General Comment

Dear lawmakers,

I understand there is a new rule about to become law regards to investing in options trades within an IRA. I hope you know how many people depend on this to grow their retirement accounts. My husband has spent thousands on financial newsletters to learn how to invest in options trades and as a result, has been able to increase our IRA account with less risk than investing in stocks. Would there be an exemption for us?

Thank you,

Mrs T
