

An official website of the United States government Here's how you know

U.S. Department of Commerce

MENU

All issues

Artificial Intelligence

Cybersecurity

Export and investment
promotion

First responder
network

Fisheries and aquaculture

ICT Supply Chain

Indo-Pacific
Economic Framework for Prosperity

Infrastructure

Intellectual property

Investing in communities and
workers

Manufacturing

Home » Issues » Million Women Construction Initiative

Was this page helpful?

Helpful

Not helpful

Million Women in Construction Community Pledge

In May, Secretary Raimondo announced the Million Women in Construction Community Pledge with an initial seven signatories pledging their support of the initiative and a commitment to supporting women in construction.

Signatories:

- Baker Construction
- Bechtel
- The Boldt Company
- Brookfield Residential
- Gilbane Building Company

Million Women
in Construction Initiative

CHIPS Women
in Construction
Framework

Million Women
in Construction
Community
Pledge

Minority business
growth

Semiconductor
Industry

Space commerce

Trade
enforcement

Weather and satellites

Workforce development

- McKissack & McKissack
- Miron Construction
- Mortenson
- Power Design
- Skanska USA Building
- Shawmut Design and Construction
- Suffolk
- Sundt Construction
- Turner

Million Women in Construction Community Pledge

Once in a Generation Opportunity

The Million Women in Construction initiative is a nationwide call to action for the construction industry – construction contractors, trade unions, and training institutions – to commit to bold steps that will ensure a robust and diverse workforce in the years ahead. It will be necessary to recruit, train, hire, and retain thousands of new and non-traditional workers – the next generation of skilled craft workers and leaders who are prepared to rebuild U.S. infrastructure and supply chains and complement Federal government investments.

Building on Industry Momentum

Already, industry leaders and building trades unions are utilizing best practices such as investing in leadership training, apprenticeship readiness programs, child care support, community partnerships, and other strategies. Through the Million Women in Construction initiative, Secretary of Commerce Gina Raimondo has set an ambitious goal of doubling the number of women in construction in ten years. We’re encouraging leaders to join this effort as they broaden the pipeline to good jobs building our nation’s roads and bridges, healthcare and educational facilities, broadband capacity, manufacturing plants, and energy efficiency.

Million Women in Construction Community Pledge

Was this page
helpful?

We're calling on the construction industry to pledge to support the Million Women in Construction Initiative by committing to invest in solutions and support proven strategies to help overcome barriers faced by women and underserved communities. By signing on to the Million Women in Construction Community Pledge, companies, unions, and training organizations are demonstrating an ongoing commitment to increase women's participation in the industry. Building on the five pillars of the CHIPS Women in Construction Framework, construction companies, unions, and training organizations can join the initiative by pledging to focus on or scale up equitable hiring and workforce development efforts to diversify the construction industry. This nationwide call to action encourages companies that take the pledge to take tangible actions, including measuring progress, building training partnerships, investing in training pathways, investing in supportive services such as child care, and ensuring safe, healthy, and respectful workplaces.

For questions or to pledge, email WomenInConstruction@doc.gov.

Explore

IssuesNewsData and reportsWork with us

Get in touch

Contact usOpen governmentFOIA

About us

Our missionStrategic planBureaus and officesPrivacy program

1401 Constitution Ave NW
Washington, DC 20230

Archives • Accessibility • Agency Financial Report • Comment policy • Digital strategy
• Information quality • No Fear Act • Inspector General • Plain language •
Privacy policy • Payment Integrity • USA.gov • Vote.gov • Vulnerability Disclosure Policy
• Whistleblower Protection • WhiteHouse.gov

Sign up for email updates

To sign up for updates or to access your subscriber preferences, please enter your contact information below.

★Email Address

Subscribe