General Comment

As a soon-to-be retired investor, I'm asking that no changes be made to my ability to invest my savings in any manner that I desire - after all, it is MY MONEY! Governmental agencies are already way too involved with "protecting" the common working man and women, to the detriment of us all.

You would think that, with the massive under funding of Social Security, you folks would be more than happy to have retirees who could supplement their minimal retirement income through whatever devices that they desire. Please allow individuals to be responsible for their own well-being. We are creating a nation of dependents through all of the govt. programs and rules that limit a person's range of financial options.
