General Comment

I do not want to depend solely on Social Security when I retire in 2 years. Writing options has given me a low risk opportunity to create a cash flow that helps bolster my hopes for a more secure retirement. Please do not take that opportunity away from me and the many others using the same strategy. I understand your goal may be to protect some, but please consider the possibility you may be harming others. What ever happened to Cavet Emptor-Let The Buyer Beware. Anyone who invests has the chance to get on numerous websites and learn as much as they want about how options work, and SEC filings on any company they may want to write an option on. Please do not handicap those of us that are making the effort to educate ourselves on investing and options writing to try and secure a better retirement.

Thank You,

Michael Wilkes mswhawkeye64@aol.com
