General Comment

I use options trading from within my IRA account to provide vital income to support my retirement. On average, trading options correctly, supplements my retirement income to the tune of about $1,000 per month. If I am unable to trade options using my IRA I would not be able to survive. When used properly, options trading is a very conservative way of creating additional income. I have taken the time to learn how to trade options successfully. Please leave this trading tool alone.
