General Comment

Here we go again with government blockheads screwing up the works. As a senior citizen with a Roth IRA, I am very careful about what investment methods I use, because this is part of my future. Proper use of options is one of the few ways today to increase the value of my account. Government's use of ZIRP certainly has not helped the vast major of retired people. It has been a disaster for all but the wealthy highly connected people. When will you people learn to quit interfering with the natural order of finance.
