General Comment

I am commenting on your attempt to change the rules concerning trading options in a 401-k account. If you would, please leave this process and these accounts alone. it is one of the ways that many middle class Americans are trying to save for our retirement and be self-sustaining during those years. This tool is open to all and isn't exclusive to the most wealthy among us. Show that you truly do care about the middle class American and leave this avenue of investing alone. thank you
