Hospital) Please, Honor, "OUR Right" to Birthing," Our Choose" "Our Children" We are healthier for our chooses!

I thought they were morally bound by the description of their jobs as financial advisors to do just that. If we must now have them swear to follow the long standing understanding of their job descriptions, then yes, yes, of course, yes. Greed has buried every civilization that has fallen in history. Success of the planet depends on keeping all members of each section of every division of life up and running. Sink holes don't just happen in the ground. They happen in all aspects of thought, action and aftermath. Maybe we have stopped looking back at mistakes to be avoided in favor of inventions and techno-advances for the future which money can be made on and spent for little more need than because it's there. If we love our children and their children, perhaps our best minds could go back and review history before participating in the unknown consequences of promoting and selling unnecessary gadgets that might later cause illness or worse and spend the initial monies better by cleaning up the messes we've already made so many of. Our world is in crisis. We all need to be there for every other one of us.

My friend's account lost $5K and on top of that the fund manager took another $5K in fees for making bad investments!!!! How about no fees if the account loses money!!!! They sell off my friend's assets to pay the fees to themselves. Like the bank is giving us less than 1% on our savings account, fund managers should only get 1% of dividends, interest or proceeds coming into the account without selling assets.

i believe what the president is propossing to pass onto congress is important. Retiree's should be able to enjoy their later years without the worry of whether their money is actually in the different accounts they've been investing in when they reached those golden years. i know from personal experience what a heart breaking experience that is. My father was in his late 60's when he lost money to the Enron scandal. that should have never happened but it did and with better regulations it can be avoided. so help the president and all those other up standing americans change laws tha will help americans, our retirees.

I love and respect that our President is, finally, going around the evil and corrupt, right-wing forces controlling the GOP. These thugs who pretend to represent the people presently rule our Congress, through ignorance and greed. Where were you (Mr. President) four years, and even two years ago? At last you are recognizing the reality and ruthlessness of the opposition and acting accordingly. Today's GOP is little more than a well-"oiled" (bought and paid for), band of fear and hate monger liars and cheats. With their own TV network, corrupt Governors in over 24 states; a national hate radio network and the US Supreme Court's majority support, these those in our now morally bankrupt Congress have proven themselves ruthless. Working feverishly, in lock-step, they are pushing back with more bad policy making or none at all. They will, inadvertently, destroy the environment, too, in their wake. Their style is repugnant, their policy is poison and their end-game will weaken the middle class and leave the poorest Americans . . . completely hopeless. Thank you, Mr. President, for all you are doing, today, to try to stop them. And, God help save us from the religious right.

YES! You would THINK that we would not have to make RULES for financial advisers to act in the best interests of their CLIENTS! But evidently we DO have to make rules to force (require) financial advisers to be honest, and act in their clients' best interests. So let's get the regulations in place!

AS a CFP (retired) I know that there are some financial advisers (if you wish to refer to them) who are hired to sell there employers products. They should notify there clients that is reality they are primarily sales persons not financial advisers.

Bankers have become the most grossly overpaid, and yet most grossly under-regulated, demons of America. It is high time to change that, through strong regulation by the Federal Government. Bankers must make America more affordable for working citizens. Interest rates on loans for homes, college tuition, credit cards and so on are far too high.

Now that company backed pensions are becoming a thing of the past, workers are at the mercy of their 401 k plans. Any hope of retirement security lies in the hands of the funds chosen by company management. Often companies are given perks to join certain plans and heaven only knows what the priorities of the financial advisors are under these conditions. If Congress really cares about the future of American retirees and other investors as well, it will take action to protect the public.

Please - Help protect Americans' retirement security by supporting new rules that would require financial advisers to act in the interest of their customers rather than for their own financial gain. Join the president's call to the Department of Labor to issue these rules, and don't let congressional action undermine this commonsense effort.

It cost my FATHER $6,000.00 by TRUSTING A Westren&Southern insurance salesman (" RETIREMENT ADVISOR") to KEEP his FAMILY'S Buarial Money in AN Annuity---RATHER THAN pay it IN ADVANCE---makeing him IN-ELLEGEABLE for Medicaide to pay MY MOM'S nurseing-home bill---A PRE-PAID FURNAL would have NOT been COUNTED as SAVEINGS & Medicaide would have PAID MOM'S NURSEING-HOME BILL IN FULL!!!!!! AND NOOO OHIO DID NOT GIVE US ANY TIME TO CONVERT THE FUNDS!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!! Had Mom LIVED longer the bills (FULLY COVERED BY MEDICAIDE(except His MONEY was in the WRONG FUND) WOULD HAVE WIPPED-OUT 80% of ALL DAD'S SAVEINGS!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

It's disgusting how little the "average-working-Joe" is rewarded after giving their youth, health, and lifetime to their nation's economy & government. It's time we were protected and APPRECIATED for our contributions.

Retirement accounts are critical for people to be able to have a comfortable financial future. There are too many ways for "financial advisors" to conduct scams. Stronger laws will prevent unethical financial advisors from taking advantage of people.

This should be an unquestionable duty of those handling retirees finances! Allowing them the ability to do otherwise is unethical and unconscionable! They can destroy peoples lives. Some financial advisors will make moral choices, but many will not. It is an incredulous that this country allows them to work against the clients' best interests and make money while doing so!

Time to monitor the financial advisor field and issue rules that have TEETH IN THEM so that those whose primary motivation is greed rather than fair and competent care of their customers lost their license to advise.

Main Street or wall street --- there are way more dollars on wall street but the votes are on Main Street. But I guess you and your billionaire cronies are pretty confident you can buy those votes, especially when those same cronies are picking the pockets of ordinary middle class Americans.

I am trying very hard to be a wise custodian of my retirement monies, but am overwhelmed by the financial industry's ability to confuse me with management fees, transaction fees, advisor fees, until I have no idea whether my interests are being represented. I accept responsibility for being custodian of my investments, but would genuinely appreciate legislation that supported my efforts.

Financial advisers should have a fiduciary duty to their clients. Plain & simple! This would mean they must work in the best interests of their clients. The adviser's interest should NOT play any role. Criminal, not just civil penalties should attach to bad behavior by the adviser. that is an important first step toward cleaning up the financial services industry.

Requiring that financial advisers have their own profits at risk in the positions they recommend to clients - as opposed to brokerages where advisers can maximize returns by minimizing genuine effort - is the best solution to the conflict of interest between supplier rents and consumer protection. This initiative is a good start.

Brokers and financial advisors should operate only in their customers' best interests and not be allowed to steer their consumers into unethical investments. No retirement accounts should be transferred from Main St. to Wall St. coffers.

This provision should be common sense and obvious, but it isn't. Also, it is a much better route to try to address the problem this way rather than by directly looking at securities licensing which would be a huge fight. It will also touch financial "advisors" who do not hold securities licenses.

I have just had a convresation with good friends about their financial advisor. He sells them plans for which he is paid so they may not be in their best intreest. They think it is great because they do not have to pay him out of their own pocket directly. I tried to explain why this is a really bad situatuion but they could just not see it. ... and they are not dumb people. Hope this rule helps them.

Doesn't just make common sense that financial advisers act in the interest of their customers. It should be a win win situation, not one of betrayal. Just do the right thing. Imagine if lawyers and doctors were acting to make money first and serve their clients second or third. It sounds ludicrous. So does having financial advisors working against the interest of their clients. Stop the legalization of betrayal. Thank you, Ron D'Addario

All the retirement benefits to Senetors and Congressman be brought under scrutiny by Public and they must be trimmed in light with Social Security benefits of any layman. They must NOT be treated Royaly and be testd for their Loyalty to the americans in general. They should work on improving the benefits after retirements. Usually, Americans do not save enough so only hope they have through Social Security.. Our elected elites must NOT treat themselves as special and lavish their retirement , unbeknown to Public. Financial Advisors should do what is in the best interest of their clients, not their Company or person gain. However, doing what is in the best interest of the people, needs to start with Congress. If they do t start showing a spirit if cooperation and doing what is best for this nation vs self interest, we are going to fail as a nation. This is already happening.

The people of this country are what make this country run. If congress take care of the wheel's this country will crumple! Leave our Social Security and all retirement programs alone. Including the Military! Can't someone Impeach any Politician or all of them some way if they put the Middle class, poor in harm's way?

It's a little late for people over the age of 60 as we have gone through 3 recessions during our productive years of employment. We have experienced and suffered from the Savings and Loan debacle, the Dot Com debacle and the current CDO debacle that resulted in the longest and deepest recession in history. You just can't lose that much principal and still be able to retire at any age. Life has too many unexpected "costs" to the individual. A few would be unexpected medical costs, unexpected educational costs, unexpected transportation costs due to foreign political unrest, and the usual "minor" costs like having to have major work on your car, teeth, pets, funeral attendance, loss of job, recovering from natural disasters, etc. ad infinitum.

This is important for American workers. This congress is determend to destroy Evers and all progress that has been to protect the jobs and rights of the worker. It is disgusting to observe the tactics that this congress uses to deny any and all legistraytion that is in the interest on the country and the people. Just observe Speaker Boehner.....

Many financial advisers are no different than thieves. I do free taxes for old folks and see the terrible churning that some do; especially for incapacitated clients. Other horror stories are abundant. The very fact that the industry is fighting this is because they don't want to stop being dishonest. Ask yourself, do you represent the American people or big contributors?

People have been told for years, "Save for retirement" and these people need to be protected from the Wolves of Wall Street. With trillions of dollars at stake and the Radical Right wanting to eliminate Social Security as well as any Consumer Protection we, as a society, must protect ourselves from those what want to destroy us all in the name of "Profit" and "Free Enterprise". Nothing is free but it should be fair.

A family member went to the same broker for decades and was convinced that his investments were doing very well. Once my brother got a look at the funds, he realized they were not free from assorted broker fees. But our relative refused to believe that his broker was not treating him well and continued their relationship. We can only guess how much he lost in fees over the decades.

I've personally experienced this blight. Heading into retirement I MUST have my retirement accounts performing. Fiduciary responsibility needs to be the ubiquitous rule of financial law, not something hard to find. Your advisors should not be reaping a bigger percentage for themselves than they are gaining for you to augment your income. Shameful.

I have been working since I have been 14 the agreement was that I will have SS when I am at retirement age. Keep the promise that was made to me more than 45 years ago. If I don't receive my SS than Congress doesn't receive theirs and I want Congress to start paying into their Medical and Dental just like the rest of us. They don't like Obama Care well I don't like paying for their coverage when most Americans are having a hard time paying for their own medical. I want the Congress to do their job for the American people not BIG Corrupt Business.

As a retired FINRA registered representative, who is still a working Certified Financial Planning Practitioner, I strongly support the idea of requiring all registered representatives and registered investment advisers to work in the best interests of their clients. However, a commission based financial services system where new representatives are indentured servants to the broker dealers, is not a system that will encourage fiduciary/best interests to prevail. I do not want to paint all representatives with the same broad brush, as many long term representatives do work in the best interests of their clients. Many representatives in the lower echelon of the system work hard and honestly to serve their clients. Yet, they are at the mercy and direction of the upper managements who often do not work with the same concept. Upper management's main and only goal is to "make money" at all costs, as we have so recently seen. The sad fact of this move would be to make the work of the front lines more difficult, while the top layers continue to focus on the bottom line. This idea is putting an infected band-aid on the wound, it won't make things better. Sounds like a great idea on paper, but without the proper direction and enforcement, it will just be another set of regulations making the job more paperwork intensive and changing nothing. Maybe we need to take commissions out of the picture like some other countries are doing, and have advisers work for a fee, require more than the standard industry tests, i.e. series 6, series 7, etc., require training that goes beyond how to sell, and not make the industry a revolving door of young people whose career life expectancy is how many people they know that they can sell products to, how long they can work while companies take part of their income as deferred compensation, which their short careers will not allow them to keep, or have them work as independent contractors which amounts to the previously mentioned indentured servitude. The current structure of the industry is what needs to be changed. What the industry is designed to not want is experienced representatives who have a wealth of knowledge, who know the system is corrupt at its heart, and works within it to do the right thing by their clients. The industry at its heart wants inexperienced people who look the other way, and make tons of money for them, surprisingly, there are people out there who can make the tons of money, know the right thing to do, do it, and stay long enough to do their best to avoid the traps. As long as the brokerage houses do the due diligence and set the production bars, the representatives will be at their mercy and all the best interests concepts will continue to be dust in the wind. FYI: my career involved being a representative, a training manager, a district manager, an acting branch manager and finally an independent representative (truth in packaging no one is ever truly independent in the securities industry.)

It is about time this happened. Imagine how much damage the Republicans could have caused if they had succeeded in getting Social Security "privatized" in "investment accounts" with no oversight like now?? These financial "advisers" would have had even more reason to abuse the trust investors put in them and scam the public even more. It is amazing to us how happy and willing the Republicans are to allow the fleecing of Americans -- even old, fragile, and often gullible elderly people who are not as sharp as they once were and are forced to trust the word of these "advisers" to protect their life savings. When will the Republican party ever start working to protect people instead of creating more and more ways for the crooks to damage us? When? Apparently NEVER.

Having been a victim of these kinds of people, I'm all for it. SOME are fine, some are total ripoff artists. My IRA has lost 5% over the last year as the stock market is setting records. Why? Fees. Time to pull it outta there and spend! (Donate some to MoveOn :)

$17 Billion with a B - every single year? I'm at a loss for words. But "staggering", "insane", and "criminal" come to mind. Let's pay attention to see which politicians fight this and how they try to spin their reasons. There is no valid reason to fight this. Some will, though, and I think they should be publicly called on it. Did I mention "shameful"?

This action is way overdue many people's of wealth enjoy the freedom and security provided by American make no mistake soldiers, civilians and their families who survive check to check The fleecing of the American people is common practice on wall street Like ENRON,AGI,BAIL OUTS FOR COMPANIES who cook their books!!! that's wrong and the only people who suffer is the common man by which the country is built the Banking system is equally guilty but get off with out a scratch I'm sick of it

It is easy to be vulnerable to people who know how to gain your trust but have their own welfare as their primary goal. Financial advisors should be first committed to their clients. It's only ethical.

I'm one of these retirees! My remaining days, however long that might be, are dependent on my retirement account having as much deposited into it as possible. My retirement advisors should be working in my favor. In the end, what they are paid should be their reward -- and they shouldn't be able to embellish that reward with ill-begotten funds. These new rules much have both strict instructions on advisor expectations as well as significant penalties if the rules are violated. Mr. President and DOL representatives, be our strongest advocates and leaders!

The American dream has morphed into an American nightmare. Our government is not "by the people, of the people and for the people" any longer (if it ever has been). Our schools should teach morals and ethics; citizenship and social responsibility. What ever happened to the boyscout code of honor to tell "the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth"? If the Titanic were to sink today, does any one believe that the women and children would be the first to get off before it goes to the bottom?

All financial advisors need to inform us of their fiduciary commitment. Since their credential alphabet soup is so confusing, we need some system. Even my long-time bank forced me to talk with their "financial advisor" before I could open a Roth CD. My 94 year old mother has lost thousands to an advisor who has preyed upon her for 20 years and continues to do so. I am considering contacting a fiduciary, but I don't know if I can trust him either. We need help.

Too many people trust their financial "advisors" , falsely believing that they are looking out for their (the consumers) best interest. This bill could help to justify that trust. Helps the economy in the long run by putting more money in retirees pockets.

It's about time that common sense takes a step forward. Americans deserve to have a fair shot at growing their investments without starting the process with an advisor who is no better than a pick-pocket thief. Thanks for standing up for the Middle Class.

Too many people have been ripped off by these thugs in fancy suits. They are heartless and greedy with a need for status symbols like fancy cars etc. This is their first priority and that means that they will leave elderly couples in poverty and despair so they can drive around in a Mercedes, wear fancy suits, and any other conspicuous consumption that feeds their pathetic egos. It is only logical to pass laws to prevent them from robbing people of their life savings.

This hostile take over of America by private citizen multi billionaire Koch brothers et al has been systematically implemented over the past 30 years we need to end this gerrymandering and stop the sale of America to these industrialist and we need to regulate the federal reserve or shut that private bank down! Trying to get a balanced budget in the backs of the poor and what is left of the dwindling middle class is an abomination!

The same protective thinking that applies to legalized gambling should be used when it comes to "speculation" with the hard-earned money of others. The public needs protection from unscrupulous "financial advisers" getting rich at the expense of others.

Wall Street almost destroyed the American economy with their unethical, criminal greed. Please don't let it happen again, because it seems like it's only a matter of time before the American people are robbed again by the very same perpetrators who brought such misery and destruction to us before; and for the same rapacious, conscienceless lust for money.

In 1979 President Clinton (Slick Willy) sign into law, allowing less Bank regulation. That was the start of the 2007-2008 Depression. Our Government is controlled by the greedy, elite 1% and their never ending thirst for more money for them and less for us. It is an outright SIN for them to take away our hard earned retirement security savings.

Fees should not eat up all the earnings on these 401K accounts that sadly have been sold to America as a replacement for a pension. I think it is criminal to take advantage of any pension or retirement plan investment. This is critical to survival. Sadly in a whole lifetime most will never be able to save or invest wisely enough to last through retirement. This is a pipe dream but it is made more difficult by all the fat cat fees that plague many of these funds. Our president and Senator Warren are wise to do something about this!

It is sad that there is a need for these rules. One might think that one engaged a financial advisor in order that he or she give advice that would be to one's own benefit. Alas, that is apparently not the case with many such "advisors." I am not opposed to these persons making a commission, but I do expect them to act ethically.

case study: I was disabled at work about 30 yrs before my planned retirement. Working for the State I can not collect workers compensation for any loss of wages (only fire and police) are eligible. add to that similiar senior scientists in industry made 2-4x. As a single mom I paid for daycare. Now i am below poverty level. And my ex attched my disabilty check for child support. He also put a lien on my home for child Child support so having tried three times am not able to refinance under "keep Americans in home" nor conventional low rate loan. My first investment portfolio started in 2008 an l,ike millions middle class like me lost more than we could afford. My investment broker was fired from his firm. Please protect us!

We worked for this Social Security all our lives. How about "Hands Off" our Soc. Sec. Trust & by the way...where is the 2.3Trillion $ that has been taken from this fund in the past 10-12 yrs. This was a taken w/o justification. Someone needs to get behind this & find out where 2.3 trillion was spent?! No one is willing to answer this question...no surprise there. Thks for all your efforts. Johanna B.

The majority of people under 60 years of age cannot manage their lives or money. They are suffering from "entitlement syndrome", but by now one would think they'd recognize their parents have little to inherit..most surely, whatever remains will not meet their selfish needs!

Note specifically the confiscatory, and non-disclosed, surrender fees charged to annuity holders by Allianz Ins. to compensate Allianz for the exorbitant commissions paid by Allianz to the brokers/agents who get their clients to sign up for Allianz annuities.

There is a huge disadvantage to being from anywhere among the lower 90% on the income/family wealth scale. However, as more and more transparency reveals this, income inequality will be reduced. I feel this safeguard is an important step in that direction.

As an insurance broker I have a fiduciary responsibility to place my client's interests in the forefront of all transactions. Yet my power to ruin a client and his business is far lower than that of a financial adviser. Absolutely they should bear the same responsibilities, not to predict the market but yes to be liable for a clear pattern of steering or misrepresenting funds. Elena Schott

Department of obvious here. If I behaved as badly as some of these guys do in the name of doing their jobs, I'd be serving one long prison sentence after another. OF COURSE people who provide services to others should advise prudently and provide the service they say they will-good advice, in this case-or their business should be considered fraudulent. In the name of protecting consumers from fraud, please pass legislation that encourages ethical and legal behavior-and then-ENFORCE. That should be good to start with.

Mr. President is trying to make America a better place for all citizens and must apply a variety of pathways to make the right things happen! This is an appropriate path to take because unfortunately many financial advisers to not act in the best interests of their customers. Thank you MoveOn.org for taking on this issue.

I know this sounds made up, but after my father died my mother was told by a "certified financial planner" to invest in limited partnerships that made him a bundle and lost most of what she started with. I had no idea that was legal. We tried to sue him but although the lawyers agreed we got screwed, we had no case.

Thank the two of you for taking action, with respect to this very important legislation. Too many "small investors" get swallowed up by their financial advisors.

I have lost hundred of thousand of dollars through trust management and their investment by these firms, in the stock market. Trustee's & Banks, and Fiduciaries are nothing more then legal criminal activity to extrapolate, and exploit a beneficiaries wealth for their own . Under the current system their is no protection of wealth for a beneficiary or investor, as unethical investments are the easiest way covertly to take your money. With front running common place among banks investment strategies, selling their own product to you at a premium when its actually a loss, is the creative way to take your inheritance, retirement savings, and your sanity. In this situation, a Bank broker or trader might buy or sell a stock with knowledge of a forthcoming position that a brokerage house will take. That position is an institutional-size order that will materially affect the stock's price. Trading on such sensitive information that is not available either to clients or the public is a form of front running, and it is not only unethical, it also is illegal. You think about what the Goldman & sacks, Lehman Brothers, and others, did in the real estate market is nothing short of what Trust banks and their involvement in the stock market also do. The Bank and Investment Cabal, will take where ever it is possible to make up for the banks losses. Wall Street, Investment Bankers and their attorneys is nothing more then a license to steel. Do not ever put put Trust with a institutional trust bank. I don't believe anything will ever be done about any financial circumstance where Wall Street and the banks are condemned for their practices, as they are one in the same. And government must answer to the Banks. Good Luck

Stem the tide of corruption in the financial industry; the cost to our States Governments in having to care for ripped-off seniors is staggering. Add the cost of Alzheimer's into the mix then understand this is no small crisis.

I started saving when I was 30yrs old low investment & boy, is it low. I think Wall Street has enough money & has made enough money off middle-class Americans. I knew when they first introduced investing in Wall Street it was a huge scam on The American People ; you see my Father B; 1911-D; 1988; explained The 1929 Crash, The Depression, Social Security & he said none would ever happen again, because our country had learned a hard lesson. He also was a solid Democrat his entire life. And did believe in trickle down economics. Tool & Die Maker. He had a retirement from his Employer & Social Security. Thank-you.

Every time a senior citizen is bilked out of their retirement savings, the government has to end up supporting them with some kind of aid. Isn't that a little stupid? Why not protect these accounts from so called "shady" investment advisers? Help the people for the change!!!

Hiring a financial advisor turned out to be like hiring a highway robber to me. They were after all my retirement so they could live high and assumed they had rights to as much as they could. I find that lawyers are their best friends. It is so sad to recall how hard my husband worked and how we gave up things to save for the future. My advisor used the tactic of offering the carrot and the bait and switch. I was so trusting. Complaints go nowhere when local government officials are afraid to confront powerful men and side with the common person.

Thank you, President Obama and Senator Warren. Without this help, we will move swiftly to third world status, given all the changes Republicans want to make regarding major reductions in middle class, working class prosperity. And the poor, they forget altogether, blaming them for their condition and locking them up whenever possible.

A financial adviser whom my mother trusted bought her an annuity--against her explicit instructions never to spend her money on annuities. This sort of high-handed maneuver should be outlawed, and that law strictly applied. Older persons are often treated in such a disrespectful manner, even when they are quite capable of making the important decisions. It's simply wrong.

This is long overdue. The downward spiral of America's morals could have been changed if Congress had been a willing participant from day one of President Obama's first term. Hopefully, this new Congress will stand up for jobs, equality and justice for all.

There has been a lot of fear-mongering about Social Security and much talk of how people should save for retirement without it. Why can we not protect people who are trying their best to provide for themselves? These rules would be a good step to make us more secure. Financial advisors, like the rest of us, would take pride in doing a service to their customers. These rules might keep them from temptation.

Thank you for protecting the interest of all Americans, but especially those who pay taxes to support the loopholes of the wealthy. On the other hand, this proposal is so basic as to be embarrassing. ISN'T THIS WHAT FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS ARE SUPPOSED TO BE DOING?

This matter is at the core of every millennials best interest as we cannot count on retirement means like social security or 401Ks like other generations before as republicans and corporatist democrats are trying to strip the American people of those rights and their ability to monetarily prosper. Please take this measure seriously as we are the most connected and supportive voting populace. Thank you.

A financial adviser should act as a fiduciary for his client. To me, that should be expected without any discussion. Please set this situation right! If people trusted their advisers to do their best for them, more people would invest.

I have seen the excessive amounts of money taken from both personal investments as well as retirement and pension funds that simply diminish the total return to both. Financial advisors are free to act with our money on their own interests and can not be held accountable for their actions. It license to steal. There must be a fiduciary duty for these "money managers and advisors" with respect to the money they invest to whosever money it is.

This should be such an obvious tenet of any professional paid for advisement by their clientele. The fact that it isn't happening is proof that financial advisors aren't able to self-regulate themselves. As someone who pays $2500 yearly in financial advisor fees, I wholeheartedly support these new rules. Ethical advisors who are already acting in their clients' best interests shouldn't mind, correct? Any Congress person who stands in the way of these rules are clearly on the side of ethics-benders and should be voted out.

Finally! A proposition to level the playing field. Fairness to retirees. I lost many thousands owing to bum steers by Kirlin Investments. They walked all over me and, before it was too late, the money from the sale of two houses was gone. "It's backed by the US Government at maturity" they told me. Only when Ecuador went bankrupt did I learn that "maturity" meant I would be 120 years old! What a sap I was.

'Economics' is deliberately obfuscating... and we all are let scratching our heads and hanging onto our wallets. This works to 'financial advisors' advantage... they can't be trusted, any more than Wall Street and banksters, so regulation is required.

One can expect a free adviser to compensate himself through commissions or kickbacks but expects a paid adviser to honor his customer first. That is true in every other business. Advisers who feather their own nest while requiring payment are unethical and should be prohibited.

Americans shouldn't be saving for retirement through the stock market. That just puts us all 'in bed' w/companies striving to just make $$/do the best for their bosses/@ the expense of our environment and future generations - this should not be the 'business' we're in. The government should expand their offers for things such as pell grants etc. for (starting small businesses and start ups). Ones that serve future generations and secure our freedom to breath and have clean water and survive ourselves!

This is a "no brainer". It is hard to believe that people can work hard all their lives and end up with retirement then be "circled" and preyed upon by shady financial advisers and brokers. These crooks don't work for their money but steal other's hard earned cash. We need to protect the hard working people of this country and make sure their retirement is not stolen by the thieving financial advisers and brokers!

Can you take a further step: making get financial advising more available and more affordable? Is there any trustworthy government agency/organisation that can provide advice to regular hard working people who don't have that much time to move their 401K fund allocation around. Their life-long savings is not growing in the way they expected.

I am angry that my parents lost half their retirement in the crash due to the blatant irresponsibility of the banks. This is reprehensible and unforgivable. Now my parents live with great financial stress, and after having sold their house to live in an extended care facility, they no longer own property and are not certain that they will be able to afford to stay where they are. My mother slaved at her job for 40 years because she didn't want to become a burden on her children, but if she and her husband are forced to leave this place they will not have enough money to buy a home and will be doomed to live out their old age and die in poverty, probably in some horrible place for the poor. PLEASE STOP ALLOWING THE BANKS TO DESTROY THE LIVES OF MILLIONS OF PEOPLE!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

Good job Sen. Warren wish rest of Democrats would speak with a powerful voice like you,They just sit there n take lies,and blame everything on them when it's them not doing their job.All the want to do is raise money,don't care to govern for our country.They complain too much government but congress is the government ,they have government jobs,with government perks,loopholes to not pay taxes.They get paid with our middle class taxes as they don't pay their share of taxes,they go to Washington to get rich even if they were already wealthy.They play games with Democrats,Senate Republican's pretend they are passing something but behind D's back they may tell R's n Boehner don't pass it in the house.They go to the last minute to maybe pass a bill which is most likely full of poison things knowing then it won't get passed n then blame Democrats.All they do is play games with people lives.Sen.Boxer,Pelosi,Sen.Durbin,Rep.Gutierrez n maybe a couple of other Democrats.Thanks Sen.Warren for ur hard work for our country.

The hard working American people must be protected against the big banking interest who are preying on our lack of financial sophistication to cheat us out of our hard-earned money. Who can do this for us than our elected officials, but wait, most of them have already been bought off by the same big Banks. Help us Sen. Warren and the overdue real President Obama! Email

We need these rules desperately. Without them, more and more of the working population will find themselves destitute even just a few short years into their retirement. The current Congress is not there to help 'we, the people'. The current Congress serves the 1% exclusively. Don't be fooled.

It's about time that something is done for the consumers; instead of the corporations and people with the money. The hard working class struggle everyday to raise families and keep roofs over their heads. It would be nice to finally get help for all the work people do throughout their years and then have to struggle through their retirement years as well. Finally people can have a sense of security in their golden years.

It is a shame that we have to support new rules to require financial advisers to act in the interest of their customers. Let us consider that those financial advisers that fail to act in the interest of their customers 1. lose their right to be a financial adviser, 2. that they if convicted in a court of law will go directly to jail for a set time with no good behavior release.

We The People are living in the final death throes of the financial elites. Of course, they have conspired and will forever conspire to trade for themselves to the detriment of all else. Presently banks are foreclosing on your fellow Americans while employing forgeries and fraud. End the Fed. End the self-anointed financial nobility. I am NOT your friend and corporations are NOT people. Plant more acorns, We are gonna need more trees.

As a 45 plus year veteran of the Real Estate industry in the state of Connecticut, where conviction for not acting in the best interest of the customer or client can mean loss of license, fines and possibly jail time, it is inconceivable to me that the financial industry is not held to at least this standard if not greater, as handlers of other people's money. Wow.

The well-established rules of fiduciary duty which presently apply to doctors, lawyers, brokers and real estate agents should be applied to ALL occupations which have such control over people's lives and livelihood. This should, I repeat, SHOULD be a no-brainer.

Deregulation has allowed the unscrupulous to put the unqualified in charge of nearly everything in the United States, delivering higher profit returns on greatly diminished value. It hurts everyone for the benefit of the least deserving, and undermines competition, Capitalism's only implement of accountability. This change will fix that defect for financial planning services. its is a very worthwhile start, but it is a long way from enough.

This is scandalous! To know how much that 1% siphoned off by financial advisors over the years can affect the retirement of the middle class that is continually shrinking. Please help protect MY security by insisting that the Dept of Labor issues rules that financial advisors actually act in the interest of their customers. Why hasn't this been the case all along. What about all the little old grandmas and grandpas who have cheated by advisors who think taking a little bit here and a little bit there won't hurt. These rules should be a prerequisite for doing business in the first place!!!!

This really shouldn't be necessary but so sadly IT IS!! I think it should be a FELONY for a financial adviser to CHEAT their customers out of their hard-earned retirement income!! The Department of Labor MUST pass these rules to protect retirees who have worked all their lives for a healthy, relaxing retirement WITHOUT worry about how they will survive!!!

I lost a lot of money on stocks, because my financial advisor got paid whether I gain or lose money. So there is no incentive to even do the work to monitor stock accounts and adjust them as daily market conditions may require. I lost money & he still got his percentage of my money, even though the losses and wrong investments (WorldCom) were his fault. I know of no other profession in which you have no responsibility and still collect a nice salary. Regulation of this industry is long overdue. They have already proven that there is no incentive to behave responsibly and regulate themselves.

It's foul enough when giant corporations can legally buy votes, thanks to the current US Supreme Court's decision; it is downright offensive when a person hires someone to help with strategic planning for retirement, college, etc., and the person is not bound by personal ethics, much less binding rules, to act in the best interest of his clients. This person is supposed to represent his client and be compensated for his work, not for his own, self-serving extra-curricular financial gain.

I turned my retirement account over to a professional after I had managed it to double in value and then to crash to 80% of what I had before I started. They did OK for a year or two, then as my holdings sank like a stone they did nothing. I finally called them and asked "why are you selling X, Y, Z? They were like, OK. I realized I could do as good as those guys and took it back. My point being, they weren't even paying attention to my account. Irresponsible.

I find it INFURIATING that our SENATORS & REPS have THE BEST PAYCHECKS, HEALTHCARE & RETIREMENT PLANS OUR MONEY CAN BUY... yet the FIGHT TOOTH & NAIL to KEEP US... THEIR EMPLOYERS... from having even MEAGER PAYCHECKS, HEALTHCARE, & RETIREMENT BENEFITS. It's LONG PAST TIME that THEIR PAYCHECKS & BENEFITS are TIED DIRECTLY to THEIR VOTING in OUR FAVOR... And WE GET to VOTE on THEIR PAYCHECKS & BENEFITS!!!

Great idea. Many years ago a greedy broker sold ridiculous stocks "off the shelf" to my elderly Mom who believed she could still buy and sell stocks using good judgment; the stocks were inappropriate; finally we were able to get him and the company out of her affairs. People need protection.

Wall Street has for too long been allowed to commit crimes against the American people and our economy. It's about time that at least something "preventative" is being considered instead of just allowing Wall Street to continue unabated to do whatever is the desire of those with all the financial clout being able to do as they please to the rest of us. By all means, some common sense accountability WITH SOME CONSEQUENCES FOR A CHANGE! Thank you for your consideration. Karl Hilgert

It's to late for me. I lost all of my retirement in 2008. Now, like many disabled and older Americans, I sometimes feel such fear as to how I will eat and have a roof over my head, that the thought of dying provides relief as a last resort. I haven't the physical strength to start over. It's so sad. The news speaks of "terrorists abroad", but I see terrorists as being the banksters and lobbists that fail to care about the "greater good".

can't believe the status quo is set up the way it is that would require this legislation to set it right. I guess i can't get over how much big money owns our law making bodies and the extent they will go to destroy us, the American people. DO what you have to do as you are the only body that can protect us from the rape and pillaging of our corporations.

Strong Management (mutual funds) took 40% of my inheritance from me in 2001-2002. They enticed me into buying high risk NASDAC stocks. They manipulated the market. I believe they drove the price up & then sold the stocks. That caused the price to fall. I have lost many thousands of dollars. Had this law been in place I would've been protected rather than been exploited.

Financial advisors should be required to act in their client's best interest just like other professionals. Numerous other professions are required to have licenses. Certainly it is not unreasonable to have a regulation that requires financial professionals to be responsible with their clients' money.

This remains a vexing problem primarily due to industry's ability to curry favor with elected officials. The corrupting influence of money in our political system is undermining our democratic traditions and discouraging Americans from voting and/or running for office. This ominous development may well end our experiment in representative democracy unless we alter this decades-long trend. For the sake of the republic, we must amend the US Constitution to state that corporations are not people (and do not have constitutional rights) and money is not speech (and thus can be regulated by state and/or federal campaign finance laws). Short of accomplishing this, no other reform of significance will be achieved. The moneyed interests will turn any reform to their benefit, often at the expense of the nation as a whole.

I work with elderly and frequently see situations where there has been financial exploitation and abuse of my clients by unscrupulous actions of so called financial advisers. This leaves these folks in a horrible state that often takes a great deal of effort to set right, if that is even possible. You bet they should owe a duty to their clients to act in their best interests and good financial planners agree. The elderly are not just some huge field of profits waiting to be picked. Many are often vulnerable, needing protection and help that they can count on rather than getting fleeced.

I was a real estate broker for 30 years. I was required by law to have a fiduciary relationship with my clients because I represented them in one of the biggest and most important purchases they would ever make. That was a huge responsibility. Retirement accounts are no less important and there is no reason those who are advising people on making those investments shouldn't be held to the same standard. These new rules are long overdue.

I give you all of my support. Thank you so much to protect the retirees. Also can I please ask your help to protect the people on disability from congress stripping 20 percent of our income. It is cruel and mean hearted. I am on disability and I have mild cerebral palsy and neuropathy of which is extremely painful. The meds don't work most of the time. I have to use a cane to walk. I am unable to work. If congress takes away 20 percent of my income I would be in danger of losing my home... Can't someone please help people like me? THANK YOU VERY MUCH...

Although it is often difficult to decipher which moves by financial advisors are for the customers' security rather than their own financial gain, it is well worth the effort to guide them legally. Those of us who are not as financially savvy need the protection. It might make those advisors involved better human beings as well.

It is a sad sad reality that in our wonderful democracy we actually have to SIGN for doing this. How pathetic. And, in the meantime, these false prophet Republicans are ruining Christianity for me...at least. For me they are making a mockery out of Jesus Christ and all he stood for - as far as I learned growing up a Methodist. I am very up set, and I have NO DOUBT that Jesus is turning over in his grave about all this done "in hoc signo." Their sign is a very very atheistic one. Just read what Ayn Rand had to say about all this. Hugh W Buckingham

This is a basic, common-sense consumer protection, objectionable only if we want to place dishonest profiteering above the interests of average Idahoan and American families. Frankly, we're too busy working to make ends meet and trying to get a bit ahead, and don't have the time, energy, or resources to personally and individually monitor financial advisors who otherwise would be free to give us bunk advice or mismanage our money for their own benefit. This is one of many cases where sensible regulation of business and industry--including at the federal level--makes good sense and protects the interests of working families both in our own state and nationwide.

The managers of retirement accounts should be held to fiduciary standards - same as doctors and lawyers! A reasonable compromise with the financial services industry would allow assets over a certain amount - say, $1 million - to be invested in a speculative way. But the bedrock of retirement security needs the protection of high ethical standards. I would go beyond what this petition is requesting. Federal regulations can be changed by a new administration. Congress should legislate fiduciary requirements for retirement accounts.

Requiring financial ADVISORS to act in the best interest of their clients seems like something that they would just do anyway. What a pity that they've gotten to the point that it must be required of them, since they don't seem to have the moral compass to do it on their own. I strongly urge you to support this common-sense legislation.

I expect my medical advice, my legal advice to be in my best interests. I would like to have a financial advisor, and would do so if I thought they were advising me in MY best interests. I DO NOT have such an advisor since I currently have no assurance that financial advice is in MY interest and no recourse if it is not.

This is a great start to the total financial reform this country needs. Capitalism is great and certainly necessary, but the extent of greed that has come alive in today's age is out of control. People are suffering more than ever yet we keep outsourcing millions of jobs and the rich are getting insanely richer while everyone else struggles to just tread water so to speak. The gap between the wealthy and middle class is getting exponentially larger by the day it seems.

Many of our lawmakers have insisted that individuals should take more responsibility and/or have more freedom to invest our money towards retirement. In order to do that, we need to know that financial advisors are acting on our behalf. The proposed rules to assure that make common sense for both the conservative and the progressive points of view.

As a retiree I fully support these new rules and the people who want to implement them. We finally seem to be moving in the right direction thanks to MoveOn, Daily KOS, and many other like minded organizations and their supporters. Now if we could only motivate people to vote during elections we could really move this country forward.

I lost half million dollars shortly after I retired from a financial adviser that told me he had discovered the key to investing and would make me lots of money. He was recommended to me by Pacific Bell and I trusted him. Big mistake - I took him to arbitration several years later, while he was found guilty - he wasn't fined much and the $50,000 he had to pay went to my attorney at the time. And he took $48,000 - - I worked for 36 years and had well over 1 million dollars, and I have been working ever since I retired. I will be 70 this year and am so tired of working - and stressed if i don't keep working I will loose everything. PLEASE REQUIRE FINANCIAL ADVISERS ACT IN THE INTEREST OF THEIR CUSTOMERS - rather than for their own financial gain.

I am a Veteran, Active Voter and TaxPayer. As a Veteran I put my life on the line for Democracy. This missive is Democracy in action. Please help stop the plutocratic take over and save American Democracy and the middle class. Re-instating the Glass-Steagall Act is a good place to begin. It is a sad fact that national socialist philosophy now drives the republican party. Also, NO CUTS TO SOCIAL SECURITY and MEDICAID/CARE.

Between the Dot Com meltdown and the 2008 Economic Downturn, my retirement account lost half of its value based on advice of licensed advisers. They pocketed commissions for the "churn" to move assets around, but didn't protect my interests. What is really sad is that I called a halt to their activities and only lost half the value. I know many more who lost darn near everything. These self seeking and unethical practices have to stop.

Based upon international figures/data, seems my country is nearly the most corrupt of modern nations and some '3rd World.' So disgusting...and very disappointing. As a Vietnam vet and senior citizen, I have long understood now that "my" country is among the most corrupt and "unequal" among modern nations and worse than some '3rd world.' Grateful for those like the President and Warren, others who keep chipping away at the "rot" - so widespread in America!

This is so critical! I can't understand why this isn't already a part of the law! Why should financial advisers be permitted to put their own interests before those of their clients? We are put in the position of trusting them, as we would trust anyone who possesses expertise which we do not -- and then we have to abide by the consequences. It is just common sense that the way things are currently set up is completely unjust!

Wow imagine that. Something to protect the citizens of the US like Congress is supposed to do. We now have to sign petitions with millions of signatures to get Congress to do what it is sworn to do. I don't know how these people who sit in government positions justify this to themselves.

Tired of Wall Street being a lawless entity unto itself, with the rest of society existing solely as resources to be used and exploited as the financial services sector determines...too much power for them, and too little agency for us. Fraud and theft as the prevailing ethic and method passing itself off as business has gotten very old. We want our money left alone, and for the "services" aspect to be remembered. And we insist the elected representatives in this country defend us instead of always only the interests of corporations at our expense.

Help protect Americans' retirement security by supporting new rules that would require financial advisers to act in the interest of their customers rather than for their own financial gain. Join the president's call to the Department of Labor to issue these rules, and don't let congressional action undermine this commonsense effort.

Thank-you President Obama & Senator Warren for acting in the best interest of ordinary Americans who, historically, have been victimized through pathetically poor financial advice, the contract peonage of credit card contracts, predatory mortgage deals, payday loans, and just the contemptuous & elitist nature of the financial and insurance profession in general. These are the most undesirable people to be around...and, frankly, I wonder what (other than scamming Americans out of their few & hard earned dollars) motivates them to get into the insurance & financial professions to begin with. A breathtaking and bewildering lack of ethics and common decency! Respectfully, Christopher H. Preston

Many consumers have the mistaken idea that all financial advisors have a fiduciary responsibility to support the consumers' best interests. It's time to stop what is almost a deceptive business practice, by requiring all financial advisors to adhere to fiduciary standards.

Early in my retirement a "financial advisor" gave me some advice about investing my savings that was so bad I recognized that she was just looking out for her commission, not my welfare. I didn't take it, thank heavens, but my friend did, and I don't want anyone else to be suckered in like this.

My husband's retirement was basically stolen by the company that his money was with. Even when the market went up his account continued to go down. It wasn't until later that he discovered all the fees being taken out that he was not told about and they were not mentioned in his account statements. It truly is theft and needs to be stopped. We cannot enjoy retirement, we have no money to do anything now but hopefully someone else can benefit if the right thing is done and Wall Street has to actually follow regulations.

Millions of working people rely on savings plans to assure financial security in retirement. Yet many Wall Street financial advisors are free to act in ways that not aligned with the interests of savers. Stop the fleecing of American workers. Support the Dept of Labor in imposing the duties of a fiduciary on retirement advisers.

I have marveled at financial advisers who sell clients investments that pay huge up front fees to the adviser. I had advisers try to sell me products that were clearly no good options, so these regulations are long overdue. End this clear conflict of interest.

We are tired of all the naysayers in Congress namely Speaker Boehner and his Tea Party and the Koch's, who obstruct good legislation, this is about doing honest good business and I support these new rules that would require financial advisers to act in the interest of their customers rather than for their own financial gain.

Those retiring have given many long years of service to society at large and to support their families. To have them ruthlessly exploited by financial interests that have caused so much damage already to our economy is beyond the pale and should be stopped. The Labor Department must stand up and defend those of us who have labored for years and deserve a decent living after their work is over. LJJ

The financial stability of us seniors who have our retirement income on the market should be regulated to ensure that our best interests are first and not profitability in the form of commissions. That's what a democratic form of government should do on this and other levels: people first and profits second.

Since we no longer have an adequate Social Security system that is insulated from right-wing "free market" ideology, this measure is vital to the long-term economic security of much of the middle-class. Non-professional investors need some protection against the Madoffs, Wells Fargo, Goldman-Sachs and other financial advisors who improperly put their greed above the welfare of their clients.

I have paid through the nose to advisors; duped by one company with all of their hidden fees. If I just put money in a savings account it does not grow which is why I went to a financial person in the first place.

This a regulation that should have occurred as soon as the banks put us into a tornado of economics in the great depression of the 1930's. I use to think that the depression could never happen again because we are intelligent people and civilized and we learn the lessons taught to us by our predecessors. But now I am reminded by a quote from one of my first year nursing instructors, "Marilyn you never make the same mistake twice, you just make new mistakes every day." She was wiser than we will ever know!

I have been the victim of a financial advisor selling me a bill of good in order to enrich herself. I lost over $40,000 on the deal. It is the duty of an advisor to have the best interests of the client in mind rather than a paycheck. One can still earn a great paycheck while protecting the interests of a client. Anything else is just plain lazy and WRONG!

Pensions have been all but eliminated, replaced by 401s that were meant to augment not replace. Even that wasn't enough for the greedy financial sector. They could have been satisfied getting a reasonable fee on all that new investment money they were now entrusted with but instead they chose to hide higher fees & steer people to riskier investments to line their pockets. When will enough be enough?

It is unconscionable that we have to make (and enforce) a LAW to require financial advisers to act in the best interest of their customers. When will it become the nature of humans to act in love, for the well-being of all? Do we still not understand that to promote the good of others naturally promotes good for ourselves--and that to do harm will always, in some way, cause harm to ourselves?

This protection for the people of the US seems like a no-brainer. Of course an individual hired to help protect someone's financial worth should be working for that client's best interest, not the adviser's profit. The adviser charges his fees to do his work - that's reimbursement enough. Anything else should be CRIMINAL!!!

Two different banks I have $ with tried to get me to invest in their fund, which would charge me 4% if ever took out more than 5.3% per year. What if I needed a new car? An operation that was costly, but not all covered by insurance? Their so-called financial advisors had no other advice for me than their own fund. None. That's not an "advisor". That's a front man.

Maybe if the fees a broker is paid are closely tied into the gains their clients receive, that might help. Another thing is to make brokers serve in a fiduciary capacity for their clients, as attorneys often do. There are special responsibilities that a fiduciary has. Since the person he is acting on behalf of is not able to make decisions of a certain type, and relies on the fiduciary to make them in his best interests, that could solve the problem, at least most of it. So make brokers fiduciaries, and tie their fees into the level of success he is able to achieve on behalf of his client. Since it is obvious that brokers cannot be relied upon to be honorable to their clients without being forced, it's time to force them. What's shameful is that it should be necessary at all.

At the present time, Wall Street is in the driver's seat on all things financial in the U. S. , and because of lobbying laws, they also dominate in governmental matters, to insure big profits for the "captains of industry." This threatens in numerous ways, protections for the average citizen, at least 80% of them. We need to government to regulate commerce" on behalf of ALL citizens, not just the top 20%. I can't think of any reason that financial advisers shouldn't always act in their clients best interests. I can't also think of any reason that clear well defined rules insure that financial advisers understand exactly what constitutes a client's "best interests".
