General Comment

I am a Physician near retirement. I am currently managing my own retirement account and going conservative. I intend to sell Covered Calls in my account, which is a way to DECREASE risk to my account while generating income. As I understand it, this EBSA Proposed rule would not allow Options in my retirement account. I am strongly opposed to limitations on my free choices and being able to use a conservative income generating tool for my hard-earned money. I don't need another "well meaning" regulation making matters worse.
