I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Joseph DePirri
4105 Enclave Circle
Somerset, NJ 8873

jdepirri@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Margaret Cook
3 Crayton court
Miamisburg, Oh 45342

Megan-cook@att.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Irene Bitikofer
PO Box 72
N Bonneville, WA 98639

twobit63@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

John Erickson
320 Lowman Home Barn Road
Chapin, SC 29036

jwepje@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

David Bitikofer
PO Box 72
N Bonneville, WA 98639

twobit63@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Libby Cooper
4707 Royal Palm Circle NE
St. Petersburg, Fl 33703

rcooper88@tampabay.rr.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Harry Mahlen,JR
9453 Ellerbe Road #4
Shreveport, La 71106

carolyn.mahlen@att.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Robert Koester
P.O. Box 1315 P.O. Box 1315, 21 Fairway Drive
Grantham, NH 3753

rfk33@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Dave Brewer
7895 new Harrison Bradford
Bradford, Oh 45308

Foxpen1@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Carolyn Mahlen
9453 Ellerbe Road #4
Shreveport, La 71106

carolyn.mahlen@att.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Derrell Adams
2230 Gun Club Rd SW
Albuquerque, NM 87105

derg2adam@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

sandra kowalski
3226 McMath Drive
Palm Harbor, fl 34684

s.kowalski@amerisure.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Linda Thomas
11003 E Nopal Ave
Mesa, Ar 85209

wardgal@cox.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Pam Oxford
213 N Ash Street
Fruita, CO 81521

paminy@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Eric Shore
207 Denvale Dr
Danville, IL 61832

eric.shore@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Roberta Wells
313 Sexauer Avenue
Elgin, IL 60123

birdsc5@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Leslie Radwany
1071 Hunter Pkwy
Cuyahoga Falls, OH 44223

lsr@aldaanalytics.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Cheryl Willcox
10 Fay Ave
Peabody, Ma 1960

boomers_house@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Roger Willcox
10 Fay Ave
Peabody, Ma 1960

boomers_house@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Roberta Wells
313 Sexauer Avenue
Elgin, IL 60123

birdsc5@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Dolores Miller
6350 Oak St. #203
;Arvada, Co 80004

ddmlr@q.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

William B Hanley
4D Nimitz Way
Salem, Ma 1970

blpgno1@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Carla Neveaux
637 Westridge Dr.@7
West Bend, WI 53095

caraneveaux@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

roger logan 45441 275th st
parker, sd 57053

rlogan@svtv.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Erica Minamitani 3661 Newton St.
Torrance, CA 90505

erica.minamitani@ceteranetworks.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Alicia Bickett
110 Creekledge Lane
Copley, Oh 44321

amp@bearpelland.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Seth Hamilton
815 North 8th Ave
Pensacola, FL 32501

seth.hamilton88@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lorraine Townes
1523 W 96th Ct
Crown Point, IN 46307

hkypuck@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Deanna Bennett
15805 E 2nd St S
Independence, MO 64050

db15805@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sandra Capuano
811 Hale St
Beverly, Ma 1915

sandy_capuano@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Brian McKenna
22A Buckingham Dr.
Manchester, NJ 8759

Bmck53@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Townes
1523 W 96th Ct
Crown Point, IN 46307

hkypuck@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Terry Cummings
127 Buckingham
Providence, UT 84332

Terry.f.cummings@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Michael Dutt
34 Rim View Ln
Reading, PA 19607

madutt@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Daniel Wroblewski
20734 King Road
Wilton, WI 54670

daniel.j.wroblewski3.civ@mail.mil

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Carol DeAngelis
2054 Spur Cross Rd
Grand Junction, CO 81507

cdeangel22@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Paul Specht
197 Island Path
Hampton, NH 3842

pkspecht@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Paul & Carolyn Krech 22771 Forest Cir.
Lakeville, MN 550448221

cpkrech@me.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Allyson Speier
54 Schindler Court
Parsippany, NJ 7054

ads730@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

hugh howard 8349 Fairway Hollow drive mancelona, mi 49659

hwhoward@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Michael Wiedrich
2054 Spur Cross Rd
Grand Junction, CO 81507

mpwdrive@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Nancy Loveland
6520 N. 7th St. Suite 100C
Phoenix, AZ 85014

naloveland@unitedplanners.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Barbara McKenna
22A Buckingham Dr.
Manchester, NJ 8759

Jetfan53@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Bruce Haddock
525 Winter Terrace
Winter Haven, Fl 33881

bwhsnowbird@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Judith Jones
15431 W Christy Dr
Surprise, az 85379

tjjones2@cox.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Karen Melching
9824 E Minnesota Ave
Sun Lakes, AZ 85248

klmelching@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jay Chalgren
3959 Van Dyke St
White Bear Lake, Mn 55110

Jchalgren@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Donald Kortbein
20151 Blackhawk Ave
Warrens, WI 54666

dekortbein@centurytel.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mark Ayotte 9509 Foothill Rd.
Middleton, ID 83644

mayotte348@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kevin Levasseur
234 Sandahlwood Circle
Cedar Falls, IA 50613

Klevasseur@cfu.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Laura Haddock
525 Winter Terrace
Winter Haven, Fl 33881

rotti10@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Harvey Neese
1831 6th ave.
Clarkston, WA 99403

waco34tx@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Pamela Cole
185 S Woodland Ave
Buena Vista, VA 24416

pamela.cole@cambridgesecure.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

John Holben
15529 Lockwood
Oak Forest, Il 60452

John_holben@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Ralph Campilio
13 Kimberley Dr
Danvers, Ma 1923

Camp9@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

mary b kusske 13701 danube lane
rosemount, mn 55068

mbkfm895@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

RAYMOND LEE CHILTON III MD
5601 JOE DAYERS AVENUE UNIT B
AUSTIN, TX 78756

lchilton@austin.rr,com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

RAYMOND LEE CHILTON III MD
5601 JOE DAYERS AVENUE UNIT B
AUSTIN, TX 78756

lchilton@austin.rr,com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Patrick Velekei
1317 Cleveland Avenue
Wyomissing, Pe 19610

pvelekei@gilesfinancial.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Martin Dowzall
13885 N Indian River Drive
Sebastian, Fk 32958

mdowzall@Comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Shane Leverenz
9703 Geisler Rd
Eden Prairie, MN 55347

shaneleverenz@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sherri Wheeler
1075 Aster Lane
West Chicago, Il 0

obfsinc@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

John Bialek
1115 Colony
Roselle, IL 60172

bialektrust@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Barbara Winkler
46 Ahnert Ave.
North Haledon, NJ 7508

barbaragruber1@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Tracy Ritzo
22225 Redbeam Ave
Torrance, CA 90505

tracy.ritzo@ceteranetworks.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Steven Ritzo
22225 Redbeam Ave
Torrance, CA 90505

steelers89@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Maripat McNulty
130 E Wildwood Ave
Villa Park, IL 60181

mpbill@me.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Gregory Graul
286 East 1165 North
Orem, UT 84057

greggaul@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kenneth Hyman
660 Walnut Park Lane
Santa Barbara, CA 93111

krhyman@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

A Rayner Kenison
27 Spofford Street ` Georgetown, MA 1833

arkark@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Donna Tweed
132 Hilltop Drive
Churchville, PA 18966

dltweed1957@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Paul Christgau
4325 Jonquil Lane
Plymouth, MN 55442

paul.xgau@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Bruce Bailey
8826 Oakwood Ave.
Munster, IN 46321

brusteracing@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Joyce Brooks
4796 Paint Fork Road
Mars Hill, NC 28754

profbrooks@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kathleen Ellis
5188 Rustler Trail
Parker, CO 80134

4kathe@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Anthony Campanell
5284 High vista dr.
Orefield, Pa 18069

tonycampanell@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Andy Crider
2907 E Bragstad Dr
Sioux Falls, SD 57103

C_rider1726@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Katherine Sylvain
1 Pine Crest Circle
Concord, NH 3301

tomkatt1972@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Claudina Redden
2990 1/2 Brookwood Dr
Grand Junction, CO 81504

denaredden@charter.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Tommy Kerley
6868 Grassy Creek Way
Knoxville, tN 37921

apkerley@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Doris Ogilvie
416 Jeffries Ave. Sp. 71
Monrovia, CA 91016

doris.ogilvie@sbcglobsal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Roy Milligan
115 South Road
Pepperell, MA 0

roy.milligan@glassbeehive.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Dan Mote
8487 W. Lufkin Dr.
Strawberry, AZ 85544

mdoim@q.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mark Fruehe
306 S. Elizabeth St.
Lombard, IL 60148

mark_fruehe@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Rainey
28 Sealcrest Dr
Picayune, Ms 39466

jamesc55@att.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jill Carnes
8704 Lakeview Drive
Barker, NY 14012

jilcarnes@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Bill Floyd Smith
220 N. Zapata Hwy
Laredo, Tx 78043

bfsmth4@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Karen Hurst
2610 Springside Ct
Grand Junction, CO 81506

kadihu08@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Charles Cox
72 Laurel Lakes Drive
Carrollton, GA 30116

coxccoxd@bellsouth.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Bruce Downing po box 418 21 Boehm ave mount tabor, Nj 7878

jetsbaby@optonline.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Candace Washam
PO Box 372
Hackettstown, NJ 7840

JWHeritage@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

John Washam
PO Box 372
Hackettstown, NJ 7840

JWHeritage@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Stephen Prendergast
78 Park Road
Lynn, MA 1904

Dixeyp@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Wayne Carte r
29200 jones loop rd Lot 383
Punta gorda, Fl 33950

Wecarte@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jan Gitzendanner
4727 Tierra Encantada Ct. NE
Albuquerque, NM 87109

jgitz@q.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Emily Whitacre
1061 Christopher Ct.
Oconomowoc, WI 53066

egwhit@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Pierre Nadeau
127 Rideout Road
Hollis, NH 3049

pannado@tds.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Randall Melquist
4654 North Bristol
Tacoma, WA 98407

randy@randymelquist.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

John Hergenrother
8 WildnAve.
Wilmington, MA 1887

jandp.herg@me.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Nan Baucom
940-12 Jetton street Davidson
Davidson, Nc 28036

Nanbaucom@bellsouth.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

paul masla
207 wildwood drive north aurora, Il 60542

paul.masla@att.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

paul masla
207 wildwood drive
north aurora, Il 60542

paul.masla@att.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Pamela Meisel
3603 so. Cabrillo Ave
San Pedro, Ca 90731

Hpmeisel@cox.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Louise Nadeau
127 Rideout Road
Hollis, NH 3049

LMNado@tds.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Peter Tinel
16 Panther Path
Moultonborough, NH 3254

Ptinel@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Dorothy Koci
609 E Antigua Dr
Meridian, ID 83642

dorothykoci@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Daniel Noreck
22 Chilson Avenue
Mansfield, Ma 2048

noreckds@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Raymond David 7212 Sowul Drive
Concord Township,, OH 44077

rdavidgray@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Eunice Miller
708 Cheyenne Dr
Fort Collins, CO 80525

remelm@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kathryn Myhaver
649 W Elicam Cir unit 62
Marco island, Fl 34145

Shop@mhaver.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Harry Meisel
3603 So. Cabrillo Ave
San Pedro, Ca 90731

Hpmeisel@cox.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Bruce Cornia
9253 South Alvey Lane
Sandy, Ut 84093

bcornia@mollerupglass.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Burton Hunter
13501 Osborne St.
Arleta, CA 91331

burtonhunter@juno.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jillair Meine
1678 Crescent Virw Circle
Sandy, Ut 84092

jillair1@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Valerie Diodati
46 Fiske Ave
Waltham, MA 2453

valer@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jacqueline Moll
519 Wildwood Drive
Ottumwa, IA 52501

jmoll@mchsi.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Barbara Perry
4 Lemere Drive
Pelham, NH 3076

perry422@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Tonia Barron
4541 N. Bellflower Blvd. Apt. D
Long Beach, CA 90808

tbarron90723@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Harold Born
5150 baldwin street 49426
Hudsonville, Mi 49426

hwlborn@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Teresa Lawrence
2207 Basswood Road
Joliet, IL 60432

talj1966@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Scott Dornfeld
1573 Lyman Way
The Villages, FL 32162

sdorn@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Diane Hansen
940 schomer road
Aurora, Il 60505

Edselfreaks@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Dotty Austgen
14326 Lake Shore Drive
Cedar Lake, IN 46303

davidaustgen@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Stephen Napholtz
112 Riverview Avenue
Gillette, NJ 79332108

snapholtz@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Joseph Powell
1066 Woodson Hammock Circle
Winter Garden, FL 34787

jwpowell71@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Michael Jones
11109 W. Sunridge Ct.
Nines Mile Falls, WA 99026

Kaizenscott@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Betty Arnold
13260 Cold Springs Dr
Huntley, Il 60142

blablabla1833@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

John Lincoln
W6980 Savannah Lane
Delavan, Wi 53115

lincolnjandv@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Leslie Sporner
132 Valley Rd
St Marys, Pa 15857

Lsporner@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Abby Ruskey
7630 EARLING ST NE
OLYMPIA, Wa 98506

ruskeyabby@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Patricia Hellman
4932 East Windrose Drive
Scottsdale, AZ 85254

phellman@cox.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Abby Ruskey
7630 EARLING ST NE
OLYMPIA, Wa 98506

ruskeyabby@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Adrian Dargan
41424 Countryside Circle
Parker, CO 80138

adriandargan@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Carolyn Tyson
297 Westtown Way
West Chester, Pa 19382

carol_t@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

mark southard
114 victory dr.
Rome, NY 13440

southardmark@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Patricia Hellman
4932 East Windrose Drive
Scottsdale, AZ 85254

phellman@cox.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Raymond Doney
7 towne lane
Voorhees, NJ 8043

Ollie114@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Gary Barkey
10255 Black Hickory Rd
Dallas, TX 0

grbark_7546@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jim Langmayer
506 Bulltown Road
Elverson, PA 19520

jlangmay@windstream.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Gary McCullough
2108 Louise Dr
Monroe, NC 28112

garymcbear@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Daniel Deering
25 franklin st
Exeter, NH 3833

jeba7@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Shari Poliquin
7985 Darby
Chagrin Falls, OH 44034

Shari.poliquin@sbitech.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kim Zinman
501 N. Merrill St.
Park Ridge, IL 60068

kzinman@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kimberly Givnish
PO Box 1090 8708 E Carefree Drive
Carefree, AZ 85377

kgivnish@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jean Schwartzbauer
E2701 County Road V
Prairie FRarm, WI 54762

wschwart@chibardun.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Harold Born
5150 baldwin street 49426
Hudsonville, Mi 49426

hwlborn@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Susan Chidley
2234 South Madison St.
Denver, CO 80210

s_chidley@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Fred Mitchell
2629 Country Club Parkway
Garland, TX 750431111

fwmitchell@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

MIcki Bell
9129 Cottonwood Village Dr
Fort Worth, TX 76120

mouser@swbell.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

MIcki Bell
9129 Cottonwood Village Dr
Fort Worth, TX 76120

mouser@swbell.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jacqueline Serra
9 Vose Street
Westerly, RI 2891

jpserra@cox.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Janet Schultz
545 Bohlken Drive
Hastings, MN 55033

Jplanet55@icloud.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Susan Mundhenk
706 John Court
Mine Hill, NJ 7803

smundhenk88@optonline.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Valerie Carmody
5 Manor Dr.
Peabody, MA 1960

vjh3@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Yu-Hwa Liu
8790 Buttercup Ct
Corona, CA 92883

buttercupeva@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Chris Curry
138 West Tenth Avenue
Huntington, WV 25701

chris.curry@nm.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

LINDA J. CANE
969 TRUE BROOK RD
SARANAC, NY 12981

lchurricane@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

LINDA J. CANE
969 TRUE BROOK RD
SARANAC, NY 12981

lchurricane@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Toma Shaver
605 Green Acres Ln.
Bosque Farms, NM 87068

tomashaver@q.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Donna Coyle
7019 Blackhawk dr
Morrow, oh 45152

donnacoyle@tds.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kristin Hilliker
910 Woodard Avenue
Tomah, WI 54660

revk1h@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Stephen Sweezey
58 Western Ave
Saugus, MA 1906

S2Sweez@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Junko Johnson
2827 Degen Drive
Bonita, CA 91902

johnsonjunko@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mary Ann Jojola
2508 Lava Bluff Dr NW
Albuquerque, NM 87120

maryannjojo@ymail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lance Leonard
18909 SE 270th St.
Covington, WA 98042

lleonard@farmersagent.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Diane Peltzer
1632 E. Shore Dr.
St. Paul, MN 55106

dmpeltzer@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Diane Peltzer
1632 E. Shore Dr.
St. Paul, MN 55106

dmpeltzer@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Clay Chadbourne
5522 Richmond Ave
Garden Grove, CA 92845

Cwchadbourne@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Frank Ferrara
163 E Van Buren St. Apt 1
Elmhurst, IL 60126

fdferrara@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kristin Noe
1353 N Leavitt
Chicago, Il 60622

Kristin.Noe@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Michael Knapp
5812 E Fox
Mesa, AZ 85205

michael.a.knapp@boeing.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Carol Anderson
729 S. Lodge Lane
Lombard, IL 60148

chanderson729@att.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Chris Kimbrell
127 Keriville Dr
Jackson, MS 39212

chriskimbrell@outlook.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

mark hovis 1804 boy scout rd lincolnton, nc 28092

marton2@charter.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Roger Carmody
5 Manor Dr.
Peabody, Ma 1960

roger.carmody@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Bridgette Kimbrell
127 Keriville Dr
Jackson, MS 39212

bridgettekimbrell@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Barbara Carro
301 Mt Vernon
Lawrence, Ma 1843

Fogfly@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Cameron Saylor 2044 Cameo Vista Dr.
West Covina, ca 91791

cam@buckboardcatering.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Velma Kirchner
1830 Country Club Dr
Four Seasons, MO 65049

veda4seasons@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Ralph Della Crosse
10918 Berkshire Lane
Jacksonville, FL 32225

decrosse1@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Carole Hillis
63 Moeller St
Binghamton, NY 13904

Hillisny@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Marie R-B Desire
15 Rogers Avenue #1
W. Somerville, Ma 2144

bdesire250@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

MICHELLE CHUNG
469 Anolani Street
Honolulu, HI 96821

mkc422@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Darlene Kapff
1721 Essex Court
St. Charles, IL 60174

dkapff@att.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Josephine Dennis
2059 Calloway Pines Dr.
Tega Cay, SC 29708

jlcdennis@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Harry Forst
100 Golfview Dr
Ivyland, PA 18974

hforst1@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Patricia Payne
1309 Joel Drive
Corbin, KY 40701

p_payne@bellsouth.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Steve Monn
PO Box 1226
Tulsa, OK 0

wainman51@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lawrence Winkler
13760 SE Hampshire Way
Happy Valley, OR 97086

lwinkler@torani.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Elizabeth De La Baume
2240 DEHNE Road
Northbrook, Il 60062

e.delabaume1388@att.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Terrence R Karner Jr
19 Stratford Court
South Elgin, IL 60177

trkarner47@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

David Burrows
522 Pat Haven Drive
Pittsburgh, PA 15243

burrdjd@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Leslie Parker
942 Shoal Creek Dr.
Fairview, TX 75069

tnnsbud@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

John Parker
942 Shoal Creek Dr.
Fairview, TX 75069

tnnsbud@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Hurson
230 Indian head road
Kings park, Ny 11754

Jtjive@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Bonnie C. Henry
1321 Oak Hill Avenue
Hagerstown, MD 21742

love2u21742@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Ernest Windsor
2310 NW 15th Pl
Gainesville, fl 32605

elimigator@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Valerie Langmayer
506 Bulltown Road
Elverson, PA 19520

vlangmay@dejazzd.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Edward Milota
501 E Jackpine Court
Spokane, Wa 99208

Milotae@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Manuel Herrada
2368 W Comstock Dr
Chandler, AZ 85224

mherrada@cox.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Robert Signoracci
17horizon lane
Troy, Ny 12182

Roberts994@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jeremy Ramey
1307 w mariposa st
Phoenix, Az 85013

Jeremyramey24@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

David Kirchner
180 Country Club Dr
Four Seasons, MO 65049

veda4season@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Susan Kasper 140 Rosedale Drive manchester, Pa 17345

akasper140@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mary Lou McDonald
20223 50th Ave E
Spanaway, WA 98387

mmcdonald65@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Cheri Conner
6720 Oak Knoll Ct.
Thomasville, No 27360

cconner@randolph.k12.nc.us

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Thomas Harrington
14127 Kimrose Lane
N Royalton, Oh 44133

Thomas6541@att.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Patrick Sweeney
742 Cornwallis Drive
Mount Laurel, NJ 8054

ptsweeney3653@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

William James 19119 Rhodes Ave
Glenwood, IL 60425

cjames1017@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Joseph Leonardi
4802 Coleridge St.
Pittsburgh, PA 15201

MrScience2008@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Joyce Zito
1454 Whitman Ct
Schaumburg, IL 60173

JoyceTZ321@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Dorothy Menefee-Jones
119 Merritt ave
Pittsburgh, Pe 15227

doryjns157@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Keith David
16120 Stephenie Street
Bakersfield, Ca 93314

keithd@klinspection.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Stephanie Gesswein
46 Norwood Ave. Apt. 2
Asheville, NC 28804

georgegesswein@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

mie miura 1122 kinau st. #501 honolulu, hi 96814

miehawaii@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Tom Chirip
39 Nocentino Dr.
Swedesboro, NJ 8085

tomchirip@live.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lolita Johnson
818 Carnation Lane
Matteson, IL 60443

Litaj4me@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Verna Arbogast
1001 Westchester Drive
Hanover Park, IL 601336470

vernaarbogast@prodigy.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lynn Arbogast
1001 Westchester Drive
Hanover Park, IL 601336470

larbogas@prodigy.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kristin Boni
50 Little Pond County Rd
Cumberland, RI 2864

kabsgb@cox.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Zito
1454 Whitman Ct
Schaumburg, IL 60173

JimVZ220@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Cheryl Martin
35948 Haven Drive 205
Rehoboth Beach, DE 19971

Barnqueen27@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Genelle Sedon
216 Ridgewood Road
Plains Township, Pa 18702

Ghoban@live.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Hardin
19727 Meadowbrook Road
Hagerstown,, MD 21742

marion.hardin@myactv.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Bella Portillo 9319 Glenville Rd.
Silver Spring, MD 20901

perkyb1@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Judith McDonald
895 Wembley Court
Elgin, IL 60120

jamcdo@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Andrea Luessow
1146 E. Wilson Ave.
Lombard, IL 60148

Andrea.luessow@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mary Mullins
3 Chadwick Road
Binghamton, NY 13903

Marymullins28@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Loretta Kingsolver
2407 Howard Road
Auburn, Wa 98002

Dragonfly_2407@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Losch
4640 McLaren Drive
Oswego, IL 60543

jlosch17@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Yvonne Hayner
3596 Phelps Road
West Suffield, Ct 6093

ryh3596@cox.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Debra Bilyeu
1138 N. Hillcrest Avenue
Springfield, MO 65802

debra.bilyeu@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Toni Morris
2924 Rutland Ave
Des Moines, IA 50311 tlmorris772@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Debbi Losch
4640 McLaren Drive
Oswego, IL 60543

debbilosch@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Robert Russell Hayner
3596 Phelps Road
West Suffield, Ct 6093

ryh3596@cox.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jerri Bisantz
101 E Glavin Ct Unit # 7
Palatine, IL 60074

jerrilynn821@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Douglas Rolan
822 East Chilton Drive
Tempe, AZ 85283

rolandesign@cox.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Allison Pilquist
366 Winslow Drive
Souderton, PA 18964

allisonpilquist@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

VIctoria O
6985 Oriskany Rd.
Rome, NY 13440

vmlizob@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Patricia Haley
16 Woodland Dr
Nantucket, MA 2554

haley1642@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kenneth Oefinger
200 Meadow Creek Lane
Burleson, TX 76028

prtex@flash.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Leach
PO Box 503
LaCygne, Ka 66040

randyl@pv362.org

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jeff Evans
15705 Hillsboro Rd
Purcellville, Va 20132

jeffcevans@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Debra jones
22717 woods creek road
Monroe, Wa 98272

debijones4@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Gaylen Lewis
3109 Wenatchee Av
Bakersfield, CA 93306

sglewistwo@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Martha Parke Gibian
1603 Foulkeways
Gwynedd, PA 19436

ppgppg1@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sue Simmerer
333 Ashwood Dr.
Schaumburg, Il 60193

Simmerer@wowway.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Samuel Parks
1547 North Penryn Road
Manheim, Pa 17545

sparks@ptd.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Florence Grasso
29 Ocean Blvd
Little Egg Harbor, NJ 8087

retiredgrassos@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Russell Nachbar
1707 Shelby Drive
Raymore, MO 64083

rustynach@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Soete
706 St Andrews Ct
Telford, PA 18969

wa3ylq@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Marjorie Gardiner
10501 Emilie Lane Apt 2309
Orland Park, IL 60467

susanadduci@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Susan Adduci
2386 Bluestone Bay Drive
Mokena, IL 60451

susanadduci@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Frances Rega
164 Ridge Road
Revere, MA 2151

frega@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Eileen Hodge
228 Welsh Avenue
Bellmawr, NJ 8031

hodgee5@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sharleen Stjean
15482 Foch Sy Livonia, Mi 48154

Stshar12@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Maryellen Hammock
332 Brookwood Blvd
Mary Esther, FL 32569

mbjhammock@cox.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Carl Dillon
1416 Hillcrest Drive
Waverly, Ia 50677

cedill32@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sally D. Holt
2275 N Summit Ave
Milwaukee, WI 53202

holtsd@att.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James DeCristo
8625 Willow Dr
Rome, NY 13440

patchman1@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Barbara Misechok
930 Greenfield Ave
Pittsburgh, PA 15217

bmisechok@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Tom Crandall
200 Oak St
Volga, IA 52077

crandall_tom@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Becky Houser
161 Cross Park Drive
Georgetown, KY 40324

houser.becky@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sharon Cartwright
821 Plumwood Drive
Schaumburg, IL 60173

cart1950@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Nett
30017 N Short Rd
Deer Park, WA 99006

thenettsnest@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mary Broderick
47 Chesterfield georgetown road
Chesterfield, Nj 8515

Medhead72@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Terry Cline
7417 TL Cline Rd
Groveland, FL 34736

Terryc7417@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Don Patrick
970 Greener Place
Fairview, PA 16415

dpatrick407@roadrunner.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mary Kendrick
9943 S Damen Ave
Chicago, IL 60643

lkendrick@ameritech.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

John Bonavita
109 Liberty Street
Feeding Hills, MA 1030

johnbon109@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jacqueline Lovenworth
920 N. Lawrence St
Philadelpji, Pa 19123

Jlovemolly@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Freda Pattillo
6749 Northcreek Lane
Dallas, TX 75240

fkp6749@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

William Eliasek
2401 Kenmore Court
Schaumburg, IL 60193

eliaseks@netzero.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Robert Holman
2605 Linda Dr.
New Albany, IN 47150

sholman26@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kathleen Treptow
3933 W. Morelos St.
Chandler, AZ 85226

kathleen.treptow@yahoo.cim

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Carol Fain
7802 E 159th St
Belton, MO 64012

cfain1@kc.rr.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Cheryl Cohen
2514 Jodi Sue Ln
Colmar, PA 18915

cbilligcohen@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Deborah Silverstein
7702A McCallum st
Philadelphia, PA 19118

dsilverstein77@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Bari Levin
64 east Preserve Drive
Palatine, IL 60074

mbjl11@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Rosa Nett
30017 N Short Rd
Deer Park, WA 99006

thenettsnest@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

DONNA GOVEN
302 JUNE ST
WORCESTER, MA 1602

dgoven@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jennifer Landis 3604 Morrell Ave.
Philadelphia, PA 19114

Jenniferlandis89@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mark Staruk
765 Salisbury Street
Worcester, MA 1609

starukinc@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kathleen Lenzen
29044 N. Gilmer Rd.
Mundelein, IL 60060

k.lenzen@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mark Staruk
765 Salisbury Street
Worcester, MA 1609

starukinc@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

John Parcell
5433 Appleton
Raytown, MO 64133

john-cathy@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

IBRAHIM SAEED
3425 42ND AVE W
SEATTLE, WA 98199

ABESAEED@GMAIL.COM

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Stephen Mitchell
314 G V HALE AVE
RUSSELL SPRINGS, KY 0

poppysteve01@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

fred Davidson
202 10th Ave NW
Oelwein, Io 50662

frandavidson@mchsi.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Alex Barenblitt
3513 Char Lil Court
Ellicott City, MD 21042

alex@barenblitt.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

DONALD SHRIVER
1533 W 23RD STREET
ERIE, PA 16502

DShrive@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Christina Skinner
6715 Jefferson Street
Twelve Mile, IN 46988

skinnerfam58@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Chester Hogston
10491 Bent Branch Road
Pikeville, KY 41501

chogston@bellsouth.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Stephen OHara
1724 Kater Street
Philadelphia, PA 19146

sohara@cavtel.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Robert Piemme
1190 Oil Creek Road
Spring Creek, PA 16436

bgpiemme@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jennifer Labbe
Hastings Street
Framingham, MA 1701

jbellelabbe@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Stephen OHara
1724 Kater Street
Philadelphia, PA 19146

sohara@cavtel.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Carla Beeber
61 E. Cheshire Pl.
Staten Island, NY 10301

cbeeber@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lynn Nash
156 S. Oak Palatine, IL 60067

lnash2005@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Danielle Donoghue
289 Yorkminster Road
West Chester, Pe 19382

ddonoghue322@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Carla Beeber
61 E. Cheshire Pl.
Staten Island, NY 10301

cbeeber@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Virginia DeMattei
12926 Clifton Dr
Boca Raton, FL 33428

bocaginnyd@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jerry Beeber
61 E. Cheshire Pl.
Staten Island, NY 10301

cbeeber@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mallory Messer
494 Burke Dr
Carol Stream, IL 60188

haupertm@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Thomas Cash
32 Reo Dr
Palmyra, PA 17078

tdcash@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mary Martin
1214 Regents Blvd.
Fircrest, WA 98466

martinfr1@aol.co,

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Joseph O
815 Cypress Ct
Raymore, MO 64083

jonealnbct@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Candace Britts
1437 Water Pipit Lane
Fleming Island, FL 32003

cbritts@bellsouth.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Janice Robinson
210 W Crystal Lake Av 114b
Haddon Township, Nj 8033

janirobins@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Felise Kamaras
44 Mockingbird Way
Medford, NJ 8055

Rdgtchr09@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Pamala Hummel
P.O. Box 225
Irvine, PA 16329

wmbillpnn@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mary Purifico 32 Luray Lane
Marlton, NJ 8053

TheWalker3@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Beverly Nestrick
393 Riverside Drive
Johnson City, NY 13790

bevnestrick@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Laura Lyons
4416 Gentrice Drive
Valrico, FL 33596

lauraelyons1@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Daniel Cada
5428 Tates Bank Rd
Cambridge, MD 21613

dgcada@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Conley
440 howard crk rd winchester, ky 40391

equitechonline@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

joseph tarantino
13475 102nd Terrace
Largo, Fl 33774

tarantinoslargo@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Ruth Hoffner
51 King bStreet
Haledon, NJ 7508

rich34ruth@optonline.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Estela Dobbie
1419 Paseo Marlena
San Dimas, CA 91773

e.dobbie@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Wendy Phillips
125 Warrior Rd.
Drexel Hill, PA 19026

pwendy837@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Wendy Phillips
125 Warrior Rd.
Drexel Hill, PA 19026

pwendy837@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Karen Lehnhardt
10640 Rushmore Lane
Huntley, IL 60142

lennie68@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Joanne Tooker
610 NW 166th Ave.
Pembroke Pines, FL 33028

jtooks@bellsouth.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Norbert Keane
2239 Wentz Ln
Schwenksville, Pa 19473

njkeane@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Janet Weikel
1033 Church Road
East Greenville, PA 18041

jpweik27@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Charlene Milota
501 E Jackpine Court
Spokane, Wa 99208

Milotae@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Walter Zahn
2876 BAY VISTA DR
HIGHLAND, MI 48357

wgzahn@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Karen Swacker
120 N.State Street
Glenwood, Il 60425

kswacker@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Ruth Rowe
15 Klainecrest Ave.
Fort Thomas, Ky 41075

ruthjrowe@me.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Ruth Rowe
15 Klainecrest Ave.
Fort Thomas, Ky 41075

ruthjrowe@me.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Helene Eagle
23648 38th Ave. S.
Kent, WA 98032

helenetalker@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Ruth Rowe
15 Klainecrest Ave.
Fort Thomas, Ky 41075

ruthjrowe@me.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

David Aikens
717 Winding Oaks Trail
Louisville, KY 40223

daikens@kwcommercial.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

marilyn esris 7621 algon ave
phila, PA 19111

chaimiriam181@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

William Goldstrohm
220 OAK STREET
INDIANA, PA 15701

wjgold1@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Rubinna Sanchez
7335 La Mancha
Grand Prairie, T 75054

ruruylulu@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Karen Krukowski
13183 Stonebridge Lane
Huntley, IL 60142

KareninIL@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Susan Reissing
106 Fox Fall
Peachtree City, GA 30269

reissings@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Gayle Wooten
502 Pearlstone Ct.
Richmond, TX 77406

gbh901@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Dave Henry
5009 W Jeffries Ct
Lawrence, KS 66047

janendave@sunflower.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mark Cagle
55 Dominion Rd.
Gerrardstown, WV 25420

Mcagle1050@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Donald Cross
125 Valley View Drive
Venetia, PA 15367

cross3466@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Paul Hlywiak
102 Cobblestone Drive
Gilbertsville, PA 19525

paulhlywiak@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kerri Lynch
29 gable crest drive
Pittston, Pa 18640

Kerriy29@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Donn Schaller
946 Bryn Mawr Ave.
Bartlett, IL 60103

divinduck@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Pamela Leos
460 Hampshire Road
Drexel Hill, PA 19026

pamleos@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jacqueline Bishop
75 rain tree drive
Sicklerville, NJ 8081

Jackiecepp@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Samuel Leos
460 Hampshire Road
Drexel Hill, PA 19026

sam_leos@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Elizabeth Hubler
704 Hutchs Way
Spring City, PA 19475

Ehubler08@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Gwendolyn Hester
3560 Alma Rd. Apt. 124
Richardson, TX 75080

gwenhester@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

David Campbell
6968 Forestglade Circle
Dallas, Tx 75230

davbcamp@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Valarie Sample
8501 97th Avenue
Ottumwa, IA 52501

Valarie924@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Cheana Irby
684 sullivan lane university park, Il 60484

cirbymartin@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sandra Coad
1408 n Horace ave
Rockford, IL 61101

scoad41764@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Don Schultz
2017 Chico Way NW
Bremerton, Wa 98312

dcslll@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Carolyn Coleman
1121 Sweifford Road
Perkiomenville, pa 18074

lecapony@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Rick Goldstein
328 Glenn Rose Circle
King of Prussia, PA 19406

rickgoldstein44@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Charles Houpt
4210 Poplar Street
Garnet valley, PA 19060

bhoupt@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Harriet Houpt
4210 Poplar Street
Garnet valley, PA 19060

bhoupt@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Bruce Dubin
22524 W. 61st Street
Shawnee, KS 66226

Brucedojd@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Denise Helms
436 E Benita Blvd
Vestal, NY 13850

dhelms@stny.rr.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Karen Oberman
6630 Pine Lake Drive
Tinley Park, IL 60477

koberman316@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Darol Engelhardt
206 Pine St
Elkader, IA 52043

darolengelhardt@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Robert DAchille
3972 state route 26
Whitney Point, NY 13862

rdachill@stny.rr.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Wynn Draper-Bryant
P.O.Box 29
Higgins Lake, MI 48627

wynndb2@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Karyn Kempke
433 Davison Street
Joliet, IL 60433

Krin85@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Donald Bryant
P. O. Box 29
Higgins Lake, MI 48627

donlb2209@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Rosemary Belevich
734 Brower ave
Franklin square, Ny 11010

Rbelevich@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Rosemary Belevich
734 Brower ave
Franklin square, Ny 11010

Rbelevich@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Marilyn Harrington
66525 W Eight Mile Road
South Lyon, MI 48178

stephenharrington@att.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Marilyn Harrington
66525 W Eight Mile Road
South Lyon, MI 48178

stephenharrington@att.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Stephen Harrington
66525 W Eight Mile Road
South Lyon, MI 48178

stephenharrington@att.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

David Panzeter
210 abbey drive
Royersford, Pa 19468

Dwpf150@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Brenda Keller
261 Teila Dr.
Dallastown, Pa 17313

brendakeller@netzero.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Carl Offit
2 Post Court
Hillsborough, NJ 8844

offit5@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Evett Thompson
4602 Daventry Place
Valrico, Fl 33596

evett_thompson@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Larry Wentz
105 Briggs Circle
York, PA 17402

lcwentz@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Bobby Campbell
343 Highland View Dr.
Birmingham, AL 35242

sam.bobcampbell@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mary Fausto
903 Canterbury Dr.
Mullica Hill, NJ 8062

mcilione@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Carolyn Scutella
976 Glastonbury Ln
Schaumburg, Il 60193

carolynscutella@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Susan Woodall
1104 Shoreline Lane
WInter Haven, fl 33884

s_woodall@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Chris Pyzdrowski
322 Woodside Drive
Bloomingdale, IL 60108

kikipyz@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lisa Thompson
2300 E. Briargate Dr.
Bryan, TX 77802

lisathompson0585@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Bryan Callow
21 Jefferson Ave
Stratford, NJ 8084

bcallow@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Geraldine Cook
9983 CR 2446
Royse City, TX 75189

gerrycook246@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Donald Olson
11297 Beechwood Lane
Woodbury, MN 55129

decrolson@q.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lorraine Guse
5855 N. Sheridan Road Suite 10 C
Chicago, IL 60660

rainyguse@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Keith Reed
207 Robin Drive
Souderton, PA 18964

kereed@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Bryce Mattie
84 Hampshire St #3
Cambridge, MA 2139

brycemattie@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

LORINE PARKER
132 WEST 23RD ST APT 114
ERIE, PA 16502

lorinelparker@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Ronald & Barbara Aspey
711 Tumbleweed Lane
El Centro, CA 92243

rbaspey@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Dyan Hampton-Aytch
25583 Lindenwood Lane
Southfield, Mi 48033

dyanham@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Rae McDonald
2213 Belvedere Ave.
Bakersfield, CA 93304

1009rmcd@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jacquelyn Gilletti
763 South Darien St
Philadelphia, PA 19147

jlgilletti@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

David May 217 Peach Road
Edgewater Park, NJ 8010

philadelphiaflyersorganist@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Weslie Leeper
1016 NE Banner St
Lees Summit, MO 64086

susan.leeper55@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Thomas Smith
2423 St. Gregory St.
Arlington, TX, TX 76013

magictom17@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Shannon West
19081 Hillcrest Drive
Corry, PA 16407

smazzwest@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sandra Hodges
2027 Lincoln Drive
Flint, MI 48503

Sandrahodges@att.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kelly May 217 Peach Road
Edgewater Park, NJ 8010

kmaycountry@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Elaine Schwindt
6 Glenview Ct.
Gibbsboro, NJ 8026

jses6@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mitch Bowers
7620 E Marietta
Spokane Valley, WA 99212

Mitchrbowers@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

John Menechino
7307 Mystic Way
Port St. Lucie, Fl 34986

johnphyl58@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Hope Seymour
516 Rebecca Ave apt C
Wilkinsburg, Pa 15221

hseymour1@pghboe.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Frank Guenther
1509 Madrone ave
Williamstown, nj 8094

Frankg13@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

mark copeland
10256 ridgeview terrace
Birkenfeld, or 97016

copes@bauercom.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Paul Bailey
840 Kenly Avenue
Hagerstown, MD 21740

p.bailey@myactv.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kourtnee Capers
1302 TURNBERRY PL
LITHONIA, GA 30038

kourtnee.capers@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Elizabeth Wessel
202 Oakcrest Manor Dr. NE
Leesburg, VA 20176

wessel3@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lauren Scola
320 Oaklawn avenue
Oaklyn, Nj 8107

Laurenscola@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mary Gardner
320 Prospect St.
Lancaster, Pa 17603

Hannah403@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Tony Taylor
1031 Neman Road
Tallassee, AL 36078

francis.h.taylor@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

William Hall
537 Whitetail Circle
Shepherdsville, ky 40165

wlhall537@windstream.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

J A McDonald
895 Wembley Court
Elgin, Il 60120

jamcdo@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Milton Robinson
999 Weible Drive
Coatesville, PA 19320

marob999@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Judith Barber
2 Calicobush Road
Levittown, PA 19057

jbarber2c@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Joseph Albergo
8609 W. Argyle St.
Norridge, IL 60706

jalbergo_41@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sandra Hodges
2027 Lincoln Drive
Flint, MI 48503

Sandrahodges@att.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Peggy Walker
14704 295th Street
Hedrick, IA 52563

pegrn55@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kim Patterson
336 Valley Street
Amery, WI 54001

kpatterson@dynatronix.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Robert Baney
13362 Keisler CT
Herndon, VA 20170

beachb21@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Steve Macfarlane
3809 Jones Street
Sioux City, IA 51104

steven.macfarlane@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Robert Bosak
110 Yeats Ct
Tyrone, GA 30290

Rbosak41@reagan.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Linda Zwintscher
515 N. Martha St.
Lombard, IL 60148

linda_zwintscher@glenbard.org

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Dan Zwintscher
515 N. Martha St.
Lombard, IL 60148

zwinch1@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Amy Verrilli
205 S Lady Slipper Lane
Greer, SC 29650

amyverrilli@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kelly Cunningham
4519 Pineywoods road
Adams, TN 37010

Kellysuecunningham@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Audrey Cernohous
956 S Starr Ave
New Richmond, WI 54017

acernohous@frontier.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Donald Cunningham
4519 Pineywoods Rd.
Adams, TN 37010

Frgmnst3@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Audrey Cernohous
956 S Starr Ave
New Richmond, WI 54017

acernohous@frontier.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Laura Patterson
273 Bastian Dr
Sugar Grove, IL 60554

laura_patterson@ipsd.org

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Marilynn Paulson
206 Cumberland Ct Se
Smyrna, Ge 0

marilynnpaulson@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Monica Fischer
310 E Pine Av
Roselle, Il 60172

mmfisch20@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Julie Hippensteel
1433 Mims ct
North Port, Fl 34288

Jules2hip@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Victoria Hallam
1802 East Washington Ave
Gilbert, Ar 85234

vhallam@leadingedgeacademy.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Charles Allen
370 NE Whitetail Lane
Waukee, IA 50263

tom@tomallen.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Ted Cook
41 Preston wood
New Braunfels, Tx 78132

Tcook@sagecapitalbank.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Tom Kellogg
703 73rd Street NW
Rochester, MN 55901

tkellogg@wsbeng.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Annette Williams
2320 Shady Road
Baconton, GA 31716

acwilliams62@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

KATINA WONG
8937 BLAKEMORE COURT
ELK GROVE, CA 95624

edwynk95@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Karen Lucas
2012 Bedford Way
Columbia, SC 29209

klucas4@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Michele Gravlin
840 Old White Horse Pike
Waterford, NJ 8089

shell599@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

John Natale
102 N. Lancaster Ave
Margate, NJ 8402

jnat54@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Cynthia Kleymann
10602 Pelican Dr
Wellington, FL 33414

crkleymann@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

William Holmes
2112 Tibberton Cy
Virginia Beach, VA 23464

WJHLAW@cox.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Marvin Marquart
16 Wexford Drive
Lawrenceville, NJ 8648

IFFman1@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jim Mailhes
3250 Roscher Rd
CORPUS CHRISTI, TX 78418

jmailhes@ccfinancialgroup.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Barbara Arnell
4437 West Rovey Ave
Glendale, AZ 85301

barnell1@cox.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Eric Meiers
2761 Cedar Crossing Ln
Vienna, VA 22180

ericmeiers@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Cliff Cayer
586 Hill St
Bristol, CT 6010

k1iff@snet.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Marilyn Cook
4613 Beacon Hill Court
Eagan, MN 55122

marilyn.cook@bluecrossmn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

John Montemerlo
407 Halfway House Rd
Windsor Locks, CT 6096

john@cricketartstudio.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Jensen
PO BOX 26926
Benbrook, TX 76126

james.a.jensen@lmco.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Blaylock
446 E. Cherry St.
Duncanville, Tx 75116

jmblaylock31@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Robert Martin
20501 Goshen Rd.
Gathersburg, MD 20879

fr.francis.martin@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jim Caldwell
5308 Garrick Ave
Fort Worth, Tx 76133

oldag1969@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Laura Manca
9 Edgewood Rd
Denville, NJ 7834

lamanca@optimum.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Juline Zehoski
8295 135th St. W
Apple Valley, Mn 55124

jzehoski@charter.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

David Krug
22 Hillcrest Terrace
Riverdale, NJ 7457

dave@wklawn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Maryrose Neri
7 Greenbriar Court
Boonton, NJ 7005

Shopthebargains@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

David Krug
22 Hillcrest Terrace
Riverdale, NJ 7457

dave@wklawn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kevin Banning
3 Osprey Commons South
Clinton, CT 6413

JANPAN@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Janice Banning
3 Osprey Commons South
Clinton, CT 6413

JANPAN@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Marc Blau
280 Halletts Rd
Mt. Bethel, Pa 18343

blau@epix.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kim Vinch
6759 Applemint Lane
Alexandria, Vi 22310

kim.vinch@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Debra Isaacs
905 Windridge Cir
San Marcos, CA 92078

debrajisaacs@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

LuAnn Monson
137 S 400 E
Clearfield, Ut 84015

davidmonson41@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Steve McIlvaine
4573 Airlie Way
Annandale, VA 22003

Steve@housessoldbysteve.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Petrinovich
2591 Richland Ave
San Jose, Ca 95125

jpetro@fegcorp.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Carolyn Sharp
1270 river vista row
San diego, Ca 92111

Carolynsharp944@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Charles Ross
4418 Blantyre Pl
Valrico, FL 33596

cross006@tampabay.rr.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jim Van Hollebeke
3940 Faith Place NW
Bremerton, Wa 98312

vansvineyard@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lori Naser
10 Nannie Street
Washington, PA 15301

lnaser@statiioncapital.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lori Ann Davini
4974 Millwood Road
San Diego, CA 92117

loriann@affluence.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Farideh Bakhtiari
1808 Old Meadow Road Apt.1018
McLean, VA 22102

jss1233@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

David Pierce
5210 Aldeburgh Court
Suwanee, Ge 30024

dpierce@catalystwealthmanagement.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Michele Lambert
2430 Bear Rock Glen Escondido, CA 92026

mslambert80@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Cindy McLaughlin
648 Monterey Trail
North Sioux City, SD 57049

cmac490@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Joyce Chambers
1215 Locust Ave.
Washington, PA 15301

jchambers@stationcapital.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Christine J. Schmalz
9108 Hi View Lane
Louisville,, KY 40272

cjschmalz55@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Marilyn Morris
3167 Louise Avenue
Salt Lake City, UT 84109

marilynmorris167@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jonathan Stanley
890 Old Post Lane
Columbia Cross Roads, PA 16914

jstanley521@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Nancy Haines
343 Birmingham Road
Pemberton, NJ 8068

grannygirl246@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Michael Weadon
8019 Griffith Lane
Whittier, Ca 90602

mrlcweadon@aolcom

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Fallon Young
2650 Woodside Road
Bethlehem, PA 18017

fallonyoung24@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

bob crabtree 9412 san rafael ave ne
albuquerque, nm 87109

bcrabee@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Valerie Gauthier
32 Harmon Drive Unit C
Suffield, CT 6078

Nanaval1@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Paulette Mouser
445 Woodglen court
Columbus, Oh 43214

Pkmouser1@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Greg Lapp
15301 Orlan Brook Dr
Orland Park, IL 60462

chiefs3189@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

tom raglione
11 matthew road
hillsborough, NJ 8844

traglione@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Ethan LeSueur
6315 water point ct
kingwood, tx 77346

bobspamme@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Timothy West
109 Warrior Road
Smithville, MO 64089

timmyrw@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Adele Johnson
12626 Manette Pl Manette Pl
Compton, CA 90221

johnsonstamp@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Rebecca Keller
686 county rd 344
Quitman, Ms 39355

Akbecca51@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Peter Aziz
150 South Street
Litchfield, CT 6759

peter@bantamhome.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Melissa Fornoro
557 Midwood Dr.
Brick, NJ 8724

mavescovi@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sandra Hodges
2027 Lincoln Drive
Flint, MI 48503

Sandrahodges@att.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Daniel Witteveen
1085 Oak Wood Dr.
Carol Stream, Il 60188

kwitt1126@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Elaine Russell
195 Nerren Cemetery Road
Lufkin, TX 75901

Laniemcb@consolidated.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Joe Griffith
1812 green valley road me
Waukon, ia 52172

joegriffith91@gmsil.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Judith Ferguson
778 Milton Ave.
Rock Hill, SC 29730

judyfrgsn@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sheila Camper
244 LOOKOUT PL
RADNOR, PA 19087

scamper939@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Marcella Russell
3047 E. Lobo Ridge
New Albany, IN 47150

mpruss0010@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Margaret Palazzolo
196 ARMSTRONG AVE
STATEN ISLAND, NY 0

pegnmark48@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Doris Miller Dorn
40391 Dorn Road
Centerville, PA 16404

dem12200@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Vincent Rotolo
109 Timber Ridge Drive
Holbrook, NY 11741

vvrotolo@optonline.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Patricia Hrabal
1013 W. Oakdale Rd
Irving, TX 75060

hpat60@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Brian Cantrell
P. O. Box 563 318 East Third Avenue
Clark Fork, Id 83811

majorbriaz@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Joanne Lannon
PO BX 234
Greenbush, MA 2040

sslcjl@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Linda Kresen
15617 Waverly Avenue
Oak Forest, Il 60452

bubbalin72@att.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Paul Barager
13807 109th Ave Ct E
Puyallup, WA 98374

Tbarager@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Vilma salvatore
36 Smart Street
Providence, RI 2904

vilmasal@cox.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

John Thorpe
7607 Plainfield Rd
Cincinnati, OH 45236

jthorpe1000@outlook.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Carroll Stubbs
2315 Colonial Ct.
Brentwood, CA 94513

carroll.stubbs@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Paula Conway
47 Rockwell Road
Bethel, CT 6801

pcon64@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Rick Stubbs
2315 Colonial Ct.
Brentwood, CA 945143

rstubbs@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

james mclellan
391s8 Galaxy Blvd
Sterling Heights, Mi 48314

jim@mclellanfinancial.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Danielle Dill-Palomar
470 Dunleavy Drive
Highland, MI 48356

gherkin75@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Danielle Dill-Palomar
470 Dunleavy Drive
Highland, MI 48356

gherkin75@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

cheryl fairbrother 6128 brockway
commerce township, mi 48382

fairbrotherc@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

lana weed
33-4 barbera st
evans, co 80634

lanajweed@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Carol Crowley
133 W. Mount Royal Rd.
Glendale, Wi 53217

Carol.b.crowley@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

John Suchan
6409 Thoreau Dr
Parma, OH 44129

jfsuchan@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Webster
14045 Manor Ct
Princess Anne, Md 21853

coljim2@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Bonnie Sorensen
1025 East 690 South
Orem, Ut 84097

blsorensen@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Annette Dietz
621 Esplanade Street
LaPlace, La 70068

iteach96@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Zea LaBate
2345 Fairbury
Wixom, MI 48393

zlabate.execueazy@bluetie.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Rosalynde Cowdrey
6107 Clifton Ave. Extension
Jacksonville, FL 32211

rovaco@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Stephen Minker
3305 N. Diego Circle
Mesa, AZ 85215

sminker@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Denise Kopp
6106 Wildrose Ln
Ft. Gratiot, MI 48059

dhkopp@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Robert Schneider
4302 Leaflock LN
Katy, TX 774508251

rjwschneid@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Judith Snyder
3045 Buena Vida Circle Apt 314
Las Cruces, NM 88011

raidon@q.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Miranda Bailey
1636 country la
Creedmoor, Nc 27522

Mirandajonesdvm@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Francis Kelly
6825 Goshen Road
Goshen, Oh 45122

Fkelly3@cinci.rr.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Anne Webster
214 Parks Rd
Jackson, MS 39212

awebster@netdoor.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Denise Minker
3305 N. Diego Circle
Mesa, AZ 85215

sminker@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Rich Bliesener
2203 Vogt Street
Burlington, IA 52601

Bliesenerrh@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Andrew Armot
3107 Mockingbird Lane
Dallas, TX 75205

exarnot@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Glenn Hoppe
106 King Ranch Ct.
Fort Worth, TX 76108

GHoppe8285@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Donnie Garver
621 N Santa Anna
Mesa, Az 85201

garverld@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Loretta Hoppe
106 King Ranch Ct.
Fort Worth, TX 76108

GHoppe8285@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

John Cupp
1271 Gate 8 Road
Anniston, Al 36201

johncupp0520@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Bruce Johnson
960 Swiss Trl
Duarte, CA 0

bjohnso2@ix.netcom.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Linda Christin
7 Mare Lane
New Milford, CT 6776

linda.christin@wchn.org

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Donald Vandello
PO Box 396 515 N. MAin St.
WALWORTH, WI 53184

dhvandello@charter.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kay F. Thomas
3209 Bledsoe Place
Lexington, KY 40509

kfrances3209@twc.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Craig Swartz
500 Sherborne Rd.
Webster, NY 14580

cswartz@frontiernet.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Patricia Baney
13362 Keisler Ct
Herndon, VA 20170

pbreindeer@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Duncan Munro
13103 Ivy Drive
Beltsville, MD 20705

duncvb@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Susan elam
421 Oak Creek Trail
Mt. Olive, Il 62069

rudysusan21@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Beverly Ryan
5 Fox Ridge Drive
New Milford, CT 6776

ryansplus3@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mary ross
421 Oak Creek Trail
Mt. Olive, Il 62069

rudysusan21@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Reese Rowland
710 NE 16th st
Trenton, fl 32693

reese@naturecoastinsurance.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Debra Wolensky-Chiaradonna
333 Strathmore Drive
Bryn Mawr, PA 19010

chiaradonnad@chc.edu

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Karen Mark
106 Redstone Ridge Drive
Deptford, NJ 8096

kmark@gcecnj.org

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Willard Gore
4060 FM 1249 E
Kilgore, TX 75662

wlgore@cablelynx.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Michael Reed
1009 Old Bethlehem Road
Perkasie, PA 18944

mikekarenreed@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Arnett Chisholm
35724 Abbey Dr.
Romulus, Mi 48174

achisholm@wccnet.edu

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mitzi Baker
4119 Bethlehem Rd
Springfield, TN 37172

mitzi.baker640@topper.wku.edu

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

ALFRED WOODS
2370B BEDFORD AVENUE
BELLMORE, NY 11710

hyperharry53@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

mavis lehman 21594 cedar rd elgin, ia 52141

mavis@alpineco.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Victoria Tucker
5906 Constitution Court
North Wales, PA 19454

vickytucker@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kelsey Gold
2620 Webster Street
Philadelphia, PA 19146

kelsey.l.gold@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Robyn Megara
426 Locust Court
Glassboro, NJ 8028

robynmegara@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Endres
2239 Cumberland Dr
Troy, MI 48085

james.endres1@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Endres
2239 Cumberland Dr
Troy, MI 48085

james.endres1@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Andrea Kline
4628 Anthony Dr
Coplay, PA 18037

andreak333@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Shawn Rotondo
4628 Anthony Dr
Coplay, PA 18037

shawnr100@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Michael Kroft
2717 King Street
Endwell, NY 13760

makroft@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Frank Ferrandino
4981 tarrington drive hoffman Estates, il 60010

fferrandino@cs.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Endres
2239 Cumberland Dr
Troy, MI 48085

james.endres1@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Endres
2239 Cumberland Dr
Troy, MI 48085

james.endres1@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Endres
2239 Cumberland Dr
Troy, MI 48085

james.endres1@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Endres
2239 Cumberland Dr
Troy, MI 48085

james.endres1@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Endres
2239 Cumberland Dr
Troy, MI 48085

james.endres1@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Endres
2239 Cumberland Dr
Troy, MI 48085

james.endres1@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Endres
2239 Cumberland Dr
Troy, MI 48085

james.endres1@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Endres
2239 Cumberland Dr
Troy, MI 48085

james.endres1@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Endres
2239 Cumberland Dr
Troy, MI 48085

james.endres1@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Tanya Jackson
4524 S Sycamore Ave
Broken Arrow, OK 74011

tk.jaxn95@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Michael Messina
125 Thistle Lane
Bellefonte, PA 16823

mgm20@psu.edu

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Endres
2239 Cumberland Dr
Troy, MI 48085

james.endres1@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Endres
2239 Cumberland Dr
Troy, MI 48085

james.endres1@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mary Tamosaitis
6 Scott Drive
Plymouth, MA 2360

mrstnurse@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mary Tamosaitis
6 Scott Drive
Plymouth, MA 2360

mrstnurse@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Tanesha Lively
6237 West Jefferson Street 2W
Philadelphia, PA 19151

neshabear31@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Steve Davis
106 Crockett
Lake Kiowa, TX 76240

daviss@grayson.edu

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

john spink
3032 iris way
louisville, ky 40220

granpapa3@bellsouth.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Amy Bay
200 North Pickett Street 1607
Alexandria, VA 22304

teachgt3@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Rhonda Conrad
13533 Angle Road
Ottumwa, IA 52501

r.conrad@mchsi.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jack Miller
16 Nordic Dr
Woodbine, NJ 8270

spadefoot53@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Gretchen Grinley
352 Martin Street
Philadelphia, PA 19128

ggrinley@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Patricia Russo
2842 S. Sydenham St.
Phila, PA 19145

prusso@catchinc.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Federico Garza 2218 Charleston Dr.
Mansfield, TX 76063

fredgarza@misdmail.org

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Damian Saracina
6 West ave
Batavia, ny 14020

dsaracina@usg.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Tom Weldon
6218 Crescent Ave
Bensalem, Pa 19020

hunter19020@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Glen Derner
49 comanche trail
denville, NJ 7834

gcderner@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lynn Braud
36223 Bluff Oaks Avenue
Prairieville, LA 70769

braudlmjb@eatel.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kathleen C Waldron
5236 East Lake Road
Livonia, NY 14487

kcw1@rochester.rr.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Robert Reilley
309 Park Ave.
Harleysville, PA 19438

rjsp309@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Maureen Scallatino
9342 Lansford Street
Philadelphia, PA 19114

mescallatino@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Erika Pierce
4094 Windsor Castle Way
Decatur, GA 30034

erikaannpierce@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Steve Moore
3208 hilltop dr
danville, Il 61834

rxaltinc1@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jeffrey Hadden
904 Cedar St.
Riverton, NJ 8077

Hadalper@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Debra Zasada
19 Blatherwick Drive
Berlin, NJ 8009

debra011@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Soren Sorensen
11049 W White Mt Road
Sun City, AZ 85351

mitzisps@cox.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Stan Schuster
3107 52nd Avenue Drive West
Bradenton, FL 34207

StanFL@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

PAT LINTON
3917 MIRIAM DR
CHARLOTTE, NC 28205

Patlinton@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

billy donaldson
14 evergreen drive
voorhees, NJ 8043

billydonaldson@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

billy donaldson
14 evergreen drive
voorhees, NJ 8043

billydonaldson@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Gary Davis
1147 Edge Hill Rd Abington, PA 19001

garybdavis@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Melvin Miles
9552 Falcon Lane
Mason, oh 45040

melvincarol50@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Galen Cleveland
116 Southdale Dr
Hartford, KY 42347

clevel_g@bellsouth.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Randol Weir
4851 NE 195 Ct
Williston, Fl 32696

Weircr@icloud.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Gerald Gomes
26 Hill Drive
Bohemia, NY 11716

grgomes@optonline.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Glenda Minzey
7029 E Richfield Rd
Davison, Mi 48423

Gbm7029@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Katharine Nice
1044 Cemetery Rd.
Schwenksville, PA 19473

kateisnice17@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Roger Peppel
111 Crestwood Ave.
Waverly, IA 50677

packfan_7@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Maggie Pack
230 Hubert Ct. None
Owensboro, KY 42303

epnwtf@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Glenda Minzey
7029 E Richfield Rd
Davison, Mi 48423

Gbm7029@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Chester Pack
230 Hubert Ct. None
Owensboro, KY 42303

cpack1946@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Gary L Waldron
5236 East Lake Road
Livonia, NY 14487

glw803@rochester.rr.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mary Nardo
520 Chariot Court
Wilmington, DE 19808

mary.nardo@doe.k12.de.us

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Patricia Foley
3012 Watsonia Dr.
Zebulon, NC 27597

pfoley@capitalanalystsnc.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Nicole Monson
461 W School House Lane
Philadelphia, PA 19144

nicole.monson@phila.gov

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

conrad carlson
8880 wattsburg rd
erie, pa 16509

swedishcowbow1@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mary Baker
52 Davis Hill Rd.
Paxton, MA 1612

mabpaxton@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

roseann borda
15 shadow stone dr
blackwood, nj 8012

roe2012@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Everett Thompson
201 Dunns Lane
Richmond, MO 64085

ethompson46@afo.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Everett Thompson
201 Dunns Lane
Richmond, MO 64085

ethompson46@afo.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Alfonso Everett
1404 Hawthorne st
Pittsburgh, Pa 15201

aeverett1@pghboe.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Walter Tucker
5906 Constitution Court
North Wales, PA 19454

vickytucker@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Miller Williams
1769 Second Street
Lutcher, LA 70071

miller.williams22@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lucss Foster
573 Darwin Ct.
Saline, MI 48176

lucasfoster2009@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Martha Zanger
1105 Broadwood Drive
Rockville, MD 20851

martha_a_zanger@mcpsmd.org

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Lange
12680 Concord Hall Dr
Johns Creek, GA 30005

jlange@arcapita.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Brian Yahner
44 Conyngham Crest Dr.
Sugarloaf, PA 18249

brianmtg@epix.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

KATHRYN GRABLER
451 S NORTHWEST HWY APT A
PARK RIDGE, IL 60068

KATHYGRABLER@GMAIL.COM

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Scott Youell
3003 Sycamore st
Martinez, CA 94553

hunt2liv@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Alvin Pryor
795 Hammond dr 203
Atlanta, Ga 30338

Tp44@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Adrian Knight
304 Fenton Rd
Longview, TX 75604

cattlemansale@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Daniel Moore
P.O. Box186
Kelso, Mo 63758

dannymoore1227@att.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Doris Moore
P.O. Box 186
Kelso, Mo 63758

dannymoore1227@att.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jude LaFrancis
409 N. Dale Ave.
McHenry, IL 60050

jude.la@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Joan Thomas
7644 Brandywine Cir Trexlertown, PA 18087

joanthomas18@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mary Newman
2009 Noble Road
Raleigh, Nc 27608

Mary.talbert.nEwman@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Alma Rodriguez
2119 Cardinal Drive
Glendale Heights, IL 60139

arodriguez@lphs.org

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Samuel Kaemmerling
P.O. Box 3176
Lufkin, TX 75903

kkaemmerling@kilgore.edu

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lauren Stolzer
329 East 3rd Ave
Runnemede, NJ 8078

laurystar11@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

james waldman
423 W 10 st
kansas city, Mi 64105

awally_9@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jennifer Noelle DuBois
1459 N. Rochester Rd
Oakland, MI 48363

jnoelledubois@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Cindy Reittinger
2896 Cartwright Dr.
Decatur, GA 30033

reittinger1@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Joan Hacker
PO Box 178
Harpursville, NY 13787

hacpac1gt@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Pauline Boisvert
36 A Street
Hudson, NH 3051

mrmrsb36@myfairpoint.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Johnna Shumate
1303 8th St So
Nampa, Id 83651

shumatejohnna@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Johnna Shumate
1303 8th St So
Nampa, Id 83651

shumatejohnna@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

CArolyn greer
407 Rains
Glencoe, Al 35905

cjgreer407@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Dana Theisen
3675 Liberty Hill Drive
Clermont, FL 34711

danatheisen@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Fred Gregory
615 Wyngate Drive
Frederick, Md 21701

fred.gregory@mwaa.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Richard Kincheloe
20929 Pear Lane
Caldwell, ID 83607

randsonss@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jack Butterworth
1341 Lakeshore Drive
Clermont, Fl 34711

jackbutterworth86@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Liesl Hoopes
330 N 575 E
Hyde Park, UT 84318

lieslhoopes@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jack Butterworth
1341 Lakeshore Drive
Clermont, Fl 34711

jackbutterworth86@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Becky Droullard
7079 Quiet Pond Pl
Colorado Springs, CO 80923

Bdroullard@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Pieter Schieke
16622 S 37th St
Phoenix, AZ 85048

pschieke@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Judith Ivas
15 Lafayette St., Unit 8
Wakefield, MA 1880

greyt2@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Frances Lynn
4615 Oakhill Blvd. #108
Lorain, OH 44053

fran.lynn@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Scott Green
2632 Bridle Oak Drive
South Jordan, UT 80495

scottgreen02@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Charles Dykman
1195 Robert Ridge Ct
Kissimmee, FL 34747

Ap7.mco@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Stephanie Kincheloe
20929 Pear Lane
Caldwell, ID 83607

randsonss@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Cassandra Wood
800 Elm Grove
Anna, Tx 75409

sandywood51@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mary Franks
110 S Greenscape Ln
Nampa, ID 83687

marwood01@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lisa Hunter
223 Leo Ave
Shreveport, LA 71105

Lahunte22@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lyle Claflin
3767 N. Tamarack Dr.
Boise, ID 83703

lylec@live.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Larry Scott
10920 Southerland Dr.
Denton, TX 76207

larry.scott0805@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lillian Stroup
8200 Earlwood Ave
Mount Dora, Fl 32757

lstroup2014@outlook.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Garfield Hind
2650 woodside rd
Bethlehem, Pa 18017

garyhind67@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Susan Hoppie
6823 Balance Circle
Colorado Springs, co 80923

suehoppie@yahoo.om

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Julie Aguilar
2435 Balmoral St
Union City, Ca 94587

Jwren63@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Larson
2306 E Trail Blazer Dr
Meridian, ID 83646

jim@sailidaho.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Donna Simmons
9407 East Heatherstone Drive
Shreveport, La 71129

djsimmons98@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

John Palermo
400 Tower St
Clermont, FL 34711

nlamb73371@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Joan Kettering
3695 Caladesi Road
Clermont, FL 34711

jkluvfl@cfl.rr.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sharon Sheesley
3022 W. Sunset Ave. 3022 W.
Boise, Id 83703

slsheesley@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jim Harris
2252 Aileswood Ct
St Louis, Mo 63129

Jim@hpvending.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lynda Kessler
1326 Thorncroft Court
Westlake Village, CA 91361

lynda@glkessler.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Adrienne Fell
330 East Walnut Street
Perkasie, Pa 18944

Aceneviva@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Chidley
2234 S. Madison St.
Denver, CO 80210

j_chidley@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mary Maykel
5955 Conductors Pt
Colorado Springs, CO 80924

Memredding@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Karen Jones
2010 n. Snake River Lane
Spokane Valley, WA 99016

jonkob@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Karen Alm
2102 Theresa St
Mendota Heights, Mi 55120

karenalm@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Cathy Emmons
6914 Gabbert Drive
Liberty, MO 64068

catstype@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Martin Flanagan
43 Walnut Street
Montgomery, Ny 12549

mjfjr23@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Chidley
2234 S. Madison St.
Denver, CO 80210

j_chidley@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sherilyn Burnett
19 Sherman Bridge Road
Wayland, MA 1778

sherilynburnett@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Michael Shideler
PO BOX 917
Lincoln City, OR 97367

mjs_28s@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Cheryl Clougher
95 Delaware Lane
Branchburg, nj 8876

misunshine1017@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

William Graham
2355 South Lakeshore Dr
Clermont, FL 34711

Billgraham777@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Thomas Trehus
15011 N 28TH DR. NONE
PHOENIX, Az 85053

tltrehus@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

B Heuer
2428 Driftwood Lane Stillwater, Mn 55082

toy.boy@juno.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

J Heuer
95 Delaware Lane
Branchburg, NJ 8876

chipahoyer@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

joe atkinson
2151 corral rd emmett, id 83617

doenjolly@ymail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Cheryl Barwin
PO Box 791
Lindstrom, Mn 55045

Thebarwins@midco.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Donald Stritzke
16247 Lonkey Lane
Caldwell, ID 83607

donaldstritzke@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kris Livingston
1994 E. Mozart Street
Meridian, ID 836464735

kris@livingstudios.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Willie Luster
160 Ironton Street
Pahrump, NV 89048

Ilyboy337@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Donna Weber
10748 Barnsdake Ct.
Boise, ID 83713

lwdw41959@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Ernest Greer
14 Naugus Ave
Marblehead, MA 1945

ecgree@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Laura Bonfiglio
5408 Leopards Bane Ct.
Holly Springs, NC 27540

J.bonfiglio1@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Valerie Fisk
2201 N Buffalo Apt 1036
Las Vegas, NV 89128

vafisk@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sherry Wofford
2717 Avenida Del Sol
Santa Fe, N 87505

Mawoff@q.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Cathy Gribble
10600 Holman Ave Apt 6
Los Angeles, Ca 90024

Cathy.Gribble@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

mark richardson
6103 roberts rd
Bellingham, wa 98226

mmarkodavid@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

mark richardson
6103 roberts rd
Bellingham, wa 98226

mmarkodavid@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Ann Marie Heneghan
1269 Hobson Oaks Drive
Naperville, IL 60540

annmarie_heneghan@ipsd.org

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mark Lee
3349 Ethan Street
Mount Pleasant, SC 29466

mhl3349@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Douglas Norberg
10701 Cambridge Ct
Burnsville, MN 55337

Douglas.Norberg@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Patrick Orthel
872 N. Nicklaus Ln
Eagle, Id 83616

pat.orhel@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lee Weber
10748 Barnsdake Ct.
Boise, ID 83713

lwdw41959@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Patrick Orthel
872 N. Nicklaus Ln
Eagle, Id 83616

pat.orhel@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Susan Roosa
5125 Flicker Field Cir.
Sarasota, FL 34231

susanroosa@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Steven Tomkinson
1739 Charolais Dr.
Meridian, ID 83642

steve@myidaholand.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Hermina Boogman
139 Terrace Dr.
Otley, IA 50214

jomicboog@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Gaylord Sivis
4830 Glen Coe Street
leesburg, FL 34748

bsivis@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

John Dukes
236 Weydon Road
Worthington, OH 43085

jdukes1@juno.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Robert Cartier
10832 poinciana dr
Clermont, Fl 34711

Bobcartier1959@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Ron Miller
11213 W. Netherland Dr.
Boise, Id 83709

ronmiller11213@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Gwen Miller
11213 W. Netherland Dr.
Boise, Id 83709

ronmiller11213@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lewis Dyer
10551 W Hollandale Dr
Boise, Id 83709

Idahoscout2@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Diana Brown
2155 Saint Ives Court
Clermont, FL 34711

seastar4710@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Thomas Serafin
13843 Co. Rd.!8 P.O.Box 666
Park Rapids, Mn 56470

tserafin1@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Ted Yancu
19349 Lambeth Ct.
Riverside, CA 92508

ctyancu@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Alfred Trainor
5 Worcester Road
Peabody, Ma 1960

papatrai@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Laura Caffrey
6719 millime ct
new market, MD 21774

frankandlauracaffrey@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Karen Snow
2684 N 1525 E
Layton, UT 84040

snowqueen2323@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Susan Messina
3 Kirmes Rd
Stoneham, Ma 2180

Susan.messina@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

patricia hackenberg 8824 village green boulevard
clermont, fl 34711

pocopah@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jennifer Bauder
20417 N Mt Carlton Rd
Mead, Wa 99021

softball15jen@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Darwin Ronngren
728 S. Jerstad Lane
Spokane Valley, Wa 99016

dndronngren@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

kelly Hass
1n431 Glenrise Ave
Glen Ellyn, IL 60137

kelly_hass@glenbard.org

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Richard Siegel
1761 Livingston Avenue
Saint Paul, MN 55118

Rmsiegel54@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Martha Canfield
2811 Indian Farm Ln. NW
Albuquerque, NM 87107

marticanf@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Don Stephan
926 Winding Way
Middleton, WI 53562

dn751@tds.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Myra DiBianca
865 Harrison Ave.
Mays Landing, NJ 8330

Myradib@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Susan Northcutt
11005Key lime Drive
Clermont, FL 34711

Tincup005@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Ray Quiñones
3906 Caravel Lane
Valrico, FL 33596

Rbquinones@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Ron Olson
4270 S. Trailridge Ave
Boise, ID 83716

rolson50@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mark Pintar
12309 Moorpark St #2
Studio City, Ca 91604

masteringclearcommunication@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Richard Fink
18 Arundel St.
Andover, MA 1810

rfink978@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Arnie Magid
27 Fox Mead
Suffield, CT 6078

arnie@oxfordfinancial.biz

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Robert Murray
209lightning st
Mt Home, ID 83647

bobbyrr24@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Karen Perry
26830 W 6 Mile Rd.
Redford, MI 48240

kperry3@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jane Franklin
17843 Columbus Ct,
Orland Park, IL 60467

jfrank708@att.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Marilyn Harrison
325 Kempton St. Apt.512
Spring Valley, CA 91977

themickmaster@cox.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Teri Specktor
1761 Livingston Avenue
Saint Paul, MN 55118

Teririck1761@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Teri Specktor
1761 Livingston Avenue
Saint Paul, MN 55118

Taririck1761@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Teri Specktor
1761 Livingston Avenue
West Saint Paul, MN 55118

Teririck1761@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Alex Jolly
324 Bay Park Drive
Brandon, Ms 39047

rvingagj@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Tracy Herzog
503 10th Ave South
Nampa, ID 83651

herzogtracy@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Robert Steward
2033 Parkridge Drive
Hurst, TX 76054

rob.stew@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Dermon Sox
178 Cokesdale Rd.
Columbia, SC 29212

dermonjean@bellsouth.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mary Frances Maples
7421 Arbor Oaks Dr.
Dallas, TX 75248

Fran_maples@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

kenneth pack
668 stableford circle owensboro, Ke 42303

kenpackk@bellsouth.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

MARY VISCIONE
490 NE 150TH AVE
WILLISTON, FL 32696

MBVISC@AOL.COM

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Alan lee Litvin
25 Stella Dr
Churchville, PA 18966

Dr_auto@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Natalee Bryant
3432 Charlemagne Dr.
DECATUR, GA 30034

peach61029@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Storm
P. O. Box 162 1248 Burger Hollow Road
Gilbert, PA 18331

mjstorm@ptd.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Stephanie Buchanan
1740 Elm Ave
Northbrook, IL 600625457

sbuchanan@reagan.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kenneth Klamm
1512 E. Emmerson Lane
Mount Prospect, il 60056

kenklamm@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Rita Harper
826 foxfire dr
Lawrenceville, Ga 30044

Reets217@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Joyce Durkin
220 Providence Place
Mountville, PA 17554

joycedurkin@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Morris & Susan Wolbransky
533 grant st.
Newtown, Pa 18940

Gertiebirdie@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Janet Stoffer
5818 East Lake Rd
Conesus, NY 0

jstoffer@rochester.rr.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Robert Stoffer
5818 East Lake Rd
Conesus, NY 14435

jstoffer@rochester.rr.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Larry Wick
4510 Flintlock dr
Louisville, Ky 40216

Davidson84@icloud.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sherry King
722 Old Colony Drive
Richmond, TX 77406

slking3@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Marilyn Masiarz
1636 Ashland Ave. Unit 608
Des Plaines, IL 60016

mmasiarz@wideopenwest.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Richard Ballard
303 N. 1st. St.
Nyssa, Or 97913

smilinmike32@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

LINDA REYNOLDS
2519 W KIEST BLVD
DALLAS, TX 0

bell5562@att.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kelli Larson
2306 E Trail Blazer Dr
Meridian, ID 83646

kl@stringsongs.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Faith Mitchell
3330 N Manchester St
Boise, ID 83704

faithmi@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lawrence Perry
26830 W 6 Mile Rd.
Redford, MI 48240

lperry3@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sally Loeb
26533 Stste Rd 19
Howey in the Hills, FL 34737

Sallyloeb123@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Randee Talley
14974 Bushy Park Rd
Woodbine, Md 21797

ranscabin@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Randee Talley
14974 Bushy Park Rd
Woodbine, Md 21797

ranscabin@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Hersh Mauskar
1587 silhouette dr Clermont
Clermont, Fl 34711

hersh563@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

David Skyberg
3330 N. Manchester St
Boise, ID 83705

dskyberg@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Judy Davis
144 Whitwood Cir
Columbia, SC 29212

jvelo41@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Randee Talley
14974 Bushy Park Road
Woodbine, Md 21797

ranscabin@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Larry & Lynette Edgerton
17172 Stiehl Creek Dr.
Nampa, ID 83687

ledge41@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Ernest Coursolle
8 Winnebago Trace
Cherokee Village, AR 72529

ellisrock@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Neeta Mauskar
1587 silhouette dr
Clermont, Fl 34712

dmauskar@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

John Spencer
115 Scarbrough Lane
Buchanan, Tn 38222

johnrspencer1949@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Tony Morren
2212 Swallow Lane
Lewisville, tx 75077

tonym1234@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sandra Wagoner
64140 E Meander Drive
Tucson, AZ 85739

sandralwagoner@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Elaine Black 4925 Cypress Ave
Carmichael, Ca 95608

onceacook@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sharon McGrath
159 Main St
Stoneham, M 2180

Smacquamarine076@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sheryl Nugent
64140 E Meander Dr
Tucson, AZ 85739

Fish41344@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Deborah Callahan
6925 Oak Hill Circle
Shreveport, LA 71106

bcvminnie@bellsouth.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mary LaChiussa
339 West Montrose Street
Clermont, FL 34711

cainc.mary1001@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mark Powell
506 Pine Greenfield, Il 62044

jmpowell6@frontier.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Barbara Potts
102 Hollywood Avene
Reading, PA 19606

pottsbee@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Tracey Sorenson
1864 E Summercove Dr
Meridian, ID 83646

traceyandeendy@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kevin Diers
5750 Dynasty Ridge Ct.
Colorado Springs, CO 80918

Kevin.diers@issinc.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Rebecca Finne
6900 West 105th Street
Bloomington, MN 554382183

BeckyFinne@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Robert Scholl
4430 Fieldstone Drive
Nazareth, PA 18064

desktopc@ptd.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Heather Collins
15305 w 122nd st olathe, KS 66062

heatherstarcollins@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Maria Breen
3210 saint Augustine ct
Olbey, Md 20842

Breenmar@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Michael McKuras
13512 Granada Ave.
Apple Valley, MN 55124

Mikemckuras@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lyman Fluckiger
15476 Cypress Street
Caldwell, ID 83607

valenefluckiger@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Charlotte Anne Robinson
11844 SE 184th St
Renton, WA 98058

annerobinson1326@outlook.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jerry Howard
3386 Williamsburg Way
Boise, ID 83706

addy964@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Max Burke
735 W Hartack Ct
Meridian, ID 83642

md2burke@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Michael Betz
21217 Washington Ave. #4
Walnut, CA 91789

mssoftware@earthlink.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Thomas Brengle
2475 N Sun Valley Place
Eagle, ID 83616

thomas.brengle@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Eugene Berg
32158 Sailview Lane
Westlake Village, CA 91361

thedrsberg@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Bobbie Berg
32158 Sailview Lane
Westlake Village, CA 91361

thedrsberg@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mark Magill
2401 Ellis Ave.
Boise, id 83702

lighthouse5011@juno.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jim Petersen
2903 No. Rough Stone Way
Meridian, ID 83646

idpetey@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Anne Cartwright
9719 Homewood Dr
Boise, Id 83709

lilredz280@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Laurie Cox
761 Brush Creek Lane
Santa Rosa, CA 95404

lcox1954@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Charlene Kreider
1274 Wallflower Way
Beaumont,, Ca 92223

Teachar@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Charlene Kreider
1274 Wallflower Way
Beaumont,, Ca 92223

Teachar@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Charlene Kreider
1274 Wallflower Way
Beaumont,, Ca 92223

Teachar@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Larry L. Osburn
1621 Bedford Dr.
Bosie, ID 83705

lloemo@juno.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Maria Breen
3210 saint Augustine ct
Olbey, Md 20842

Breenmar@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Janet Neilsson
4221 west 205th street
Matteson, Il 60443

jneilsson@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jane Carpenter
2759 N. Lancaster Drive
Boise, ID 83702

Janecarpenter2759@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Charles Bienkowski
5743 Blue Savannah Dr
Leesburg, Fl 34748

ctbienkowski@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jay Fishman
19510 Marsh Pointe Run Unit 102
Estero, FL 33928

jay.fishman@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Vanessa Crowder
1222 Ridgeland Ave
Berwyn, Il 60402

vcrowder01@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Yang Zhou
4373 S Cruzatte Ln
Boise, ID 83716

rzmaci@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sandra Schrift
3822 Albatross Street apt. 1
San Diego, CA 92103

sandra@schrift.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Megan Rieger
8710 Rugby Court
Colorado Springs, CO 80920

mcrieg@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Tracie Heatherly
2301 Via Camino Ave
Carmichael, Ca 95608

Theatherly@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Clifford Grasman
21 Faure St, Ceres, 6835, South Africa
Ontario, Ca 91762

cookn4christ2@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

vivicous wayne
1878 Britt rd
St pauls, NC 28384

viv@4everbloom.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lisa Wanhope
13476 W Telemark St
Boise, ID 83713

Lisgarwan@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Louise Theriault
30 williams Rd
Bolton, CT 6043

louisetheriault@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Barbara Barrett
26 Chellman St
West Roxbury, MA 2132

bl_barrett@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Scott Tunnell
PO Box 755 1569 Warren Wagon Road
McCall, Id 83638

Jscott.tunnell@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

David Chavis
21106 Thiele
St. Clair Shores, MI 48081

djchavis@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Charles Bienkowski
4743 Blue Savannah Dr
Leesburg, Fl 34748

ctbienkowski@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Bruce Caneup
861427 worthington dr
Yulee, Fl 32097

Bruce.Caneup@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Janice Price
7405 Cumberland Circle
Florence, Ky 41042

janiceprice13@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Criste Bast
2945-D Byron Center Ave. SW
Wyoming, MI 49519

cris.tee.b@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Anne McDonald
891 Lake George Drive
Hobart, IN 46342

amcdonald55@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sarah Ann Bessee
3451 N. Plantaton River
Boise, ID 83703

ann.bessee15@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Nigel Davis
6504 Moonlight Lane
Charlotte, NC 28269

dnigel@bellsouth.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Ted Eliopoulos
3 meadow lane
Lynnfield, Ma 1940

Teliopoulos2@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Donald Johnston
8548 North Park Place
Shreveport, La 71107

donaldrjohnston@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Robert Simon
11228 Summer Wind Ct.
Clermont, Fl 34711

simonbob49@earthlink.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Carafa
19 Goldthwaite Pl
Peabody, Ma 1960

jamescarafa1@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Richard Boulli
1489 Mountain Rd
Torrington, Ct 6790

rboullisr@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Marie Walker
2807 River Oaks Drive
Richmond Hill, Ga 31324

etwalker21@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Laura Rich
639 Rosewood Circle
Lake City, Fl 32025

Laura.rich32025@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Laura Rich
639 Rosewood Circle
Lake City, Fl 32025

Laura.rich32025@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Michael Budden
212 Sykesville Rd
Chesterfield, NJ 8515

mbu8504@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sandra Wolfinger
PO Box 17 22457 Republican Ave
Cavetown, MD 21720

rswolfinger@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Elaine Lovelace
21 Autumn Ridge Dr.
Glassboro, NJ 8028

elaineplovelace@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

J Susan Higgins
342 Fairlawn Drive
Torrington, Ct 6790

Suhiggs342@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Michelle holland
1619 E 1400 S gooding, id 83330

michelle.holland09@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Garry Juergens
17060 Fawn River Rd.
White Pigeon, MI 49099

Gdjelmore@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

thomas zolnowski
912 quaker road east aurora, ny 14052

tszolo@roadrunner.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Milagros Ortiz
19923 Tygart Lane
Gaithersburg, MD 20879

mpg.ortiz@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Arlene Grasso
327 Wimbledon Ct
West Seneca, NY 14224

agrasso@roadrunner.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Terry Condon
722 Pearson St
The Villages, FL 32162

Condontd@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sue Newcombe
5587 Dalmation Street
Iron Station, NC 28080

suebnewcombe@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sally MacIvor
34 McIntosh Lane4
Hampstead, NH 3841

sallymacivor@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Michael Toth
3424 Sanctuary Blvd
Jacksonville Beach, FL 32250

mtothjax@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Barbara Miller
2352 Coventry Rd
Lancaster, PA 17601

Mspeech1256@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Nancy Maguire
618 Cedar Blvd.
Accokeek, Md 20607

faithsong58@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lori Talbot
102 E Narberth Ter
Collingswood, Ne 8108

loritalbot@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Margaret Emple
7129 Falls Road East Boynton Beach, FL 33437

pegatplay@mac.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

David Potts
733 Ashley Drive
Chaska, MN 55318

davepotts819@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Alison Abrams
1 Stuyvesant Oval Apt 4E
New York, NY 10009

alisonabrams28@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Stephen Tuttle
2981 Tuckahoe Rd
Camden, NJ 8104

sltuttle08@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Ronee Siegel
14204 N 56th Pl
Scottsdale, AZ 85254

Ronees@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Linda Taylor
8322 Michener Ave
Philadelphia, Pa 19150

cook2raw@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Nancy Maguire
618 Cedar Blvd.
Accokeek, Md 20607

faithsong58@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Diane Coffin
105 E. Brookhaven Rd.
Wallingford, Pa 19086

djcoff@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Darlene Walker
15 Rambo Rd
RED LION, Pa 17356

darlenewalker1958@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Margaret Ott
11182 CR 290
Tyler, TX 75707

rnbott@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Valerie Riley
6038 Kings Mountain Way
Stone Mountain, Ga 30087

Vallynne31@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Steven Korff
329 Stratford Road
Brooklyn, NY 11218

steveak93@optonline.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Richard Whatley
164 Polly Lane
Stockbridge, GA 30281

rwhatley1351@att.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Marco Ortiz
19923 Tygart Lane
Gaithersburg, MD 20879

marco@rinconcristiano.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Margaret Drinan
373 Vinton St
Manchester, Nh 3103

Ken.zo@myfairpoint.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kenneth Drinan
373 Vinton St
Manchester, Nh 3103

Ken.zo@myfairpoint.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lamar Deepe
5319 Descanso Cir E
Colorado Springs, CO 80918

Lamar_ed@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sharon Theroux
2406 Vandervort Road
Lutz, FL 33549

therouxa11@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

DEBORAH WALTER
420 COQUINAS LANE
BEAUFORT, SC 29906

elizadarby@hargray.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

David Kroon
8916 Ravenswood Rd.
Granbury, Tx 76049

dk1341@swbell.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Elinore Burke
24 Weatherly Drive
Salem, Ma 1970

Reshamrock@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Robert Brabant
11920 Gulden Av NW
Maple Lake, MN 55358

1949boomer@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Glen Gordon
1294 Streamwood Lane
Vernon Hills, IL 60061

GlenDGordon@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Donald Said
5 West Bay St.
Yalaha, FL 34797

dsaid@inbox.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lomis Carpenter
132 Jearl Street
Aledo, TX 76008

nevycarpenter@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jaye B. Pierce
478 East Lake Creek Street
Meridian, ID 83642

jbpierce399@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Robert Muhme
6510 Prairie Dunes Dr
Grand Blanc, MI 48439

boatflower@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Curtis Laffin
9 Daniel Webster Drive
Hudson, NH 3051

calaffin@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mary Wiggins
6740 Old Murray Rd
Wake Forest, NC 27587

Dmkal@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Linda Connor
11240 Lake Katherine Circle
Clermont, FL 34711

connorlin3@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Richard Vanderheiden
P.O. Box 565
Haxtun, Co 80731

pigalig56@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Wallace Smith
311 Pavilion Circle
Saratoga Springs, UT 84045

wallyutah@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Eric Pankey
1333 W. Brumback St.
Boise, ID 83702

eric.pankey@lerchbates.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Ted Reeder
355 North 700 East
Hyde Park, UT 84318

reeder.ted@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Shirley Reilly
35 Ashley Court
Crete, IL 60417

Fob459@sbcobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Craig Bennion
1278 Cannon Drive
Farmington, UT 84025

craig.bennion@utah.edu

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Anna Michele Pyle
1850 Ridgeview Circle Drive
Ballwin, MO 63021

Cheleno2L@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Dennis Higgins
9381 W Calico St
Boise, Id 83709

imirnmn@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mary McTeer
3152 Beauchamp Ct
Winter Haven, FL 33884

mmcteer7@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Pamela Gauldin
113 Oak Bend Trl.
Lipan, TX 0

pamelagauldin@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kelly Chavie
2004 Hiersche Road
Faribault, MN 55021

yogidog2@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

MARY LIPSEY
11619 TIMBER RIDGE
KEITHVILLE, LA 71047

SAMMYMARY@BELLSOUTH.NET

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Patrick Cowan
588 Blossom Trail
Mt. Joy, Pa 17552

Patrick.wilbur.cowan@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Willard Lincoln
22976 S. Lewelling Rd
Osage City, Ks 66523

kblinc50@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

John Wilcox
47 Harmon St
Toeeington, CT 6790

jocko945@Yahoo.Com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Rita Cook
30 Carla Way
Broomfield, CO 80020

riter0201@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Anthony DiCampo
50 Fordway Ext.
Derry, NH 3038

cjdhome@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Pete
1506 Spyglass Dr
Longview, Tx 75605

japetetx@prodigy.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sandy Hinson
1106 Fairhaven Dr.
Manafield, Tx 76063

shinson1@att.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kelly Priestley
442 Tanasi Way
Loudon, TN 37774

kpriestley13@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Nancy Wheeler
2428 s Amaya ln
Boise, Id 83709

Nancy.wheeler44@icloud.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Robert Williamson
2206 Golf Course Dr.
Reston, VA 20191

bob.a.williamson@outlook.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

sharon milam
10705 shady downs ct dallas, Te 75238

jimmilam@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kathryn Eaton
PO Box 31602
Knoxville, Te 0

kathryn@eatontaxandbusiness.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Louis Romeo
33 Lakeland Drive
Port Monmouth, NJ 7758

lromeo@rahway.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Mundy
1545 Sides Rd
Salisbury, NC 28146

jmndy56@windstream.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lillian Cheers
26 WOODCREST CT.
CINCINNATI, OH 45246

lcheers2003@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Zoraida Valentin-Natale
123 E. Washington St.
Paulsboro, Ne 8066

zoraidav245@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Kotleba
83 South Street
W. Dundee, IL 60118

james.kotleba@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mac Bartine
9612 Haversack Dr
Knoxville, TN 37922

bartine@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Douglas Stemen
10221 Linksland Drive
Huntersville, N 28078

dstemen@safewaypkg.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mark Cheeley
19175 Rutledge Rd
Wayzata, MN 55391

markcheeley178@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Merriam
151Peddycord Park Dr 4045 Greenbrier Farm Road W/S
Kernersville, NC 27284

jpmerriam1@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Rodney Derbigny
PO Box 16303
Sugar Land, TX 77496

inspire226@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Kotleba
83 South Street
W. Dundee, IL 60118

james.kotleba@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Kotleba
83 South Street
W. Dundee, IL 60118

james.kotleba@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Alan Mills
22 2nd ave
Haddon Heights, NJ 8035

Amills@lrhsd.org

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Allan Autry
2905 La Manga Drive
Raleigh, No 27610

aautry@johnsonlambert.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Frank Giguere
177 Queens Cove Rd
Mooresville, NC 28117

frank@joinintrepid.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Tom Lowery
302 2nd Ave NE
Conover, NC 28613

alowery2@charter.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Cindy Cline
PO Box 502
Faith, NC 28041

cindycline@windstream.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Cheryl Levine
3140 Philmont Ave
Huntingdon Valley, PA 19006

cherlev@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kerry Salminen
8505 Pederson Rd.
Cook, mn 55723

kerrysalminen@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Albert
1502 Bromley Estates
Pine Hill, NJ 8021

jamesa50@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Stewart Levine
3140 Philmont Ave
Huntingdon Valley, PA 19006

sdlev@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Charlotte Lafon
164 Foxtail Dr
Mooresville, NC 28117

char71mu@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Dean Salminen
8505 Pederson Rd.
Cook, MN 55723

dean.salminen@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Harry Peterson
118 Churchill Dr
Salisbury, No 28144

harryepeterson@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Yvonne Walton
16 Briarcliff RD.
Atco, NJ 8004

professorwalton16@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Bedia Collins
510 Folkstone Dr.
Lexington, ky 40517

bedia.collins@uky.edu

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Barbara Hendrix
401 Carola Court
Salisbury, NC 28146

bhh322@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kathy Fain
12 Willow Bridge
Amarillo, TX 79106

kathyfain@tfc.org

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Robert Dressel
60 Manchester Rd
Eastampton, NJ 8060

Rjdressel@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Henry Pfuhl Jr
3105 Gateway Place Lane
Kernersville, NC 27284

pfuhlh@triad.rr.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Julia Benson
11624 Lanesborough Way #805
Farragut, TN 37934

jkbenson5@charter.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

richard forester 625 tree ridge rd.
knoxville, tn 37922

rforester8@tds.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jeffrey Czeisler
31 Deer Run Drive
Randolph, NJ 7869

jlancecz@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

John Dobbins
4017 Max Drive
Winston Salem, NC 27106

johndobbins@usa.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jim Cox
235 Marion Beavers Rd
Sharpsburg, GA 30277

jimandali@att.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Tomasita Jacubowitz
3820 Thacker Farms Way
Whitsett, NC 27377

tomijacubowitz@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Brian Scott Meredith
3658 Via Calabria
Escondido, Ca 92025

scottm7@cox.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kathleen Cote
1683 FIVE MILE LINE RD
PENFIELD, NY 14526

ktcote2@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Timothy Casee
550 William Penn Way
Lansdale, Pe 19446

tim.casee@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Gregory Schroen
13013 Silver Creek Dr
Austin, TX 78727

Greg@GregSchroen.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lance Long
13213 Harvest Moon Rdg
Sherrill, IA 52073

jllong@yousq.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lance Long
13213 Harvest Moon Rdg
Sherrill, IA 52073

jllong@yousq.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Eric Benson
11624 Lanesborough Way #805
Farragut, TN 37934

mr.eric.m.benson@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Phyllis Alcorn
2879 Uttinger Lane
Lexington, ky 40516

spencerpj32@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Pamela Dubrock
6525 N Starr Road
Newman Lake, WA 99025

pameladubrock@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Ben Chen
402 King Farm Blvd Ste 125-133
Rockville, MD 20850

chenbensong@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Shelly Larson
743 Vinebrook Lane
Suwanee, Ga 30024

s.larson@singletonmarinegroup.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sandra O
118 Pleasant Grove Lane
Waco, TX 76712

Grit327@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kirstie Behlmann
207 cool meadows drive
Ballwin, MO 63011

kbehlmann71@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Fred Wynn
5505 Rippey Place
Pittsburgh, PA 15206

Fwyn1@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sarah Spencer-Hobbs
4512 Idlewood Park
Lithonia, GA 30038

svspenc@bellsouth.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jon Halvorsen
5217 Blossom St Unit C
Houston, TX 77007

walvor@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Dan Wasson
10363 Cedar Run Rd
Traverse City, Mi 49684

daniel.p.wasson@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sandra Lewis
12283gadwell place
Indian land, Sc 29707

lewissa1@gmail.coM

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Cind Smith
3505 Vernon Woods Drive
Summerfield, NC 27358

cindysmith@meetingservicesinc.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Justin Corritore
8080 Cherry Street Ext.
Erie, pa 16509

jcorritore@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Annette Hatfield
3110 Elmwood Dr.
Edgewood, ky 41017

harborl1ghts@reagan.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Alisha Shields
421 Lawndale Dr
Winston Salem, NC 27104

alisha.shields@img.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Colleen Moore
53 Turkey Hill Road
West Newbury, MA 1985

colleenfmoore@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Marc Andrew Mario
1035 Westbrook Dr
Rome, NY 13440

mam1115@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Janice Osteen
572 NW 3rd Ave
Williston, Fl 32696

stayathomenana2000@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Charles Lanford
905 Hunts Pointe Cv
Johns Creek, GA 30022

celanford@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Susan Wolf
12172 N Legacy Pl
Oro Valley, AZ 85755

suziwolf521@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Christopher Tennyson
1221 LONG St
Dixon, IL 61021

cjtennyson@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Leslie McNiece
6600 Springfield Village Lane
Clemmons, NC 27012

lpmcniece@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Robert McDonough
527 Hilltop Ln
Caddo, OK 74729

rkmprof@hughes.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Judith Fletcher
160 Bullfinch
Mooresville, NC 28117

judith.fletcher@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Keith Jackson
10413 Vista Hills Blvd
Louisville, KY 40291

kjk2fire@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Barry Scott
18 Lowell Road
Gorham, ME 4038

crabbypatty2173@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Merleen Bochanski
6 Spenser Court
Medford, NJ 8055

teach308@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Cecil Bateman
6 Coquina Boulevard
Saint Augustine Beach, FL 320806832

CBateman@Cowanfg.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Ronnie Myers
128 Myers Lane
Florence, ms 39073

coleman50@windstream.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Karen Knowlan
21 Laurel Hill Dr
Cherry Hill, NJ 80032658

kknowlan@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Colleen DeLucca
2405 Wimbledon Way
Blackwood, NJ 8012

cacd22@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jeanna Milano
2223 Gleneagles Drive
Naperville, Il 60565

jeannamilano@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Karla Herrboldt
7700 Okanagan ct
Bakersfield, CA 93309

karla.herrboldt@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Carolyn Peterson
118 Churchill Dr
Salisbury, NC 28144

carolynvoice@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Iris Llewellyn
9 Battery Hill Dr
Voorhees, NJ 8043

irisllewellyn@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Richard Arter
4160 Eastwood Dr.
Sarasota, FL 34232

diccart@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Donna Shape
7109 Hazel Pl Se
Auburn, Wa 98092

jodo1215@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Tammy Miller
60 Bunker Hill Rd
Shamong, Nj 8088

Miller0804@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Robin Conant
282 Mannering Drive
Dover, DE 19901

Robin.conant@cr.k12.de.us

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

William Adams
1014 S. Courtland St.
Chamberlain, SD 57325

baddestbill@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Alexis Ellis
1563 E. Baronet Ln
Palatine, Il 60074

alexisellis1229@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Brenda Ballard
6602 S. 3rd Street
Louisville, KY 40214

bb_ballard@Bellsouth.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Joseph Weston
909 Central Avenue
Glenside, PA 19038

josephweston3@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jo Boltz
2146 Abe Ave
Lancaster, Pa 17601

boltzj@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Matthew Ruggiero
10613 Montrose Ave., Apt. 3
Bethesda, MD 20814

mjrpeace@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Tiffani Haught
69 Briarwood Dr.
Gilberts, IL 60136

Haught714@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Karen Locascio
1110 Camden Ct.
Atlanta, GA 30327

klwlocascio@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lynn Grabe
3872 Gladney Drive
Atlanta, GA 30340

lynntullis@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

susan haughton
640 W 227 St
bronx, ny 10463

sue915@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Thomas Guzauskas
229 S. Harvey Ave.
Oak Park, Il 60302

guzauskast@netscape.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

edward zielinski
46 hart avenue yonkers, ny 10704

efz219@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sharon Tryc
17 East Prospect Ave
Pittsburgh, PA 15205

sharon6772@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jo Ann Wilder
1609 Lake View Ct.
Loganville, GA 30052

jwilder101@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Milton Rosen
20 Russell Woods Road
Great Neck, NY 11021

mjr192sri03@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Laura Beverage
65 COUNTRY CLUB LN
MARLTON, NJ 8053

laurabeverage97@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Richard Whatley
164 Polly Lane
Stockbridge, GA 30281

rwhatley1351@att.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

William Bishop
3737 Temple Drive
Lexington, Ky 40517

billybishop@windstream.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Leon Cudnohufsky
966 Watersmeet Dr.
Oxford, Mi 48371

leonskyusa@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Brenda White
3815 Kirby Drive
Greensboro, NC 27403

bkwhite1212@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Roy Springfield
20002 Chipplegate Ln.
Humble, Tx 77338

royspringfield@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Arthur W Pershing Jr
315 Irick Road
Westampton, NJ 8060

ironcrow01@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

George Long
125 Canopy Ct
Mooresville, NC 28115

georgeplong@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Brenda Gault
2521 St. ANDREWS Rd.
Urbana, Il 61802

bgault11@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Robert Hillis
380 5th Street
Atlantic Beach, FL 32233

bobbyhillis@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

John J Krol
3308 Danley Road
Philadelphia, Pa 19154

john@krolevents.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Robin Conant
282 Mannering Drive
Dover, DE 19901

Robin.conant@cr.k12.de.us

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kelly McIntosh
1117 Tiffany Lane
Pleasanton, ca 94566

mail4kelly@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Deborah Valentine
4212 Ridgewood Way
Cosby, Tn 37722

Deborahlarue@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

zita hudnut
193 munger ave
marlton, nj 8053

damommy5@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Marjorie Williams
23665 Brandywynne
Southfield, MI 48033

margie20w@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Tiffany Regal
212 Center St
McGregor, IA 52157

Regal.tiff@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Stephen Bouchillon
701 Shelby Dr
Greensboro, NC 27409

mrservice@triad.rr.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Eileen Holober
6675 S. Oriole Blvd. #401
Delray Beach, Fl 33446

dhyangirija@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Nancy Morgey
39 Princeton Ave
Bellmawr, NJ 8031

nlmorgey@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Anthony Gabriele
331 W 11th Ave
Conshohocken, PA 19428

agabriele13@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

kenneth payne
9912 18th st ct e edgewood, wa 98371

kennypayne53@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Drew Naylor
4530 Chinaberry Ln
Winston Salem, NC 27106

draylorn@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Connie Williams
23665 Brandywynne
Southfield, MI 48033

conniedad@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

John Smid
3390 Cowhand Drive
Colorado Springs, CO 80922

smidja2@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Phyllis Shields
801 Joeck Dr.
West Chester, PA 19382

phyllis.s@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kelly Papa
20828 W 108th Street
Olathe, KS 66061

kellyapapa@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Brad Papa
20828 W 108th Street
Olathe, KS 66061

brad@papasinthehouse.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Scott Grow
710 Kayo Ave.
Lancaster, PA 17601

grows@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Patricia Tippitt
1105 S Texas Ave
Bryan, T 77803

nans.blossomshop@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sandra Petzoldt
5012 N North Rd
Grand Island, NE 68803

spetzoldt@hamilton.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Tammi Grow
710 Kayo Avenue
Lancaster, PA 17601

grows@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

John Gemmill
21 Charles Ave
Stewartstown, Pa 17363

jmgemmill@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

STEPHANIE Bell
829 LInwood Avenue
Collingswood, NJ 8108

swbell@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jack Weinstein
5782 Stoney Hill Road
New Hope, PA 18938

jackw1962@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Howard Ward
13541 Farmington Road
Tustin, CA 92780

handpward@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Patricia Ward
13541 Farmington Road
Tustin, CA 92780

handpward@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Nancy Costanzo
9040 Springview Loop
Estero, Fl 33928

Scostanzo224@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Melinda Schnepf
180 Nahma Trail
Medford Lakes, N 8055

mbschnepf@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Marilyn Rabbai
32 Magnolia Ave.
Pitman, NJ 8071

mwrabbai@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jacqueline Grzegorczyk
3980 108th Ave N
Clearwater, Fl 33762

jrgrzegorczyk@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jacqueline Grzegorczyk
3980 108th Ave N
Clearwater, Fl 33762

jrgrzegorczyk@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

William Bixler
104 Sunnybrook Rd
Cherry Hill, NJ 8034

wbixler@g3cpa.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kolin Korsi
1090-8 280th Street
Jesup, IA 50648

deerman1@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Curtis Biehn
687 N Chubb Dr
Doylestown, PA 18901

curt.biehn@Jacobs.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Rick Copp
229 Clayton Dr.
Gatesville, TX 76528

rcopp1305@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Shannon Korsi
1090-8 280th Street
Jesup, IA 50648

shannon.korsi@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jamene McCall
6956 Farmington Cemetery Rosd
Pleasant Plains, IL 62677

jamene3@frontier.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Karin Owens
6330 Mineral Ct.
Carmichael, CA 95608

kowensfoley@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Gary Metcalf
10008 Fern Creek Rd.
Louisville, Ky 40291

garytmetcalf@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Evelyn Nelson
926 N. Marion St.
Oak Park, IL 60302

farmormor42@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Abigail Selinsky
PO Box 437
Basye, VA 22810

gselinsk@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

LINDA DALY
34 IRON FORGE VILLAGE EAST
POMPTON LAKES, NJ 7442

lindadaly11@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Eugene Samuel Glunt jr
40 Zimmerman road 40 Zimmerman Road
Tabernacle, nj 8088

Glunt1704@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kira Hartman
100 Parker Ave Unit 2
Philadelphia, PA 19128

kira.hartman@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Paige Davis
8413 Grane Lefe Street
Knoxville, TN 37938

paigedavis0563@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Ashmore
1823 PItts Road
Richmond, TX 77406

mjashmore1@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Teri Foster
7016 Pemmbrooke Shire Lane
Knoxville, TN 37909

terifoster5599@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Margaret Ashmore
1823 PItts Road
Richmond, TX 77406

mjashmore1@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

William Langholz
4821 Roanoke Pkwy #801
Kansas City, MO 64112

wlangholz@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

BARBARA A MUZA
425 CUMBERLAND RD #203
pITTSBURGH, PA 15237

bmuza@lincolninvestment.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Cynthia Glorioso
904 St. Andrews Way
Bel Air, MD 21015

cynthia.glorioso@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Harvey Lane
1135 Woodsboro Rd.
Knoxville, TN 37922

hvlane@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Luis rea sintsink Dr west 36 sintsink dr west port Washington, ny 11050

luigir2274@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

carol hunter
340 larchwood rd springfield, PA 19064

carolwighthunter@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kurt Brown
122 hillside ave
Arlington, Ma 2476

kurt.brown122@icloud.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Doris Allen
207 ANDREWS AVE
MOORESTOWN, NJ 8057

dallen207@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Irvin Farber
10823 Kelvin Ave.
Philadelphia, PA 19116

irv221b@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Whittney Lyon
2200 Ross Avenue Suite 4500 West
Dallas, TX 75201

wlyon@bcpc-law.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

David Adoff
1212 Spring Ave
Ft. Washington, Pa 19034

Daveadoff@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

jerry caruso 501 maple ave palmyra, nj 8065

jerry@thecarusos.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Richard Allen
207 ANDREWS AVE
MOORESTOWN, NJ 8057

rdallen207@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jenna Schaefer
4108 Oak Hollow Dr.
High Point, NC 27265

jenna_schaefer@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Richard Holp
888 Front Street
Hershey, Pa 17033

coachholp@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jane Henry
5009 W Jeffries Court
Lawrence, KS 66047

janendave@sunflower.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Shari Lucero
2719 Pueblo Grande Tr NW
Albuquerque, NM 87120

slucero87120@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Aldo Magistrelli
737 Jamie Drive
Moorestown, NJ 8057

aj.magistrelli@whartonhardware.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Ellen Rantz
8036 103 Court
Vero Beach, FL 32967

Ellen1941@att.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Wheeler
56 Iroquois Street
Teaticket, MA 2536

jamesidewheeler@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Tina Gianni
4708 Fredonia Place
Bensalem, PA 19020

tgianni87@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jerry Rowe
305 Southridge Lakes Pkwy
Southlake, TX 76092

techyguy821@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Rachel Rowe
305 Southridge Lakes Pkwy
Southlake, TX 76092

techyguy821@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Susan Nazak
313 Kings Croft
Cherry Hill, NJ 8034

sueandjohnnaz@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Patrick Phillips
1150 NC Hwy 150 W
Summerfield, NC 27358

pslnl.phillips@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Susan Nazak
313 Kings Croft
Cherry Hill, NJ 8034

sueandjohnnaz@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

brianne selino
2153 w potomac ave 2 r
chicago, Il 60622

brianneselino@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

ric small 567 cooper dr.
benicia, ca 94510

ylrics@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Diane Hutchings
2830 Grande Oaks Way
Fleming Island, FL 32003

diane.hutchings@lpl.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

John Stockton
620 S. Pinto Pl.
Tucson, AZ 85748

zephyrjohnaz@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

sara stuart
1922 Falmouth Sr.
Greensboro, NC 27410

sara.stuart@att.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Colleen Keashen
24 Clementon Rd. West
Gibbsboro, NJ 8026

Dankeashen@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Tim Brown
125 Stoney Heights Drive
Salisbury, NC 28146

tbshd@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mary Ann Haller
203A Arrowwood Ct
Mt. laurel, NJ 8054

Maryann.haller@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Gail Green
201 N Blair 304
Madison, Wi 53703

gailkgreen@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Thomas Avery
815 Canal Street
Turnersville, NJ 8012

tgavery@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Denise McGill
30816 Beechwood St #34205
Wixom, MI 48393

denise.mcgill3@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Karen Clabaugh
1116 10 Av E
Oskaoosa, IA 52577

escapelady@mahaska.org

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Francis Fennell
305 Pearl St
Warren, IL 61087

ffennell@aeroinc.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

sandy darick
256 kenyon ave millville, nj 8332

sandyturin@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Pat Lynass
7508 N F Street
Spokane, WA 99208

jplynass@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Joyce Kail
8113 Algon Avenue
Philadelphia, PA 0

joycekail@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Keri Harvey
PO BOX 965
Howe, TX 75459

Drkeriharvey@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Keri Harvey
PO BOX 965
Howe, TX 75459

Drkeriharvey@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jeffrey Kunkel
88 Courter Ave.
Maplewood, NJ 7040

drkunk@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Scott Reedell
4533 Stoney Creek Road
West Bend, WI 53095

Scott_reedell@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Michelle Epperson
323 Indian Creek Drive
Levittown, PA 19057

nanny.epp@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

John Annarella
13014 Lorna Place
Tampa, Fl 33618

jta624@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Rosemary Somma
2680 National Drive
Brooklyn, NY 11234

NYCRose@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

William B. Sabey
2208 Bentz Court
York, PA 17404

wrsabey@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Cathleen Panus
5826 Vaughn Rd
East Petersburg, PA 17520

Alsucappy@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Elena Bartlett
8 Sand Dollar Dr. P.O.Box 148
Grantham, PA 17027

KBart8@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Judy Eichenberger
1010 Sunset St.
New Hampton, IA 50659

judy.eichenberger@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Marlon Cooper
1065 A C R 415
Palestine, Tx 75803

mcoop2@embarqmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Milton Rosen
20 Russell Woods Road
Great Neck, NY 11021

mjr192sri03@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Tom germino
5814 218th Ave E
Lake Tapps, WA 98391

tom@pillarnorthwest.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Najwa Dajani
1549 RFD
Long Grove, IL 60047

Baidas@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Helene Grossman
31 Forrest Drive
Holland, PA 18966

hgrossman21@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Felicia Simmons
366 Pleasant Oak Ct SW
Marietta, GA 30008

felicia.simmons@cobbk12.org

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

marvin ray 2812 hilcrest corsicana, tx 0

mandiray@sbcglobal.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Eric Lindbloom
936 Indian Creek Way
Horsham, PA 19044

eglpgh21@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Anne Mandell
4 Lafayette Circle
Media, PA 19063

whalehead@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Gary Bechtold
5681 Logan Road
Mount Morris, NY 14510

gary94rs@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mariann Smith
205 Woodlawn Ave
Sewell, NJ 8080

Mari9262000@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

J. Clifton Dodson Jr.
944 Hillside Rd
Ringgold, Va 24586

jcd4x4chevy@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Casey Davis
203 Crosstimbers
Lufkin, TX 75904

cdavis@angelina.edu

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sam Jacubowitz
3820 Thacker Farms Way
Whitsett, NC 27377

sjacubow@wakehealth.edu

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Paul E. Medwick
114 Palmer Lane
Ewing, NJ 8618

bpmedwick@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Edna Carol Moan
30 Blatherwick Drive
Berlin, NJ 8009

cjmoan@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Carolyn Phillips
11 Heritage rd
Marlton, NJ 8054

Carolyncdarda@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sandra Lyden
6022 Sullins Rd
Charlotte, NC 28214

slyden9821@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Carl Orozco
1436 Riata Court
Bryan, TX 77808

corozco49@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Elizabeth Olivier
12012 CR 283E
Whitehouse, Tx 75791

eolivier@bockoverfamily.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

MARTHA SCHARFF
13226 170TH STREET
OTTUMWA, IA 52501

MARTHA@NOELINS.COM

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James J Moan
30 Blatherwick Drive
Berlin, NJ 8009

hertasam@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

nancy maloney
215 E Camden Ave F5
Moorestown, NJ 8057

nanyfine25@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Donna Reddy
14817 Hidden Rock Dr.
Grass Valley, Ca 95949

gvdonnareddy@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Michael Perrin
7 bell rd
North brookfield, Ma 1535

Perrinplumbingandheating@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Robert Blackwell
2640 Treeline Drive
East Leroy, MI 49051

robert_blackwell@rocketmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

ellis brown 35 Parkside drive
elverson, pa 19520

ellisbrown745@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Deborah Giese
10 via pesaro
American canyon, Ca 94503

Dgiese@valleybible.org

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jane Kuja
804 S Gold ST
Centralia, Wa 98531

pptra@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Martin Friedman
442 Lyndhurst Drive
Broomall, PA 19008

martinfriedman@martinfriedman.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

John Burke
2528 S State Route 133
Blanchester, Oh 45107

Jdburke9@hughes.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Richard Grossman
31 Forrest Drive
Holland, PA 18966

rgrossman8@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Carol Stewart
71 brookewood lane douglasville, ga 30134

carol.stewart@cobbk12.org

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

william eufrasio
648 s harvard villa park, Il 60181

weufrasio@att.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

shelby henry 2705 kempton drive
arlington, tx 76001

txhenrys@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kara Skeberdis
151 Pinon Trail
Cedar Crest, NM 87008

kara@skeberdis.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

David Skeberdis
151 Pinon Trail
Cedar Crest, NM 87008

kara@skeberdis.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

David Skeberdis
151 Pinon Trail
Cedar Crest, NM 87008

kara@skeberdis.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Susan Volp
700 Derstine Ave.
Lansdale, PA 19446

susanvolp@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Margaret Aiken
443 NE Canoe Park Circle
Port St. Lucie, Fl 34983

bnpflowers@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

jackie Kemper
30340 N. Center Ave
Libertyville, Il 60048

jkemper1@mac.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Carol Lawson
388 Duperu Drive
Crockett, CA 94525

lawsoncarol@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Robert Flowers
443 NE Canoe Park Circle
Port St. Lucie, Fl 34983

bnpflowers@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

maxine lewis 10020 w 52nd terr merriam, ks 66203

maxlewis2@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Michael Reid
31 James Court
Langhorne, PA 19047

mdavidr82@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Crista Abramson
2401 Greensward North B8
Warrington, PA 18976

Crista.abramson@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Cheryl Roberts
PO Box1664 5595 FM 744
Corsicana, TX 75110

cnurse@airmail.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

G Knudson
14 Hollow court
Manahawkin, NJ 8050

skyepipr@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Robert Fallon
20807 Crest Dr.
Tehachapi, CA 93561

bfallon31@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jack Greever
Apartment 1202 620 N. Coppell Rd
Coppell, TX 75019

Jackgreever@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jared Bloom
4 Mountain St
Lake Ronkonkoma, NY 11779

jtbloom+mysavings@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Christine Entwisle
121 West Maple
West Union, Io 52175

cdentwisle@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Eileen Adel Herge
744 George Street
Norristown, PA 19401

adelquilts@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Edna Bishop
136 Golden Gate Drive
Verona, PA 15147

Ednabishop1@mac.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Maureen Wallace
105 Abbott Drive
Halesite, NY 11743

maureen95@optimum.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Daniel Reger
225A Whitehall Drive
Rochester, NY 14616

danny.reger@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

arlene Grotticelli
149 Storm Drive
Holtsville, NY 11742

arla2468@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jerzy Kollajtis
1300 Media Road c/o Bill Berger
Cherry Hill, NJ 8002

kollajtis@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Michelle Yearout
566 Red Spruce Trl
Lake Villa, IL 60046

ykmichelle@me.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Reba Frere
4413 Scarlett Ln. 4413 Scarlett Ln.
Knoxville, TN 37920

Stumpy2c@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Arthur Gerry
577 Heritage Hills Unit C
Somers, NY 10589

ajgerry@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Donna Sommer
980 Nittany Ct Allentown, Pa 18104

sommer42@ptd.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Vincent Apicella
22 Sofia Ct
Blackwood, NJ 8012

vinnyapiella@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Reba Frere
4413 Scarlett Ln. 4413 Scarlett Ln.
Knoxville, TN 37920

Stumpy2c@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mirna Obregon
1070 Forest West Ct
Stone Mountain, GA 30088

mirnaobregon@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Charles Rosenblum
1100 Parsippany Blvd. - #241
Parsippany, NJ 7054

chuck0203@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Patricia Hubbard
12704 144th. St. E.
Puyallup, WA 98374

Sailingpc1@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Barbara Lauer
1800 Galey Sttreet
Upper Chichester, PA 19061

dive58barb@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Virginia Gerry
577 Heritage Hills Unit C
Somers, NY 10589

av1221@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Roseanne Montanaro
103 Yorkshire Drive
Douglassville, Pa 19518

rmontanaro51@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Loretta Hocker
12A Richland Lane Apartment 203
Camp Hill, Pa 17011

lhocker@ptd.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Ann Brooks
9400 Magnolia Ridge Drive Unit 102
Lousiville, KY 40291

Bellabean8@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

David Koeth
3600 Wood Lane
Bakersfield, CA 93309

davidkoeth@icloud.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Virginia Licata
248 Dearborne Avenue
Blackwood, NJ 8012

virginialicata1@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Carolyn Moore
9 frog hollow lane
Newtown square, Pa 19073

Mooreedward1@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Duane Pavlicek
576 Corte Hermosa
Fountain, CO 80817

dpavlicek@juno.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Daryl Moore
2301 Vincinda Circle
Knoxville, Tn 37924

Skyd38@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jeannie Shaw
1377 Kina Street
Kailua, HI 96734

jeanshaw@hawaii.edu

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

William Johnson
3501 Susanna Dr
Louisville, Ky 40213

mrgmansss@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sylvia Mork
28005 Ironwood Rd
West Union, IA 52175

iowabsc@acegroup.cc

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Athicom Parinayakosol
607 N Hartley Street
West Covina, CA 91790

apari6076@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Elizabeth Cataldo
510 Cataldo St.
Donaldsonville, La 70346

esc510@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lori Ryan
836 Green Avenue
Mount Ephraim, NJ 8059

loriryan@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Connie Crow
403 N. East Street
Hedrick, Io 52563

crowdogs2@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Barbara Devizzio
360 Autumn Chapel Drive
Salisbury, NC 28147

bdevizzio@sc.rr.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Erin Fox-Smith
2916 Broadlands Ct.
Broomfield, CO 80023

erinfoxsmith@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Margaret Parkin
112 Kingsland Way
Piedmont, SC 29673

margaretp154@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Debra Navarro
3754 Avocado Blvd
La Mesa, Ca 91941

beadstruck@cox.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Gary Parkin
112 Kingsland Way
Piedmont, SC 29673

margaretp154@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Alexander Valencic
415 Paddock Drive West
Savoy, IL 61874

alex.t.valencic@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Leticia Ekhaml
106 Lake Chase Drive South
Griffin, GA 30224

E20040363@dekalbschoolsga.org

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Leticia Ekhaml
106 Lake Chase Drive South
Griffin, GA 30224

E20040363@dekalbschoolsga.org

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Chrystal Gerding
6 Birch lane
Eatontown, Nj 7724

Cgerding@theshorecenter.org

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jarrett Chandler
1035 Asa Lane
Salisbury, NC 28156

jtchandlerjr@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Elyce Elia
516 Key West Dr
Williamstown, NJ 8094

lacy55@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Bethany Webb
8925 N Clearwater Dr
Zeeland, Mi 49464

Bgwebb@juno.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Barbara Keeney
64 Beechnut Court
Lumberton, NJ 8048

bkeeney1@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Phyllis Logsdon
9400 Magnolia Ridge Dr. Unit 102
Louisville, Ky 40291

Annie.logs@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

James Sabourin
410 Flint Street
Marstons Mills, Ma 2648

sabourin.james@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Elizabeth Proukou
6018 McCallum Street
Philadelphia, Pa 19144

Bproukou@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sharon Thompson
821 14th street NE Naples, Fl 34120
Naples, Fl 34120

sthompson1949@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Charles Cole
12 lands end drive
Greensboro, Nc 27408

Chuckcole20@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Elizabeth Proukou
6018 McCallum Street
Philadelphia, Pa 19144

Bproukou@verizon.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Elizabeth Huffaker
7201 Ambassador Place
Knoxville, Tn 37918

Libbyhuffaker@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Gerald Mayher
10812 S Lacrosse Ave
Oak Lawn, IL 60453

jerrymayher@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

MARK ALLEGRANZA
PO BOX 275
HOLTVILLE, CA 92250

mark@allegranza.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Laurie Herson
800 119th Ave
Treasure Island, FL 33706

lherson@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Geraldine Jacobs
5105 Old Colony Rd
Portage, MI 49024

jacobsedjac@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Judith Mayher
10812 S Lacrosse Ave
Oak Lawn, IL 60453

judymayher@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sandra Roberson
3969 ACR 174
Grapeland, TX 75844

sroberson@tvcc.edu

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Elaine Runski
2499 Wellesbourne Lane
Sherrills Ford, NC 28673

eprunski@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mary Ellen Stimpson
21521 auburn avenue meadville, pa 16335

mess@zoominternet.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

George Duryea
1998 SE Jubniper Ct.
Port Orchard, WA 98366

pudgie675@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

David Zimmerman
1623 Harbor Dr
Merritt Island, FL 32952

davezimmerman@cfl.rr.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Ward Naylor
134 West Lake Ave.
Guilford, CT 6437

wnaylor3@hotmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Wanda Venable
1 Bangor Ln.
Pinehurst, NC 28374

wandavenable@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Janice Roy
3700 S Brown Rd
Sidney, Mi 48885

janroy02@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Deborah Keyes
9607 Hubbell St.
Detroit, MI 48227

Centaur92@att.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

MaryJo Watson
8808 Woodland Meadows Ct.
Annandale, VA 22003

mmwatso@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Annie Grier
4716 candy cove
Lithonia, Ga 30038

Missgrier1@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Barbara Schmidt
1026 Ramona Ave
Albany, CA 94706

schmidt510@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

MaryAnn Seybold
370 Grove Ave Apt. 123
West Deptford, NJ 8086

maryasey3@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Stephanie Willis
815 Greenbelt Circle
Brandon, FL 33510

swillis19@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Franya Wilhelm
809 Cara Lane
Arlington, TX 76012

fwilhelm49@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Leslie Smith-Swain
1203 Williamson Chapel Road
Maryville, TN 37801

lesliedsk@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Rick Jack
12043 187th Street
Mokena, Il 60448

rickjack@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Randy Swain
1203 Williamson Chapel Road
Maryville, TN 37801

swainfamily14@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Rose Trotter
19560 Stratford Road
Detroit, MI 48221

trotterr@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Edwina Watson
6041 Steeple Chase Dr
Pinson, AL 35126

RNMSNOCN7@BELLSOUTH.NET

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sean Guthrie
16 Belnap rd.
Hyde Park, MA 2136

coachgut@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

David Wilcox
2644 Park Farms Rd.
Woodlawn, TN 37191

TNProwler1@AOL.Com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Susan Ayres
12 Barclay Court Bordentown, NJ 8505

sayres0205@aol.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Audrey Smalls
818 S. 12th Street
Philadelphia, Pa 19147

tikismalls@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sean Guthrie
16 Belnap rd.
Hyde Park, MA 2136

coachgut@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Jenny Sun
402 King Farm Blvd #125-133
Rockville, MD 20850

sunjielin@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Diane Arabian
2210 Rogers Road #8201
San Antonio, TX 78251

diane_arabian@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Robert and Penny Vallina
5530 River Park Dr
Waterford, MI 48327

bobpenvall@msn.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Shelly Wright
254 Brandi Lane
Durant, OK 74701

swbw254@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Marian Sullivan
111 northbrook drive
Gibsonia, Pa 15044

Sullivanm@wilkinsburgschools.org

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Kathryn Ramirez
109 Nicholls Drive
Thibodaux, LA 70301

kitkatram69@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sonarith Chek
1635 Fairmount Ave. Apt. 2
Philadelphia, PA 19130

sonarith@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

SUSAN MUNDY
2807 BAKER DR APT 4
CODY, Wy 82414

susanmundy005@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

edee heard 2773 ashburn lane
brookhaven, ga 30341

edeeheard@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Sarah Jordan
1420 Eastland Road, SE
Atlanta, GA 30316

sarahjordan1420@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

David Glick
8189 Omega Way
Summerfield, NC 27358

dglick@psualum.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Mary Katona
4826 Somerset Lane
Macungie, PA 18062

jmkatona@ptd.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Christina Yip
6363 Wisteria Way
San Jose, CA 95129

gcyip@sbcglobal.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Carrie Falduts
1 Aspen Drive
Leola, Pe 17540

carrie_falduts@live.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Richard Hosbach
8283 Dartmouth Lane
Hanover Park, IL 60133

jmh727@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Lora Mattia
317 Cedar Street
Blue Anchor, NJ 8037

LoraRM@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

John Harris
8225 N Marston
Kansas City, Mo 64151

jpilotharris@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Beverly Smith-Keil
1712 Oldtown Rd
Edgewater, Ma 21037

bevsmithkeil.bsk@gmail.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

WITHHELD

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Judith Hosbach
8283 Dartmouth Lane
Hanover Park, IL 60133

jmh727@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Melissa Foremny
312 New Broadway
Brooklawn, NJ 8030

maf5579@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Cecil Trapp
628W County Road 275N
Logansport, In 46947

cntrapp@comcast.net

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

Today, I can choose to work with my trusted financial advisor and make informed decisions regarding my investments. I can choose to pay for retirement services through a commission or a fee. I can receive guidance from a personal financial advisor or through a web-based platform. I have access to a wide range of investment options, just like other investors, whether the account is an IRA or not. I fear, however, that the DOL proposal, as currently written will restrict these choices, increase my costs, and potentially jeopardize my current relationship with my financial advisor. Without my advisor, I`ll be ill-equipped to plan for retirement on my own.

Saving for retirement is already difficult enough. As a concerned retirement investor, I urge you and your staff to work with financial advisors like mine to make changes to the current proposal so that it will protect my right to choose how and from whom I receive critical retirement advice and services.

It is my savings and my choice.

Amy Ebert
39W119 Fryendall Ct
Geneva, IL 60134

amy_n_ebert@yahoo.com

Tuesday, September 01, 2015

Thomas Perez
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20210

RE: RIN: 1210-AB32

Dear Secretary Perez:

I am writing to you today as a hard-working and concerned investor. I believe the recent Department of Labor (DOL) rule proposal will eliminate the choices currently available to me in my Individual Retirement Account (IRA) and that alarms me. It should alarm you too.

